XLVII CONGRESS.

SECOND SESSION.

SENATE

Washington, 22.—Sherman moved to consider the bonded whisky bill. He hoped he would allow the civil service bill to be disposed of first.

Bayard and Rausome requested Sherman to withdraw his motion. He complied and Bayard called up the tobacco resolution.

Morrill moved to amend so as to give ample notice, if the act passes, of reducing the taxes. Debate followed; adopted, 28 to 10, and the resolution was adopted. The resolution reads:

Resolved, That it is the sense of the Senate whenever the internal revenue tax on tobacco, snuff or cigars is reduced or removed, unless ample previous notice of the time when the act is to take effect be given, a proportionate rebate of taxes to be paid on stocks on hand should be allowed.

The bill extending the bonded period on whisky was taken up. Morrill offered an amendment that spirits produced after January 1st, 1884, shall be withdrawn in one year from the time entered or deposited in the distillery warehouses. Rejected, 22 to 21.

The civil service bill was called up, and Sherman said he would call up the whisky bill as soon as that was disposed of.

Van Wyck moved to amend section 2d of the civil service bill, so as to require absolute apportionment of offices among the states and territories on the basis of population. The civil service of this government, he said, is honest, faithful, and efficient; the only objection made to it is in respect to the method of apportionment and removal, and this bill left this method unchanged as to the distribution of offices. The amendment would make it fair to all and relieve senators and representatives from the pressure of which they complain, just as the law distributing appointments to West Point among the congressional districts save them importunity on that subject.

The question was on Hoar's amendment to Allison's substitute for the 1st section to strike out the words "fixing term of office."

Allison called upon the senator in charge of the bill (Pendleton) to see whether he thought one of the chief merits of his bill was that it would prevent removals except for cause.

Pendleton said the bill imposed no limitation upon the constitutional power of the President in this respect.

Hoar explained the bill did not interfere with existing statutes, any officer, or with the constitutional power of the President to remove, but by taking away the motive to dismiss good men so as to give their places to others. It tended toward the security of tenure.

Allison. Then the Pendleton bill as introduced by its advocates here, does not provide for dismissal for cause.

Hawley said the power of removal was left untouched. Hoar withdrew his amendment, and the question was taken on Brown's amendment, making the terms of first commissioners one, two and three years respectively, successors six years. Lost, ayes 23, nays 27.

After a long debate, Mahone, of Virginia, addressed the Senate in a set speech advocating direct accountability of all officers of the people, the best guarantee for the proper discharge of their duties. After considerable time had been spent in a wordy war between him and Senator Beck, Mahone concluded by calling upon Beck to produce the original circular letter alleged to have been addressed to that body. Beck admitted his inability to comply with the request. As to any temper exhibited by the senator from Virginia about what had been done in this matter, or his remark that if the proprietaries of the place permitted he would use strong language. Mr. Beck though he had done nothing which would bring him under the Virginia code.

Brown's amendment to Allison's amendment was lost—17 to 27; also Allison's—23 to 23.

Pughe's amendment providing that examination shall be open to all and immediately after passage of this act, those now in office shall be divided into three classes:

First, those whose places can be filled at once by others under competitive examination without injury to the service.

Second, Those that can be subjected to such examination six months after the passage of the act, and Third, those who can be subjected to examination in twelve months, next, came up. After discussion, Pughe modified so as not to apply to soldiers and others mentioned in section 1754 Revised Acts.

Van Wick offered a resolution, which was agreed to, directing an investigation and report by the committee on public lands, as to whether payments should be made upon contracts made under the deposit system for surveys before such survey had been inspected by officers created for that purpose by the act of last session. The committee was given power to send for persons and papers. Adjourned.

HOUSE.

Washington, 22.—Kelly, under instructions of the ways and means committee, moved that the House adjourn to-morrow to Wednesday next. No quorum obtained and the motion was withdrawn.

Hiscock offered a resolution that after recess the House meet daily at 11 o'clock. Adopted.

Kelly again moved to adjourn to-morrow till Wednesday. Carried.

The House went into committee on the army bill, Townsend, Ohio, in the chair. The provision of the bill that hereafter all officers on the retired list, except in the case of the general of the army, be borne on the rolls of the army and receive pay as of the rank they actually held in the army at the date of their retirement, gave rise to a debate; finally it was passed over informally.

Thomas, Illinois, offered and advocated an amendment providing that aides de camp, except those of general of the army, shall not receive any additional rank or pay by reason of having or being detailed to staff duty. The amendment was agreed to, 40 to 34.

Butterworth gave notice that he would ask a vote upon it in the House.

