

ACCIDENTAL SHOOTING.

At Least That's What the Shooter Claims It Was.

The following dispatch from Frisco, received yesterday, briefly details a shooting at that mining centre on Christmas night, by which a miner named John Thomas received a probably fatal wound, and which the man who fired claims was accidental:

John Galvin, a saloon keeper, shot John Thomas, a miner, on Christmas night, at 7 o'clock. The ball entered below the left armpit, passed through the body and out at the right side, above the hip bone. The spine is probably injured.

Thomas made a deposition, claiming he was in the right. Bystanders say the dispute was over half a dollar that Galvin's worth of drinks. Galvin ordered Thomas out and held a cocked revolver at his drunken victim's side. The gun went off and Galvin denied it was accidental, boys. I exclaimed "it was accidental, boys. I wouldn't mean to let it go off." One witness said there was no noisy disturbance and was surprised to hear the shot. Another believes that Galvin has been crazy for a month past.

A PLEASANT SURPRISE, Tendered Conductor Beesley, of the Tabernacle Choir.

On Friday evenings occur the weekly practices of the Tabernacle Choir. Since October last they have been held in the Social Hall. Last evening a departure was made from the usual routine. A committee of the choir had been quietly at work during the past ten days maturing arrangements for a surprise party, in honor of, and as a compliment of respect to their conductor, Mr. E. Beesley. The choir members were out in full force, their companions were conveyed to the ante-rooms, and the rehearsal of music for next Sabbath's services proceeded as usual. About 8:30 o'clock, the interlocutor, C. R. Savage, surprised Conductor Beesley, who was astonished by the announcement, and the entry into the hall of the reserve of ladies and gent companions. An autograph album, with appropriately written address, to be signed by all the members of the choir, was presented to Conductor Beesley. Dancing then commenced, and that merry crowd, the choir, began to realize of the evening's enjoyment. Opportunity occurred for Conductor Beesley to thank the choir in a very neat speech for the unexpected pleasure. Prior to 10 o'clock, refreshments of excellent quality were handed, the committee of ladies and gents—choir members, acting as waiters, conspicuous amongst whom was Organist Joseph J. Daynes, as the "chief towel-slinger." Dancing was resumed, interspersed with songs from Mrs. Agnes Olsen, Thomas and James Crawford. The tolling of the bell of 12 o'clock witnessed the sociable folks dispersing to their homes. It is a difficult matter to decide who enjoyed the surprise most. Sufficient to say, the conductor, E. Beesley, and every one in attendance realized that it was good to be there.

ACCIDENTAL KILLING.

Particulars of the Death of Anthony Kelly.

COAL MINE, SPOFFIELD, Utah, December 20, 1884. To the Editor of THE HERALD: On the 17th inst., Anthony Kelly, a miner, was killed in No. 2 tunnel, in the Pleasant Valley coal mines, by the falling of the top of the room. After he was buried in the debris he spoke two or three times, and the men worked diligently to get him out, but he only lived a few minutes. The next day his brother took his body to Salt Lake City for burial. He was aged 33, unmarried and formerly of Pennsylvania, where his parents are now living. The place where Mr. Kelly was killed is not where he was working, or the place of his work, but quite a distance therefrom. His brother testified that he was going out to inform the driver of a "fall" when a second "fall" came upon him. But some are of the opinion that he was pulling down the top coal and pulled it upon himself. There is some circumstantial evidence in favor of this, and the clearing away of the debris will settle this question, for if he was working there his tools will be found. However, the matter was purely accidental. The accompanying is the inquest.

A SPLENDID TIME.

Christmas Night at the Devereux House.

One of those enjoyable gatherings, for which ex-Mayor and Mrs. Jennings have long since been conceded the foremost position as entertainers, was given at the Devereux House Christmas evening, and was attended by the various members of the Jennings family, and some few very intimate friends, all of whom were made to feel the influence of that hospitality and sociability characteristic of the host and hostess. The young people were provided with every facility for the dance, and while they glided over the beautiful inlaid floors of the library and music rooms, the older members of the party engaged themselves in groups at cards, etc., in the magnificent parlors. The sumptuous dinner and the evening refreshments were partaken of by young and old alike, and with that appreciation which the Devereux table always affords. Of the many Christmas gatherings on Thursday, few perhaps were more thoroughly enjoyable than the one given by Mr. and Mrs. Jennings, one in which some eighty persons participated.

THE WAR OF RATES.

The Sky Still Clear, but Liable to Cloud at Any Moment.

