

DRAMATIC AND LYRIC.

Farewell to Sheridan and His Company.

THE ANATOMICAL DISPLAY.

Sheridan, Davenport and Mainhall—The Adamesse Eden Co.—Byron Again—General.

Sheridan closed his engagement in Salt Lake yesterday, by giving the Marble Heart to a large afternoon audience...

As Raphael, fine as was his acting in certain parts, he gives the first intimation we have noticed of falling short...

Sheridan and Miss Davenport, as well as Mr. Mainhall, their leading man, are people whose career Salt Lake will follow with an interested gaze...

The company which displays itself on Tuesday night, despite the looseness of its attire as represented in its lithographs...

The Comedy Theatre was crowded last evening. Old men and young men filled every seat and scrambled for standing room...

A few minutes before 8 o'clock the members of the orchestra filed into their seats. After a short interval the real show commenced...

Next Saturday afternoon and evening Oliver Dool comes back to us with his new play of Rags and Bones...

Notes.

EMMA ABBOTT has made several offers to Zaida Seguin to rejoin her.

MCKEE RANKIN'S business in San Francisco is very seriously interfered with by Mapleson.

BARRATT has purchased the southeast corner of Madison Square as the site for his New York theatre.

ROBSON and CRANE were playing Forbidden Fruit and Two Can Play at that Game last week in New York.

MR. CARLESS is receiving encouraging responses from choir leaders concerning his classes in sight reading.

SHERIDAN PLAYS next week in Denver; he will probably do well there, as they have had no Mapleson and no Patience.

SARAH BERNHARDT'S salary in "Theodora" is 1,500 francs ($300) a night. Half goes to her creditors and the other half she retains.

THE COMPANY coming west to play May Blossom includes Jos. Wheelock, Ben Maginley, Forrest Robinson, W. H. Crompton, Nick Long and Georgia Cayvan.

NEXT SEASON Emma Nevada will head an English opera company. The organization promises to be larger than Emma Abbott's.

THE FAMOUS Union Square Company, our readers will learn with regret, will be no more after this season.

BEFORE ANOTHER year is out, Sara Jewett, John Parselle and James Stoddard will be traveling around the country supporting some star of the John A. Stevens' stamp.

THE Music and Drama ought to know that John Parselle is at present above the stars.

DURING A recent spectacular performance in Philadelphia a young dude who had been admitted behind the scenes for the first time remarked to the stage manager...

FOLLOWING is the cast with which the Danites was presented in San Francisco Thursday night:

Sandy McEie, McKee Rankin, Billy Piper, Mrs. Rankin, The Baron, Theodore Hamilton, The Judge, Frank Mordant, The Danites, J. J. Wallace, Lumber Tom, D. H. Watkins, Grandee Sam, J. J. Holland, The Schoolman, Lillie Owens, The Chatsman, Alphonso Ah Gow.

THE GREYER-DAVIES company gave the first representation of Called Back in Portland, at the New Market Theatre on the 23d, to an immense house.

SCALCHI has evidently got Salt Lake and Cheyenne mixed up as will be seen by the following chatter to a San Francisco reporter.

MR. MAPLESON is very happy. He has had his usual ill-luck with his opera expedition, although he always has managed to scrape through.

Vick's Magazine.

The address of President Barry, before the Western New York Horticultural Society, occupies a prominent place in the March number of Vick's Magazine.

His remarks in regard to the fruit crops of the past year and the prospects for the future, are instructive and suggestive to the fruit-grower.

He traces the progress of horticulture and concludes that throughout the country generally horticulture is making fair progress.

His tribute to Charles Downing is given feelingly and faithfully. An article entitled "Snowdrops and Snowflakes" is fully illustrated and gives very complete information in regard to the history and cultivation of these popular bulb plants.

concluding with a hitherto unpublished poem on the Snowdrop by Agnes Strickland. Anemone Hepatica is illustrated full size, and its good qualities stated. Profit in Fruit Raising, by Susan Power, is full of valuable suggestions to fruit growers, showing how to economize and make the most from a fruit crop.

Address, James Vick, Rochester, N. Y.

SOTTO VOCE.

THE LATEST new conundrum: Why was Salt Lake last month like an old cheese? Because she was so full of skip-pers.

"THERE is Scalchi," said a young gentleman to his lady companion as they were passing the window of a picture store. "Annoyed?" "I beg your pardon," replied the lady, archly, "that is Scalchi as-you-did-not-see-ab."

POOR BRUCE TAYLOR is a pretty good sort of fellow in an odd sort of way; it is said that the first break he made in Ogden the other night, and the one which caused the audience to commence gazing him over the eye-lids, was that he addressed the assemblage as "Mr. President" and turned to the chairman when he said "Ladies and gentlemen."

In its first issue the Democrat promised that it would improve before long, and we suppose it thinks it is keeping its promise by supplanting Mr. Clark with Mr. Alfades Young; we do not believe its eighty-five readers will agree with it, if the improvement is to take place on the evolution plan by gradual steps upward, it will be centuries at this rate of progression before Willard Crawford or old Doc. McKee is reached.

