A FILTH CAMPAIGN.

One of the ugliest features of a presidential campaign is the filth which it develops. Politicians and political newspapers feel that they are licensed not only to dig down into the private lives and histories of candidates and expose to the eager and scandal-loving world all the dirt and nastiness they can find, but also draw upon their imagination for matter upon which to hang scandal. There has never been a candidate for President from Washington down to the present time, who has not been the victim of the vilest and most scandalous abuse; the traducers did not stop at the public acts and records of the nominees, nor has anybody, especially in late years, thought of confining himself in such matters, to decency or facts. The present campaign opens with greater malignancy in its scandal branch, than perhaps any of its predecessors. The Democratic nominee, almost before the convention which selected him had adjourned, was subjected to one of the most vicious, one of the dirtiest assaults upon his moral character that was ever attempted. Hitherto Grover Cleveland had borne a reputation of which the purest and very best in the land might have felt proud; there was not a stain upon him, although for five years he had been before the public, and no one had thought of attacking his morals. His private conduct was his private affair, and the public rightfully had to do only with his public acts. He comes before the country as the almost unanimous choice of a great party for the chief office in the nation, and at once he is painted blacker and made more foul than the depraved wretch who neither regards manly honor nor respects the virtue of woman. If he were guilty of the half that has been charged against him during the past month, he would be a fit companion only for the vulgar, filthy, criminal scum of the gutter and slums. So far the distinguished gentleman has thought it proper to do nothing in regard to the assaults upon him, perhaps deeming his life the best refutation that could be made of the vile slanders.

Mr. Blaine has also been cruelly and viciously maltreated in the press and on the stump. In his case the attacks have been somewhat different from those upon Cleveland. With Blaine the assaults have been largely confined to his public record. His honesty as an official has been assailed, and letters and actions which were rightful matters for public discussion, been referred to though in a malicious, wicked manner. Now, however, an Indianapolis journalist has gone down to the level touched by the lecher of the Buffalo paper which invented or circulated the Cleveland and Marie Halpin story, and sends to the world a tale in regard to Blaine, which if true, is a vile scandal, and if false a horrible slander. Our telegraphic columns contain the ugly details. If Mr. Blaine is dishonest, if he has been unfaithful to a trust, if he has ever used office or position corruptly, the facts should be laid before the voters that they might repudiate him at the polls as one unworthy the great and responsible trust which he wants to be commissioned; but how or why he married his wife is something that in no way concerns the people of the republic. Candidates usually feel that it is beneath their dignity to tread seriously these campaign slanders. The rule is to accept them as something which belongs to the nomination, and suffer in silence, leaving the public to believe much or little as is preferred. Mr. Blaine has departed from the rule, and all good men should applaud him for doing so. While the attacks were confined to matters with which the voters to whom he was appealing had a right he remained silent, but when his moral character is made the subject of attack, and the honor of his wife is brought into the controversy, he announces that he will endure no more, but do what he can to protect the good name of his wife. He has ordered the institution of a suit for slander against the publishers of the Indianapolis paper, and all right thinking men, whatever their politics or party, will sincerely hope that he will prosecute the action to the extent of severely punishing all who are in any manner responsible for the unwarranted publication. Mr. Blaine is deserving of applause and encouragement and if he shall be the means of putting a check upon this madness for scandalizing candidates, he ought to have a monument erected to him as the best friend to American statesmen and American politics.

THE SUCCESSIVE telegrams from Tennessee, regarding the murders of Mormons in Lewis county, that State, make the bloody affair appear much worse than it did at first. It now seems that even persons lost their lives, and three, if not four of these were elders from Utah. Elder Roberts, according to a telegram which appears elsewhere in this issue, is likely to experience some difficulty in securing the bodies of the murdered men, though he says he will get them and bring them home. Naturally there is intense excitement throughout the country, and the lives of other Mormons in that region are thought to be in danger. Tennessee will lie under deep and lasting disgrace unless the authorities there manifest zeal and energy not only in protecting the lives of the Mormons within the borders of the State, but also in bringing to justice the fanatics who have been guilty of these awful murders.

