Phelan's Record. LONDON, January 14.—The police have ascertained that Captain Thomas Phelan lived in Sheffield in 1883, and openly avowed himself an agent of O'Donovan Rossa. He always dressed well, wearing a different suit of clothes every day, and seemed to be abundantly supplied with money. He had a large quantity of luggage, including a dressing case containing silver and ivory toilet requisites. He denounced the murder of Lord Frederick Cavendish and Under-Secretary Burke, saying it was a bad plan, but when James Carey turned informer against the assassins, Phelan cursed the informer, and uttered vague threats of vengeance. Phelan's acquaintances in Sheffield remember the fact when Carey was slain by O'Donovan, and they believe Phelan had something to do with planning Carey's taking off.

Alarmed Colonists.

LONDON, January 14.—Advices from Melbourne state that popular opinion in Australia continues greatly agitated in view of the recent German annexation in New Guinea and adjacent islands. It is certain that Australia is thoroughly aroused against the present policy of the British colonial office.