THE PRINCIPAL objection to Mr. Young, which the eighty-five readers of the Democrat will be apt to urge is that he has been so signally unsuccessful in the career he leaves, that the one he leaves it for is not apt to be signalized with any overwhelming triumphs.

Mr. Young as a rifle shot, and as a bitter opponent of Mormon beliefs, is said to be a success, but as a lawyer he has never yet risen to any greater eminence than that necessary to fill out a bill of sale.

A good humored thing, illustrating the "absence of briefs" around Mr. Young's office, is told by one of his intimate friends. A gentleman who was one day looking for him in something of a hurry asked one of his acquaintances if he knew where he was to be found.

"Well," was the response, "he said a few minutes ago that he was going off to take a nap in some spot where he would not be liable to be disturbed, and I think you will find him at his office."

A CERTAIN well-known character now existing in this city, who has followed cards for the greater part of his life, and who was at one time known in Bingham as "a pretty tough man to trifle with," is the hero of a little anecdote which I heard related yesterday for the first time, and which is guaranteed to be absolutely true.

It was in a Bingham cabin, during the first flush times of that camp, and Jack, his partner and two miners sat around a table, absorbed in a greasy pack of cards. The game was poker and was being played between Jack and one of the miners; the other sat at his elbow, looking over his hand, and Jack's partner also sat, a huge bowie knife sticking in his belt, at his left hand.

The game went on and Jack lost steadily, until he began to suspect that something was wrong. Suddenly, but without losing countenance, he discovered that the man looking over his hand was making signals to the other one across the table.

If Jack held two cards of a kind, the miner would, as if accidentally, lay his two fingers on the table, if one, he would place one finger down, and so on, the other taking note and playing accordingly. It did not take Jack long to realize that this was the secret of the steady drain on his pocket; watching his chances, on the receipt of his next hand he saw the man at his elbow again lay two fingers carelessly down upon the table.

Quick as a flash, Jack jerked the huge bowie from his partner's belt, and bringing it down with all his might, upon the two fingers, he severed them from the miner's hand, exclaiming as he did so: "There d—n ye, and if I had had a fish, it would have been your whole d—n hand!"

SPEAKING of knights of the green cloth, and Bingham, recalls another figure scarcely less known in Salt Lake, who was celebrated in the mining camp from his love of using high sounding words and his manner of murdering their meaning.

On one occasion, this gentleman was solicited to put his name down on some subscription list, and he replied: "I just described five dollars to keep this road in repair, and then the railroad had to go and build a trestleway from the injunction up to the Confining Works."

THE WAR between the Theatre and the Tribune continues unabated, but the latter is getting the worst of it. The sphinx-like silence which it maintains on amusements is having the cheerful effect which resulted to the gentleman who cut of his nose to spite his countenance.

The Theatre can do extremely well without the Tribune, but the Tribune can not do without the Theatre, that is for any length of time.

PERSONAL.

L. H. CLAWSON goes south this morning. SIDNEY STEVENS, of Ogden, was in town yesterday.

BISHOP E. HOLMAN, of Sandy, was seen on the streets yesterday. E. N. RIBBERT, of the Draper Co-op, was observed in the city yesterday.

JNO. HILL, the well-known hat drummer, came in by the U. P. on Friday.

THE SHERIDAN company go to Denver this morning, via the small grant route.

RICHARD HOWE, of South Cottonwood Co-op., was in town on Saturday.

E. HOLMAN, of Sandy, was making his regular purchases in the city yesterday.

THOMAS E. MARRIOTT, of Sandy, paid Salt Lake a business visit on Saturday.

CHARLES TWELVE was seen in town yesterday. He reports Provo as being tolerably quiet.

D. B. BLUNTON, of Big Cottonwood, gave Salt Lake the benefit of his presence on Saturday.

FRIENDS of Miss Hattie Shelly, sister of Mrs. Mark McKimmins, will be pained to learn that she is suffering from an attack of pneumonia.

Geo. D. WILLIAMS, general agent of the "Whammy" boy, is at Denver, and R. E. Bedell, traveling agent, the same road at Omaha, returned from their trip north on Friday.

LAND OFFICE DECISIONS.

Prepared for The Herald by Tankersley & Young.

Digest of decisions rendered by the Commissioner of the General Land Office and Secretary of the Interior, relating to the public land, prepared and reported semi-monthly for THE HERALD, by Tankersley & Young, attorneys-at-law and practitioners before the Supreme Court of the United States, the Legislative and executive departments, in all matters concerning grants, Indian titles, mines and other public lands. Offices—637 F street, Washington, D. C.

Practice.—In contest and protest cases each party pays the cost of his own cross-examination. (Cochran vs. Helm, Commissioner, January 24th, 1885.)

2. Local offices should not be closed at noon on Saturdays. Where no hour is mentioned in notice of hearings, etc., contestants may appear at any time during day fixed. Objections to cash entries should be entertained by R. and R. (Goodrich vs. Gamble, Commissioner, January 24th, 1885.)

