UTAH REPUBLICANS.

The Republicans of Utah are in a bad way. In their excessive zeal to accomplish something that will "go thundering down the ages," it is feared by many who adhere to that party that they are crowding the record with errors, and the finale will be confusion or disgrace. One enthusiastic Salt Lake, in the county convention, withdrew his name as a delegate to the Territorial convention in order that a gentleman from Alta might take the position, the one who withdrew stating that the latter place should be represented, it being the place of all places where in Utah Republicanism drew its purest and best inspirations. This was a very graceful thing to do and a very pretty sentence to utter; but in view of the fact that there isn't much that is pure or inspirational in Republicanism here or elsewhere, and that being a delegate to Salt Lake lessens one's chances of being a delegate to Chicago, a good deal of that which at first blush appears heroic is sliced out and laid gently on the shelf.

It would not be so bad if those who are not so conspicuous in the management of the Republican machine hereabout were not the most vociferous of all the screechers in advocacy of regularity and a due observance of forms in all matters political. Besides, the manner in which the proceedings of their convention were conducted was not at all gratifying to those who favor the continuance in power of the party referred to; it was a sorry scramble for position from first to last, one in which personal grievances were aired and factional animosities made painfully conspicuous, the whole thing going to show that apart from a desire among individuals to use the party machinery as a lever by means of which their peculiar and especial aims can be forced through, there is no more unanimity of purpose among the supporters of our mathematical Governor than in a congress of Milesian dynamiters. And what is it all about? Two men can go to the Chicago convention, spending their own money, with the privilege of casting a vote each for nominees who are almost sure to be defeated. The honors being so slight and the results so questionable, it would seem that a local squabble is about as unprofitable a proceeding as the unruly brethren could possibly engage in. However, if they are pleased no other class of people need complain; but they ought, for decency's sake, to stop talking about the inconsistencies of the Democratic party and try to cultivate a little of the other article for their own benefit.

"WHY NOT HANCOCK?"

This is propounded by the New Orleans Picayune, in connection with the Presidential nomination by the Democrats. The Picayune proceeds to answer its query, and in a way to show that the General should be nominated. This view will hardly be adopted as the correct one by party managers or the Democratic voters. What the Democrats need most is a candidate who can win, and this it is impossible for General Hancock to do. His defeat four years ago was disheartening in the extreme, and there is no reason to believe he would be more successful again. Indeed, the probabilities are against as good a fight as that formerly. The next essential is the ability of the man elected to give a vigorous progressive reform administration, such as will reflect credit upon the wisdom and policy of the Democracy. Something more than goodness and avoirdupois is required. Hancock possesses both these in large degree; so do hundreds of Sunday school teachers, and good Christian people who would prove worse failures in the White House than did the forgotten Hayes. Hancock will not do for the Democratic nomination, because he could not be elected and because if he could be elected he wouldn't make a President to whom the party could point with pride. The hole is a big one, and he isn't big enough to fill it, although he weighs 250 pounds.

JURIES.

The Philadelphia Record does not want the jury system abolished, and says that to substitute the judge for the jury would be like swapping the devil for a witch. As proof of the correctness of its views it instances the decision of the judges of the infamous electoral commission. The citation is an unhappy one, for the reason that the judges in the case acted as jurors, and their decision was simply the verdict of political jurymen. If the dispute had been tried before a judge who was free from political or personal bias, the decision must necessarily have been different, because it would have been in keeping with the facts and the law. A most inconsistent and downright silly feature of the jury system is being illustrated and emphasized in this city at the present time, where the effort is being made to get twelve men to try the murderer Hopt. A man having formed or expressed an opinion as to the guilt or innocence of the accused is subject to challenge on the ground of bias; and if he has read or been told what purports to be the facts in the case, and the recital has made an impression on his mind, he has no right under the law to stay on the jury. In all seriousness we ask if there is on any man in the district who has resided here long enough to serve on a jury, who has not heard or read of the Hopt case, and if what he has heard or read has had no impression on his mind? It is impossible that there should be such a man. During four years the awful murder of young Turner has been one of the staple topics of newspaper discussion, in connection with the two trials of the prisoner, his two convictions, the carrying of the case through the higher courts and two reversals in the United States Supreme Court. Besides this, the particulars have furnished matter for social discussion among all classes of the community. It will hardly be disputed that intelligent men necessarily read the newspapers, and it will not be denied that what they read has more or less influence over their minds. If there were no other argument against the jury system, the circumstances of impaneling a jury in a criminal case should be fatal to a continuance of the system.