Brown, Indiana, offered as an amendment the following provisions: That when a vacancy occurs in the office of paymaster-general, assistant paymaster-general, deputy paymaster general, or paymaster in the army by death, dismissal, resignation, retirement or otherwise, the same shall not be filled by appointment or otherwise, and whenever the force in the pay department of war is authorized and required to detail, under such regulations as he may prescribe, an officer or officer-in the quartermasters department to supply the deficiency; and when paymasters are dead, dismissed, resign, or have been retired, as hereinafter stated, payment of the army shall be wholly transferred to the quartermaster's department, under such regulations as the secretary of war may prescribe; whenever a vacancy occurs in the office of paymaster general, the duties of that office shall devolve on the next officer in rank in the pay department. He advocated his amendment stating that for an army of 17,050 men there were fifty-five paymasters and fifty-four paymaster clerks. It was well known that during the war there was scarcely a volunteer paymaster who did not pay as many men as is now in the whole army.

Upon Texas, opposed the amendment, contending that under its operation there would be many more cases of robbery and theft than has been witnessed in the past.

Pending action on the amendment, Hewitt, New York, gave notice of an amendment which he would offer to the clause regarding compensation to Pacific railroad companies for army transportation, and providing that if any company shall deem the compensation allowed in the court of claims against the United States, to receive such further sum as shall be fair and reasonable compensation, it shall have the right of appeal to the United States Supreme Court, and both courts shall give its cause precedence of all other business.

Dunn, Arkansas, gave notice of an amendment directing the secretary of war to fix the rates which shall be allowed, not exceeding, however, rates paid to other companies.

The question recurring on Brown's amendment, the vote stood 97 to 4, and Upon raised the point of no quorum. The roll was called, and disclosed the presence of only 129 members. The committee rose and reported the absentees to the House.

The Speaker announced the appointment of Hill, of Illinois, on the committee on foreign affairs, and McLean, of Missouri, on the committee on pensions, county and back pay.

Anderson, of Kansas, obtained leave to have printed his proposed amendment to the army appropriation bill, providing compensation to Pacific railroads for army transportation at 2c. per mile for passenger and 1 cent per ton per mile for freight. Twenty-eight leaves of absence were granted, making a total of 131 members absent on leave.

House adjourned.

American Economists.

Washington 22.—A meeting was held last night at which the association of American Economists was organized. The object is the gathering of facts and statistics bearing on industry, commerce, and finance, and wide dissemination of economic knowledge. The officers elected are: president, Hon. Wm. Lawrence; first vice-president, John C. New; vice-president for Ohio, C. Delano; for Illinois, David A. Mason; treasurer, J. B. Dodge; secretaries, D. E. Young and L. Santal. The association intends to hold a meeting in Washington next Monday, when the possible effects of the impending tariff and internal revenue legislation upon the material interests of the country will be considered.

A bill has been reported in the House for the free importation of books for the blind, accompanied by a report from the ways and means committee, which bases the reasons for recommending its passage upon the fact that there is but one place in the country where these books are made.

Riddleberger and Mahone.

Washington, 22.—It appears there has been good reason for the Riddleberger and McCarty duel not taking place. McCarty is dead. Young Mahone, who is about the senator a great deal, said to-day that his father sent for Riddleberger and said to him: This duel business will have to stop right off. I have made a big fight in Virginia and have carried my point there with great difficulty. Do you suppose, for one moment I am going to allow you to go out and have a vacancy made in the United States senate by McCarty's bullet? Just as sure as you get in line with McCarty's pistol you are a dead man. I would have no objection to your being shot as an individual, my dear Riddleberger, but under the circumstances I have a good deal more use for you on this earth than I have off from it. So restrain yourself my dear boy. Riddleberger accepted this advice.

A Smash Up.

Bradford, 22.—A Train on the Bradford branch of the New York, Erie and Western Railroad ran off the track on a trestle near the river bridge, about a mile south of Carroll. Two passenger coaches and a baggage car passed over safely. A stringer on the trestle raised from its place and ran through the front of a passenger coach, mostly occupied by ladies, fortunately passing down the aisle, doing very little damage. Conductor John Barnes and Thomas Sheehan, of Wellsville, were thrown through the window and were seriously hurt. The passengers were badly shaken up, but no bones were broken.

Fire.

Springfield, Mass., 22.—Mount Tom Thread Companies' works, at East Hampton, burned. Loss, $50,000; insured for $25,000.

Bordertown, N. J., 22.—The brewery of Otto and Mayer, near Camden, burned. Loss heavy; partly insured.

Brownsville, Tenn., 22.—Brownsville cotton factory burned. Loss, $75,000; insurance, $60,000. Over 100 employees thrown out of work. Fire originated in the spinning room, where a fire was never used.

Milwaukee, 22.—D. J. Spaulding's Albion Mills, Black River Falls, burned. Loss over $55,000; insurance, $20,000.

Alvarado, Texas, 22.—About a dozen business houses burned last night.
