

POIGNANCY OF GRIEF.

Hon. William M. Springer is Rewarded for His Labors.

THE NOBLEST OF A NOBLE RACE.

Dakota Friends (7) of Congressman Springer Present Him with a Medal of Leather and Gold.

SIMON, Dak., March 7.—A number of Huron gentlemen have forwarded to Congressman William M. Springer a souvenir in the shape of a leather medal, six inches in diameter, on which is the following inscription in gold letters:

"TO WILLIAM M. SPRINGER, who, having been so instructed by the house of representatives, rather than be in contempt, sacrificed his own principles and unflinchingly opened the pathway to statehood for South Dakota.

"First Justice of the Peace."

The medal was sent to Hon. Samuel Cox, with the request that he present it to Mr. Springer, with the following letter:

"To Hon. William M. Springer, M. C., Washington."

"A few of the best of your Dakota friends, appreciating thoroughly your truly noble and thoroughly disinterested services in behalf of South Dakota, desire to present to you this testimonial of their esteem.

"We remember with what poignancy of grief you gave up the cherished objects of your heart. How many sleepless nights you fought for all these vital issues, without a hope of reward, had been lost and Dakota a dream! How, single handed you fought five enemies in the conference committee and said:

"I live or die, survive or perish" or words to that effect. "Through I give up to everything still will I cling to the cherished object of my heart, Dakota shall again vote for temporary capital or she shall forever remain a territory."

"Noblest of the race, whenever the returning sun shall again bring round the birthday of the 'Father of his country' shall not his fame, his integrity, his courage, his incorruptible, matchless integrity, the statesman-like character of him whose name we inscribe on this medal, now awarded to you.

"Hall sweet William, all hail, and farewell."

The chairman was instructed to forward the resolution, together with a circular to the western roads, authorizing payments of the commission and express to the inter-state commerce commission an earnest desire of the Fenian brotherhood in the joint committee that the payment of commissions be prohibited, and that the commission will take early action on the matter.

HARRATT BROS. STORIES ABOUT MEN.

How the Duke of Wellington Got Even with Some Practical Jokers.

It may interest some of your readers to hear a characteristic story of the great duke, which was told me by a gentleman principally concerned in the affair.

The Duke of Wellington at one period of his life was rather fond of telling a certain picketing story, and persons who knew of this weakness used to lead the conversation so that the great man might have an opportunity of relating his favorite anecdote. But at length he became suspicious, and any allusion to the subject made him extremely angry. About this time—nearly sixty years ago—the duke was staying at Bolvoir. One of the visitors at the castle had never heard anything about the picketing adventure, and was easily persuaded that the duke would be pleased if he were asked to tell his famous story. Accordingly one morning after breakfast in the long gallery, when seated not far from the duke, the gentleman ventured to tell his grace how much he should like to hear some of his experiences of Indian life. At first the duke was inclined to be seriously offended, but looking round, and discovering from the faces of the company that the inquiry had been prompted, and that the request was made in perfect good faith, he quietly got up, and, drawing his arm through the gentleman's, said: "I shall be delighted to tell you all you want to know, but let us come to the end of the gallery, where we can talk quietly." A pleasant half hour's conversation ensued, and it was not till some hours later that the intended victim learned what a triumph he had achieved over the practical jokers, and what a quiet rebuke had been administered to them.—The Athenaeum.

No Use for Receptions.

The social phase of public life which so many find the chief delight of high station is not a source of pleasure to Senator Cole. He does not feel at home at balls and receptions. Just prior to the president's New Year's reception, when it was the social event agitated in Washington people, a brother senator remarked to the Senator:

"When I suppose you are going to the reception?"

"Well, I don't know," was the reply. "I haven't made up my mind."

"Oh, you ought to go," urged the senator to Cole.

"Yes," said the latter, "I suppose I ought, but I hate those receptions, those crowds. I don't find room enough to get about, and am always in somebody's way, or somebody's in my way. Now, the last time I was at one of the big receptions I got off in a corner where I thought I was out of the way. Pretty soon along came a lady dressed in style. She commenced to bow and smile at me, and though I did not know her I bowed and smiled back. There she stood bowing and smiling, and then I noticed that she was pulling at her dress that trailed over the floor. I noticed a young fellow standing behind her, and so I reached over and, shaking him by the shoulder, said: 'Why don't you get off the lady's dress? Well, she looked straight at my feet, and by George, I was standing on her dress myself.'—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Balm's Serious Mistake.

The proposed Balm monument gives rise to an enormous number of anecdotes apropos of the great writer in the French press. Here is a good one from among them. The late Baron James Rothschild was always on excellent terms with Balm, who dedicated more than one novel to him. Once, when he was obliged to make a trip to Germany, and when, as often happened with him, he was in money difficulties, Balm went to the baron, who, with his usual benevolence, advanced him the sum of 5,000 francs, giving him also a letter of recommendation to his nephew at Vienna. The letter was unsigned, according to custom. Balm read it, found it cold, poor and unworthy of him, and never took it to the nephew. Returning to Paris he went to see Baron Rothschild. "Well," said the latter, "have you seen my nephew?" Balm proudly said that he had kept the letter. "I am sorry for you," said the baron; "have you got it with you?" "Yes, parbleu—here it is." Observe this little hieroglyphic below the signature; it would have opened a credit of 25,000 francs for you at the Vienna firm." Balm bit his nails and said nothing more.—Fall Mail Gazette.

