SIR KNIGHTS.

The Mary Commandery Rest at Salt Lake.

Tennessee, North Carolina and Illinois also Represented Here.

And More Pilgrims to Arrive To-day.

A Gala Day at Salt Lake.

On Wednesday a delegation of about thirty Knights Templar arrived in this city and took quarters at the Metropolitan Hotel. The Sir Knights and friends accompanying them took in the sights, went to the lake and enjoyed themselves generally. The party is composed of the following persons:

COEUR DE LION COMMANDERY, NO. 6, KNOXVILLE, TENN. W. A. Galbraith, E. C. wife, mother and sister; S. B. Dow, G.C.; W. L. Welcker and sister, J. M. Brabson.

LOOK-OUT COMMANDERY, NO. 14, CHATTANOOGA, TENN. Generalissimo C. F. Bates and wife, C. O. Myers and wife, W. T. Hope and sister, Rev. H. H. Sneed.

CYRENE COMMANDERY NO. 5, A HAVILL, N. C. W. L. Shope, James M. Brookshire, and J. P. Gaston.

DIXON COMMANDERY, NO. 21, ILLS. R. D. Badger.

Besides these, the above Knights are accompanied by the following named friends: J. C. Childs and daughter, Miss Lulu Moffett, J. M. Greer, J. E. Ross, and J. M. Grant. Mr. N. Haight, passenger agent of the Union Pacific at Louisville, Ky., is also with this party and accompanied by his wife. Last night, Mr. Haight was the recipient of a gratuitous surprise. He was summoned to the parlors of the Metropolitan hotel, and there presented with a gold-headed cane, by the Sir Knights above named, as a token of their respect for him, and as a slight reminder of their appreciation of his many acts of kindness and courtesy to them.

The Sir Knights and friends above named leave at 5:40 this morning.

THE MARY COMMANDERY, PENNSYLVANIA.

The largest party of Sir Knights that has yet come to Salt Lake City, arrived last evening by the regular 7:55 train from the north. It was the Jenkins party, but the programme refers to it as the "Mary Commandery's Pilgrimage to San Francisco" and these of the party mainly belong to the noted Mary commandery. They travel by special train, and six sleepers and two baggage cars being employed in transporting them. There are close on 140 members in the party. They are generally pleasant and intelligent and seem determined to secure as much enjoyment out of the trip and acquire as much useful information as time, opportunity and a due regard to the reasonable demand for pleasure will allow. There are in this company several very prominent and influential Masons, among whom may be mentioned, General Charles Roome, of New York, Grand Generalissimo of the Grand Encampment of the United States; Colonel J. P. S. Gobin, of Pennsylvania, Grand Captain General of the Grand Encampment of the United States, and J. W. Simmons, of New York, Grand Treasurer of the Grand Encampment of the United States. The Grand Commandery of Pennsylvania is also well represented by prominent Masons, Captain Charles W. Bachelor, Grand Commander; Dr. E. G. Martin, Deputy Grand Commander, and C. E. Meyer, Grand Recorder, being members of the company.

Hereto appended are the names of the party as they appear on the printed list, but the list is incomplete, others having been picked up on the road, and it was found impossible—with one exception—to secure their names last night, owing to the hour of their arrival, and the fact that all were more or less tired. They were divided between the Walker House and the Continental Hotel. Following are the names:

NAMES OF PARTY. Conductor, E. M. Jenkins; Assistant Conductor, Frank Brady; Baggage Agent, James Oliver.

Dealy, Mrs. Dealy, Philadelphia, Pa.; C. C. Phillips, Mrs. Phillips, Deerfield, N. J.; John S. Stevens, Mrs. Stevens, C. S. Folwell, C. F. Rock-fellow, J. Jacoby, W. H. Millieb, Arthur H. Muth, R. Hooper, B. Kauffman, Philadelphia, Pa.; C. H. Reist, Pottsville, Pa.; L. F. Masson, Petrolia, Pa.; E. R. Carlin, Fredericksburg, Va.

SECOND SECTION.