Mr. S. W. Eccles, of the Denver and Rio Grande, who has been one of the foremost in the Chicago conflict, returned to his office in this city on Thursday, and was seen by a HERALD reporter last evening.

"Is the pool still firm?" was the first query of the newspaper man.

"The Utah pool is still firm," was the answer; "the others—the California and Colorado are all terribly shaky."

"We have but little interest in them I suppose?"

"None at all; the Utah pool goes right on to the expiration of the year."

"Can it be broken without formal notice?"

"The Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe can withdraw on twenty-four hours' notice; none of the other roads can do so, however, without a notice given a considerable time ahead."

"Is there any danger of its withdrawing?"

"None that I know of at present; it was dissatisfied with the percentages it received in the Colorado pool and withdrew from that; it is a heavy power, and can make a terrific fight when it chooses."

"Is there anything that might make it dissatisfied?"

"Well, if it got the feeling that the U. P. were cutting rates or getting more than their share, it would undoubtedly make a fight. As I said, however, there is nothing I know of immediately which will affect present arrangements."

"Was anything done in the meeting which was of interest to Utah?"

"Yes, one very natural thing, the protective tariff on Utah ores. I worked ten days to have such a rate placed on ores going out of Utah's would check that traffic, and I am happy to say that a high enough rate was placed to stop this wholesale shipment of our ores to Colorado, California, Omaha and Kansas City. This is a good thing for our smelters, and Mr. Jones, of the Germania, has just been in to express his satisfaction at the change."

"And Wood River ores?"

"Nothing could be done as to that. When I mentioned the subject I was told that it was 'none of our business,' so it had to drop. But the Utah ore tariff is a good thing. I had files of your paper along, with all the articles it has contained on the railroad situation, and I let them see that public feeling was in such a condition out here, that the U. P. would have a rebellion on its hands, (with a smile), if something wasn't done."

"When will your road be open again?"

"To-day; I have just received a dispatch stating that the blockade has been broken, and that we can receive freight and passage from now on."

The Engineers' Trouble Over.

ST. LOUIS, December 26.—In an interview to-night, with J. H. Fitzgerald, chairman of the grievance committee, that gentleman stated that Grand Chief Arthur and the Executive committee of the general grievance committee had a conference this afternoon with Col. Hoxie, and after the presentation of their grievances and a full and frank discussion of the whole matter, Col. Hoxie stated that the whole agreement made in 1882 should be faithfully carried out. This was entirely satisfactory to the engineers, and all danger of trouble of any kind is past. Fitzgerald declined to state what the specific grievances of the engineers were, but expressed great pleasure at the prompt and satisfactory manner in which they were met and adjusted by the railroad company. The agreement referred to, was made two years ago, in part, that the engineers of passenger trains shall receive 3 1/2 cents per mile, 100 miles for a day's work. The engineers of freight shall receive 4 cents per mile, 100 miles or less, to be a day's work. Chief Engineer Arthur left for home to-night.

"Yes; I shall break the engagement," she said, folding her arms and looking defiant; "it is really too much trouble to converse with him; he's as deaf as a post, and talks like he had a mouthful of mush. Besides, the way he looks and talks is disgusting." "Don't break the engagement for that; tell him to take Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. It will cure him completely." "Well, I'll tell him. I do hate to break it off, for in all other respects he's quite so charming." Of course it cured his catarrh.

Precise earnings of the road for eleven months show 127,100 per cent on stock. During the afternoon the selling movement was renewed with vigor, and the lowest prices for a long time past were recorded: Delaware & Hudson declined to 70 1/2, Lake Shore to 60 1/2, Northwestern to 83 1/2, Union Pacific to 40 1/2. The market closed weak.

New York, December 26.—Governments steady. With the exception of a rally of 1/4 to 1 1/2 per cent. after mid-day, the share market was weak and lower to-day. Lackawanna led the rally, selling up to 93 1/2 on the declaration of the usual quarterly dividend of 2 per cent., and the announcement that the company had earned 9.27 per cent. on the stock for the past eleven months. In the afternoon there was a vigorous pressure to sell, and the room was dooded with unfavorable rumors. It was reported that the Granger roads were cutting rates; that the Union Pacific Company would be compelled to borrow money to meet its interest, and that the coal companies were cutting prices. President Adams, of the Union Pacific, subsequently denied the report regarding his company. Delaware & Hudson led the downward movement, dropping 4 per cent., to 70; Chicago, Burlington & Quincy sold down 1 1/2 to 11 1/2; Union Pacific 1/4 to 40 1/2.