A Story About Du Maurier.

In appearance Mr. Du Maurier bears a striking resemblance to Mr. Alma Tadema. This likeness has given rise to many amusing complications. Some time ago, at a dinner party, he happened to sit next to a daughter of his host. "I cannot understand," remarked the young lady, "how people can be so absurd as to mistake you for Mr. Tadema. To me the likeness is very slight." A little later she said: "Oh, I bought your photograph the other day. Would you mind—or—putting your autograph to it?" Mr. Du Maurier expressed his willingness, and later on in the evening the young lady conducted him to a writing table and handed him the photograph for his signature. Mr. Du Maurier looked at it, signed, and then laid it very gently on the table. "That," he said, "is Mr. Alma Tadema's portrait."—London Globe.

The Story of a Country Town.

"Are you still in the real estate business at Boomville?"

"Yes."

"How's business?"

"Bad. I haven't been able to borrow a dollar for a month."—Nebraska State Journal.

The Incorporation of the Greenbeck Company.

ANENT THE BIG CANAL SCHEME.

The meeting at the Callen Hotel yesterday—The Street Car Plant Goes to Second East Street.

The articles of incorporation of the Greenbeck company were filed with the probate clerk yesterday. The object of the corporation is to buy and sell all kinds of real and personal property, including mines and mining claims, and to carry on a general real estate business, with the principal office in this city, and branch offices at other points throughout the territory.

The amount of the capital stock is $500,000, divided into 12,000 shares of the par value of $25 per share. It is subscribed as follows:

Name, No. of Shares, $500,000

Nicholas H. Greenbeck, 1,500, 37,500

William Greenbeck, 1,500, 37,500

John A. Greenbeck, 1,500, 37,500

John Henry Smith, 43, 1,075

Helen M. Morgan, 1,500, 37,500

Samuel S. Greenbeck, 1,500, 37,500

Joseph S. Greenbeck, 1,500, 37,500

Joseph S. Greenbeck, 1,497, 37,425

Total, 12,000

The directors of the company are Nicholas H. Greenbeck, William Greenbeck, John A. Greenbeck, John Henry Smith, Helen M. Morgan, Hyrum Greenbeck, Samuel S. Greenbeck and Joseph S. Greenbeck. N. H. Greenbeck is president; William Greenbeck, vice president; and Hyrum Greenbeck secretary and treasurer.

The Canal Scheme.

A meeting of the stockholders of the West Point and the North Point canal companies was held at the Callen hotel yesterday to consider the matter of consolidating the two concerns for the purpose of securing water for certain lands over Jordan.

The matter was thoroughly discussed and all the stockholders were of the opinion that something should be done at once toward securing the necessary supply. There is ample surplus water in the Jordan to meet the demands of the land in question and it is only a matter of fixing up a suitable ditch to convey it to the land.

A committee was appointed from each of the companies to work together and report some plan to consolidate the two companies or to organize an entirely new company in which all parties at interest may hold stock. This committee will report to the next meeting, which will be held April 5 and if satisfactory arrangements can then be made, it is the intention to at once take the steps necessary to accomplish the end in view.

Among the parties interested in the scheme are S. C. Ewins, Henry Cohn, Robert Irvine, and many others. About 8,000 acres of land will be benefited by the carrying out of the plan proposed.

The Street Car Plant.

After buying the John Clark lot on west First South street, as a site for their power house, the street car people have suddenly concluded that they want their plant nearer the middle of town, and they have decided to put the plant on the Second East street lot, where electric stables and car houses are now located. The power house to be built will be about 40x110 feet, and will contain three 75-horse-power engines, with a fly wheel six feet in diameter. The power plant will thus be by far the most extensive in this region, and only the best machinery will be used in it.

Tough medicines, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is in greater demand than ever. No preparation for Throat and Lung Troubles is so prompt in its effects, so agreeable to the taste, and so widely known, as this. It is the family medicine in thousands of households.

"I have suffered for years from a bronchial trouble that, whenever I take cold or am exposed to inclement weather, shows itself by a very annoying tickling sensation in the throat and by difficulty in breathing. I have tried a great many remedies, but none does so well as Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, which always gives prompt relief in return of my old complaint."—Ernest A. Hepler, Inspector of Public Roads, Parish Terrebonne, La.

"I consider Ayer's Cherry Pectoral a most important remedy.

For Home Use.

I have tested its curative power, in my family, many times during the past thirty years, and have never known it fail. It will relieve the most serious affections of the throat and lungs, whether in children or adults."—Mrs. E. G. Edgerly, Council Bluffs, Iowa.

"Twenty years ago I was troubled with a disease of the lungs. Doctors afforded me no relief and considered my case hopeless. I then began to use Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and before I had finished one bottle, found relief. I continued to take this medicine until a cure was effected. I believe that Ayer's Cherry Pectoral saved my life."—Samuel Griggs, Waukegan, Ill.

"Six years ago I contracted a severe cold, which settled on my lungs and soon developed all the alarming symptoms of Consumption. I had a cough, night sweats, bleeding of the lungs, pains in chest and sides, and was so prostrated as to be confined to my bed most of the time. After trying various prescriptions, without benefit, my physician finally determined to give me Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. I took it, and the effect was magical. I seemed to rally from the first dose of this medicine, and, after using only three bottles, am as well and sound as ever."—Rodney Johnson, Springfield, Ill.