DISTRICT ATTORNEY Dickson evidently does not intend that the verdict in the Hopt trial this time shall be reversed on him. His course so far looks to the keeping of all exceptions out of the record, so as to give nothing upon which an appeal may be based. It is hoped that whatever the result of the present trial, it will be final.

EAGLE CITY, the "Capital" of the Cœur d'Alene country, now has a weekly newspaper, the Pioneer. It will probably live until the fellows who have gone into the humberg camp can get enough money to pay fare out.

HOAR NOW gives notice that he will call up in the Senate his anti-Mormon bill as soon as the shipping bill has been disposed of, and the latter is to be gotten rid of this week.

"Grace," said a seven-year old, "what is the matter with your doll?" "Well," said Grace, with a deep sigh, as she examined the cavity once concealed by a rubber nose, "she has a cancer." "How she must suffer." "Yes, poor thing, but she never speaks of it."

Great Run on a Well-Known Institution.

The famous Patent Medicine Warehouse of Charles N. Crittenton, New York, has recently been subjected to an extraordinary pressure—the pressure of crowds of sufferers from Coughs and Colds in search of "Hale's Honey of Horehound and Tar," of which he is the fortunate proprietor. The popularity of the article is boundless, and will last, for it is built on the solid foundation of innumerable cures. Crittenton's establishment might properly be called a Saving Bank from the number it has been instrumental in saving from Consumption, Trochial affections of every type vanish under its balmy and balsamic influence with astonishing rapidity. Sold by all druggists. Ask for large size, price $1, they are much the cheapest. Pike's Toothache drops cure in one minute.

FRESSE'S HAMBURG TEA.

For all the ills that flesh is heir to, no matter what the age, there is no remedy equal to Fresse's Hamburg Tea. Besides, the children like it. There is nothing nauseating about it.

Gentle Women

Who want glossy, luxuriant and wavy tresses of abundant, beautiful Hair must use LYON'S KATHAIRON. This elegant, cheap article always makes the Hair grow freely and fast, keeps it from falling out, arrests and cures grayness, removes dandruff and itching, makes the Hair strong, giving it a curling tendency and keeping it in any desired position. Beautiful, healthy Hair is the sure result of using Kathairon.

THE LIVER AND ITS FUNCTIONS.

It has become a well established fact that the most common cause of disease to which the human family is subjected is the first place from some derangement of the liver. The organ is not only the largest, but at the same time one of the most important. The venous blood, on its return to the heart, passes through this organ, and in its passage the impurities, as also the secretions which are necessary for digestion as well as for a certain extent in the removal of waste matter, are eliminated. From this it is easily seen that the liver is the great filter of the system, and that its action is of the most vital importance. With its proper blood to maintain its strength, so the liver becomes all important, and no organ can properly perform its function unless it is supplied with pure blood. It is the blood which it should be able to get out of order, and which it should be able to get rid of, that is the cause of all the diseases which it is the duty of the liver to remove. It is the blood which it should be able to get out of order, and which it should be able to get rid of, that is the cause of all the diseases which it is the duty of the liver to remove.

PRICKLY ASH BITTERS is a medicine of rare merit, and not an intoxicating beverage, and being purely vegetable in its composition can be used at all times with beneficial results. It is not claimed as a cure-all, but for derangements of the liver, kidneys, stomach, and bowels, it is as effective as any medicine in the world. It is pleasant to the taste, and is as efficacious as any medicine in the world. It is a blood purifier, and is as effective as any medicine in the world. It is a blood purifier, and is as effective as any medicine in the world. It is a blood purifier, and is as effective as any medicine in the world.