E. M. Jenkins, Conductor. Colonel J. P. S. Gobin, Dr. J. D. Krause, H. C. Reinohl, A. Reinohl, Dr. Reinohl, Lebanon, Pa.; W. A. Stahler, W. N. Stahler, Mrs. Stahler, Norristown, Pa.; S. D. Crawford, J. D. Frank, Philadelphia, Pa.; Dr. J. W. Fleck, Mrs. Fleck, Stroudsburg, Pa.; John Tully, Mrs. Tully, Miss Beebe Hughes, Mrs. Anna Morell, General Charles W. Roome, Mrs. Roome, E. M. Jenkins, Mrs. Jenkins, New York; C. H. Bowne, W. H. Dunn, New Brunswick, N. J.; D. C. Huffman, Mrs. Huffman, McKeesport, Pa.; John W. Simmons, New York; M. W. Johnston, Burlington; C. M. Roome, New York; Captain Charles W. Bachelor, Pittsburg; John C. Davis, Mrs. Davis, S. P. Sands, John D. Reinhart, W. H. Woodward, Charles Brown, Mrs. Brown, A. G. Clendenin, Mrs. Clendenin, A. E. C. Ote, Frank J. Leavitt, John W. Zell, H. N. Long, Mrs. Long, Miss Long, Mrs. Ellen Houston, Cincinnati, O.; Mrs. V. Mentel, Dayton, O.; Frederick A. Smith, Frank A. Hunter, J. P. Bentley, Thomas Bardsley, A. S. Lawrie, Cincinnati, O.; H. A. Hall, New Brunswick, N. J.; Theodore F. Nieman, Mrs. Nieman, Dayton, O.; Dr. J. B. Tweedie, Mrs. Tweedie, Waverly, Pa.; Major A. M. Way.

Mulloy & Paul are under contract to give the members of this party carriage rides during the morning hours and early part of the afternoon, after which they may dispose of themselves as they please. The probabilities are that a great many—the majority undoubtedly—will take a run out to the lake on the Utah Nevada, which leaves at 4:40 p. m., and take a dip in the bristling of all briny deeps, and satisfy themselves as to the much advertised bathing which this delightful inland sea affords. The commandery, owing to its numbers and influence and the prominence of many of its members, is receiving marked attention, both from members of the Masonic fraternity and from citizens generally; and if their stay is not a pleasant one it will be due to circumstances that cannot at present be foreseen. They remain here to-day and to-night, leaving at 5:40 on Friday morning.

COMING COMMANDERIES.

Three commanderies are due at Ogden this morning. The Askelon, of St. Louis, arrives there by special at 2 a. m.; the St. Bernard, of Chicago, is due at 3 a. m.; and still another, believed to be the Raper of Indianapolis, is scheduled to land in Ogden at 4 a. m. The two first named commanderies, the Askelon and St. Bernard, will come to this city by the train due here at 7:15; and should the third commandery be the Raper, the probabilities are that it also will come down, for the plan of the Raper commandery was to spend two days in Salt Lake.

The impression is that the St. Bernard is accompanied by its band, the celebrated Lyon & Healy band; and if this be true, we are likely to hear such strains of music as have flooded the mountain air of this locality but once in the history of man, and that was on the occasion of Gilmore's tour with his magnificent band. It is not unlikely also that the St. Louis commandery is accompanied by a brass band.

The Sir Knights of this city will formally meet the St. Bernard commandery at the depot and escort them through the streets. Unfortunately the hotels are literally packed; there are no accommodations whatever for the incoming Knights. The arrangements are that they will occupy their cars and board at the Walker House during their stay. How long these two commanderies will remain is unknown, but the supposition is that they will stay over here until Saturday morning. They will be right royally welcomed, and the desire is that the Sir Knights may have cause to recall Salt Lake as the most delightful spot visited during this pilgrimage.

THE MINES.

A Favorable Outlook All Over.

It is the popular belief at present that mining matters are at a standstill in Utah; but a glance at the figures that represent the output of ore from the various camps in the Territory will convince the most skeptical that there is still much mineral in the developed properties, not to speak of the great possibilities that lie undisturbed in the bosom of mother earth; and as soon as the confidence of capitalists is regained there will be a prosperous and happy era for Utah. Although at present the number of men employed in the mines is not greater than one camp would and did support several years ago, yet the number is by no means small or insignificant, and the output of mineral represents a very important unit in the wealth of the Territory. The Tintic mining district alone contains ores, in sight, almost sufficient to keep the exportation of bullion up to a high figure for many years to come. But from circumstances that do not affect the standard of the mines and should not injure the reputation of the district, this ore has not been worked as thoroughly as it should have been. But with all these unfavorable circumstances to contend with, Tintic still keeps alive; several of the prominent mines such as the Eureka Hill and the Bullion, are shipping largely. The yield of the camp per month will aggregate 2,500 or 3,000 tons; and all the ore that is being taken out is not shipped directly, so that these are not the figures that would represent the ore taken out. The Eureka Hill Company has shipped several hundred tons to Pueblo, Colo, for smelting, and as much is being sent to St. Louis for the same purpose. In the number of tons shipped Bingham will probably excel Tintic, the Old Reliable giving up about 3,500 tons per month; but the ore of Tintic is of a higher grade, carrying well in silver, gold and copper, while that of Bingham is low grade and mostly concentrated lead ore. Bingham, for the past six years, has been the rich harvest field for the industrious "leaser;" right faithfully have they stuck to the old camp, and they have been well repaid in turn. These men, besides making good money for themselves, and producing wealth for the Territory, have done a great deal towards redeeming the reputation of the camp. They have taken hold where the capitalist left off, and many of them have made fortunes for themselves; thus demonstrating that the fault was not in the mines but in the management. The Old Telegraph, under the management of Messrs. Hazelgrove and Mollet, is producing considerable ore; but a full force of men is not employed at present. The lessors are doing some preliminary work, prior to the conshipping of large lots. The Highland district, including the Neptune and a group of mines on Spanish hill, is sending large shipments to Sandy, particularly concentrated ore from the group mentioned. Further down the canyon the Tiewankie is working a force of about eighteen men, and making regular shipments of high grade ore.