3. Testimony in support of protest filed on or before the day fixed for making final proof should be held by R. and R., and if filed subsequent to that time, to be transmitted to General Land Office. (Hooper vs. Parker et al., Acting Commissioner, February 3d, 1885.)

4. Application to enter accompanied by relinquishment of existing entry allowed in preference to application to contest such entry unaccompanied by deposit to pay cost of hearing. (Hathaway vs. Henry, Acting Commissioner, January 10th, 1885.)

5. Notice of hearing must be by personal service, except where defendant's address is unknown, when it may be by application, and mailing copy of notice to his last-known address. (Wallace vs. Schooley, Acting Secretary, January 20th, 1885.)

Pre-emption.—A person claiming unsurveyed public land unlawfully is not thereby inhibited from acquiring a pre-emption right to other land. (Ward et al. vs. Hamshaw, Acting Comm'r., January 20th, 1885.)

6. Settlement is a fact to be established by testimony, and may be shown to have been made prior to date alleged in D. S.

Homesteads.—Error, as to description of land in final proof notice, fatal. (Ex-parte Dresser, Comm'r., January 15th, 1885.)

7. Notice of intention to make final proof must be signed by claimant himself. (Ex-parte Greenb, Acting Comm'r., January 21st, 1885.)

8. Timber culture.—Final proof, showing cultivation of requisite number of trees for statutory period, should not be rejected solely because trees are not of the size ordinarily reached under such cultivation. (Ex-parte Christofferson, Acting Secretary, January 22d, 1885.)

9. Application to contest a T. C. entry unaccompanied by application to enter property rejected. (Griffis vs. Johnson, Secretary, January 24th, 1885.)

10. No precise words demanded in contest affidavit. (Bennett vs. Gates, Secretary, February 4th, 1885.)

Desert lands.—Final proof need not show an agriculture crop has been raised, if otherwise satisfactory. (Secretary to Commissioner, February 9th, 1885.)

12. Special survey of desert land not authorized, except where occupied by settler, in which case it may be made under Sec. 2401, United States Revised Statutes. (Commissioner to Greenleaf, January 19th, 1885.)

RAILROADS.—Relinquishment under act of June 22d, 1874, affects status of land only with respect to settler in whose favor it was made and the railroad company (Florida R. & N. Company vs. Miller et al., Secretary, January 19th, 1885.)

13. Right of indemnity not a right to a particular tract, and only extends to lands appropriated at date of selection. (St. Vincent Ex., St. P. & F. R. Co. vs. Lawson, Sec'y., January 9th, 1885.)

Former Ute Reservation.—To be sold only for cash. Act of July 5th, 1884, does not embrace Reservations on lands encumbered by special trust, or particular conditions as to sale. (Sec'y to Briant, January 3d, 1885.)

THE TRANSGRESSOR.

Reason For His Way Being Hard—Burdette's Views.

My son, you say it is "so hard to be good?" You say it is easier to break all the Ten Commandments than to keep one of them. Well, you mistake. It isn't hard to be good. It's hard to be bad. Ah, yes, my boy, it's hard to be bad. Not right at the time? Oh, no! The time is sparkling, the song is stirring, the stories are brimming with honor, and the air is full of laughter. You are just as bad as you know how to be, and it is lots of fun to be bad, and you never want to be good—oh, yes, it seems very easy and very delightful to be bad at night. But the next morning, my boy? Where is the difficulty then? Who feels serious in the morning? Whose head can't be covered with a tub? Who's afraid and ashamed to go out on the street and meet people? Who doesn't want to see anybody? Who wants to hide? Who wonders where he was last night, and whom he met, and who saw him, and what he said, and where he went, and how he did? Not the boy who went to the sociable and ate cast iron pound cake and washed it down with faded lemonade. Not the young man who passed the evening in the company of the good, goody at the debating society. Ah, no! He didn't hear the rolling songs that you heard, my boy, and he didn't hear the racy stories that "broke you all up." But he is feeling much better than you are this morning. He finds it easy to be good; very easy indeed. But to be bad, to have the headache, to have a sour, rebellious stomach, to have uncertain eyes, to have a treacherous memory, to have a sense of shame, to have a dread of sunshine and a horror of daylight, to have a set of quivering nerves and a fltering speech, to have a raging thirst, and a gnawing hunger that foishes food, to have a dread of meeting your mother, my boy, and a fear of seeing your sister, and a shame of speaking to your good old father—this is hard, my son. This is being "bad." And—look me in the eye, Telemachus, look me in the eye—honestly now, honor bright, do you think this is easier than being "good?" My dear boy, you may call your good friend a milkson, and a "whammy" boy, if you will, and you may in your moments sometimes say you would like to be good but it's so hard, but just weigh that and tell me, bad, weigh them honestly, and tell me, tell me honestly, which is the harder, to be "good" or to be "bad." Ah, my boy, it is easier to be "good." "The way of the transgressor is hard."—Robert J. Burdette in Brooklyn Eagle.