WE HAVE JUST run across an old print which suggests that the prophetic influence sometimes inspires even the humble cartoonist. It is a double-page cartoon by the inimitable Gillam in a copy of Puck for May, 1883. John Kelly is represented as the tyrant Geesler, and supporting him is the New York Board of Aldermen; on a pole labeled "Ignorant voters" is hung the Tammany hat, to which are bowing such timid Swiss as Grady, Thompson, Spinola and Cox, but "William Tell" Cleveland proudly marches past, his head erect and plumes waving in manifest contempt of the tyrant. Geesler is fairly wild with rage over the marked scorn for him and his despised authority. There is a volume in the cartoon, telling a story which words cannot give in exquisite detail. The prophetic spirit of the picture is now plainly apparent.

SO FAR Mr. Hendricks has escaped most marvelously the slanders and assaults which come with the nomination to the Vice-Presidency; but we notice he is not permitted to go entirely free. A vindictive Republican journal charges against him that he plays the accordion. Mr. Hendricks has not denied the accusation, and we think there is no occasion for him to do so, as it refutes itself. The Vice-Presidential nominee is over 60 years of age, and it is clear that no man would be allowed to live three score years who tortured his fellow-citizens by playing the accordion.

THE MOST serious accusation against George William Curtis, the editor of Harper's Weekly, is that he "wears a dude collar." It must be admitted that in practical, democratic America, a dude collar is something not to be proud of, but it is not nearly so disgusting as the Republican machine collar which Curtis refuses to wear.

CITY TAXES for 1884

Board of Equalization.

To the Tax Payers of Salt Lake City:

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the City Council of Salt Lake City will sit as a Board of Equalization on Tuesday, August 19th, 1884, at 4 o'clock p. m., in the City Hall, for the purpose of hearing and determining such complaints as may be made to be assessed value of property on the Assessment Roll for the year 1884. During its sessions the board will also consider petitions for remission of taxes for the current year (to an amount not to exceed five dollars) from insane, idiotic, infirm or indigent persons, as the law provides. Tax payers are hereby reminded that the only means provided by law for the redress of grievances in regard to taxation is by application to this board before the assessment roll for the year is finally approved.

Z. C. M. I.

SALT LAKE CITY, April 25th, 1884.

Z. C. M. I.,

GENTLEMEN.—With great pleasure I recommend the Miller Wrought Iron Range, as by far the Best Cooking Range that I know of, and as an Economizer of Fuel, its Boiler Attachment and Heater (in my experience of forty-five years) I have never found anything to equal it.

Yours truly, HENRY GROW, Nineteenth Ward, Salt Lake City.

SALT LAKE CITY, May 8th, 1884.

Z. C. M. I.,

GENTLEMEN.—I take great pleasure in recommending the Miller Wrought Iron Range, as being decidedly the Best Range in the Market; it requires very little fuel; a person can work around it without soiling or scorching the dress, the heat seems concentrated within, so that the kitchen is not overheated, even during the warmest weather, the dampers are arranged to perfection, so that the heat may be regulated as desired; the Water-back is so protected that it does not wear out as in other Ranges, at the same time it heats the water wonderfully, and we are never without plenty of water in the bath room; the Oven takes perfectly and is very large. In the opinion of my housekeeper (who is a very competent woman of twenty years experience) this Range is unequalled and should be called the "Kitchen Treasure."

Sincerely, MRS. DR. WHITE

SANDY, Salt Lake County, April 10th, 1884.

Z. C. M. Institution.

GENTLEMEN.—I take great pleasure in giving a Testimonial in regard to the merits of the Miller Wrought Iron Range which I purchased from you; it is the best I have ever used in all respects, the cooking and baking qualities are excellent, the Hot Water Apparatus is splendid, and as an economizer of fuel I have never seen its equal. In fact, it is perfect in every particular.

Respectfully yours, SARAH M. DRIGGS, Sandy, Utah.

SALT LAKE CITY, April 21st, 1884.

Z. C. M. Institution:

GENTLEMEN.—Replying to yours of 18th inst., will say that I take great pleasure in saying a word in favor of the Miller Wrought Iron Range. I have had one in constant use for one year, and it has proved satisfactory in every particular. Its general Cooking and Baking qualities are all that can be desired, and as an Economizer of Fuel I believe it has no equal; since using it we have had, ever ready, a constant supply of Hot Water in all parts of the house. I would not exchange it for any Range I have ever examined.

Very respectfully yours, M. B. SOWLES