The Lead Mine is concentrating all its ore, having a mill for that purpose located at the mouth of the canyon. A tramway seven miles in length convey the ore from the mine to the mill. The latter is running very successfully and under the able management of Nick Trewick, the mine is in a fair way to become one of the best paying in the country. One thing that makes the Lead Mine so valuable is the quality of the ore, which is low grade, and contains no base minerals, thereby lessening the cost for smelting. The Cottonwoods are producing strongly, the output being about 1,500 tons per month. The leading producers are the Job Lawrence, City Rocks and Prince of Wales, in Little Cottonwood, and the Maxwell; and the Kesler group of mines in Big Cottonwood.

Most of these ores are shipped to Sandy, where, after being sampled, they are sent to the smelters. A great deal of Utah ores are being shipped to Castle, Dome & Co. and the Selby smelting company, Melrose, California, where it is valued highly as a fluxing agent. In Park city the group of mines on Pinyon Hill, owned by the Crescent mining company, is doing most of the shipping. The ore from these mines is sampled at Mackintosh's Mill in the Park, and the capacity of the works is tested to the fullest. About 1200 tons of ore is piled on the floor and in the bins, and the place is crowded with daily receipts. With these figures before the public, the minds of many will be disabused of the idea that the mines are played out. The fact is we are just on the eve of branching out into the numerous channels that are open to the laborer and capitalist, and of these the mines are the most important, and will add wealth to the Territory, while the agricultural resources will be sufficient to sustain any population that the wealth of the mines may induce to settle here.

Theatrical Managers.

Charles H. McConnell, Esq., and D. Shelby, Esq., are in town; but leave this morning for the east. They were here a few weeks ago and had intended to remain a few days on their return from California and indulge in a hunting and fishing excursion; but Mr. Shelby, who is proprietor of the Academy of Music of Chicago, has to hasten home, his house opening next week. Mr. McConnell is the gentleman so frequently referred to in the dispatches recently in connection with J. H. Haverly's business, and he has now assumed control of all Haverly's theatres—except the Fourteenth Street, New York—and theatrical business. He will probably run out this way again shortly, and being a jolly soul, will find many to welcome him heartily. The same is true of Mr. Shelby.

Kindness is Better.

CITY, August 15, 1883.

One day this week, as I passed along Third South street, I was attracted by the crying of a boy. I halted and heard the gruff voice of a man, saying: "Now, you go and get that cow," which sound was followed by mingled whacks (as from a strap) and cries of a boy, apparently 11 or 12 years old. Whether the youngster yelled from pain or, as some do, to ameliorate the punishment, I don't know, but the smack of the instrument with which he was being belabored might have been heard twenty rods, easily. Later I saw the boy emerge and start out for "that cow," saying, as he did so: "If he licks me like that again I'll run away." And there's the point. Harsh treatment of the young creates a feeling of resentment and a spirit of revenge. If kindness would not induce the shaver to go and "get that cow," unduly cruelty or severe strapping would only make him do it suitably.

The adult in question need not be afraid that his name will obtain any publicity through me or this account, as I merely quote this instance as it was unsought for by me. Cruelty to children in many communities has forced upon humane people the adoption of means for its prevention, and a "Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children" is as common as that of prevention of cruelty to animals. The man may treat this, if he hears of it, with indifference, and stand upon his American citizen liberty to do as he pleases with his own, but that he will in the future rue his harshness to his offspring I feel certain. There was the retaliation in the threat to "run away," and moreover, a couple of other boys egged him on, as boys will, to stop out all night, and if he ever "does take that advice, the first step will have been taken to alienate him from his home and belongings. To this father and many others I would offer a piece of kindly advice: Use more kindness to the children and they will not forget it. Refuse to do so and they will remember it. J. E. E.
