

BRIGHAM CITY BITS.

A Good Canning Factory Would Pay Well. The Bothwell Canal Blow Out. Threshers Going to Cache Valley—The Case Against Fox—Big Shipments of Brigham's Fishes.

O. G. Snow went to Collinston Sunday morning. Edgar Snow is now numbered with the Co-op's force of clerks. It is rumored that E. K. Wilson will open a saloon at Collinston.

Mrs. Ida Snow has gone west on business and pleasure combined. Mrs. Harriet Johnson's babe is dangerously ill with scarlet fever. Apostle Lorenzo Snow spoke at the tabernacle Sunday afternoon.

A. Hox is doing a good business in the shipping of fruits and vegetables. The number of students at the Box Elder State academy is increasing slowly. William Watkins is building a creditable residence on his premises in the Fourth ward.

When Hilbert and Kasmussen stoop to lawing, they get down and make the dust fly, you bet. E. H. Peirce came up from Salt Lake Sunday morning and he and wife returned the same afternoon. We are delighted over the fair prospects of being connected by telephone with Salt Lake and Cache valley.

C. C. Loveland's residence, which is nearing completion, will be a big improvement over the old place. Most people are of the belief that the sacked books of our commissioner will be filled by Judge Johnson. Saturday evening Operator McBride returned from Franklin, where he has been for a few days relieving the agent who was ill.

White's sawmill closed down last Saturday for the season. They have turned out close onto a million feet of lumber this year. George L. Groves, who has so long been connected with the Co-op, force, will leave there shortly, when he will go into the produce and shipping business.

The report came to town last night that Deacon Dewey, son of Bishop John Dewey of DeWeyville, a young man about twenty years of age, had died of some stomach disease. Nothing positive could be learned. The Saturday night following the Bothwell excitement, the "Reds" got out with the brass band, two cannons and over a hundred flaming torches. They made one of the grandest displays that fair Brigham has ever witnessed.

The bear performance on the streets yesterday set all the kids of the town on tip-toe. From a casual glance, one would suppose that it would take a close discerning phenologist to detect the true line of demarcation between beast and master. S. N. Lee has returned from his obligatory sojourn at our mundane panicle-morium near the capital. He has retained his labors at his post in the city, and he and once more is leader of the Sunday choir.

The people did get somewhat excited here a week ago, Friday, at the Bothwell demonstration. Both the "Reds" and "Whites" carried the thing too far, as a street exhibition of citizens against city officials is humiliating and disgraceful. After cooling off a little, no doubt, both parties can appreciate the judiciousness of their conduct. On the first of the week a number of our "brushing" restlers took their outfit into Cache valley to help the farmers there. Most of the threshing machines being used in this vicinity; the crops in Cache are somewhat later. Lemah Johnson, Orson Hyde and Frank Hawkins conducted one party, and they expect to be kept busy there for a month.

Dr. L. Berg has moved his headquarters from his place in the Third ward to a more suitable spot on Main street. Gradually the business portion of the city is being built up for business purposes and the back streets abandoned for the quieter element to reside. This drawing together of the business community denotes progress. There was a man seen prowling around in the Second ward on Young's street a few nights ago with neither hat, coat, shoes or stockings on. At first glance he was taken for an escaped lunatic because of his general wild, wild aspect. When aware that he was observed he dashed off like a frightened beast. He was recognized and a watchful eye is upon him now.

The following timely suggestion which appeared in our Ogden department of Sunday's Herald is also most applicable to our Brigham city people: "Ogden is greatly in need of a good canning factory. With fruit rotting on the ground, labor cheap, and the best of railroad facilities, to say nothing of home markets, no better investment for capital can be found." It is really a pity that such quantities of fruit should be imported from eastern and western canneries, to localities where as good, if not better, fruits are raised. There is money here awaiting such an enterprise.

H. G. Fox, the "Mormon" with a Danish wife and four children, was arrested a short time ago in Park City on the charge of forgery, committed in the scheme several months ago. He had a hearing before Justice M. L. Ensign, yesterday. Mr. Ferguson, of Salt Lake, appeared for the defendant and E. H. Jones for the prosecution. After wrenching a $1000 bond from Justice M. L. Ensign, he was released. It seems that he was selling sewing machines in this neighborhood. He came to the house of a dame called Jensen, who could understand little of the English language. Jensen claims he wanted no machine, but Fox left Jensen's cross in it. There must be a dozen men with as many teams, from Brigham, scouring the country for nibs around, in the interest of the pomologists of our burg. Our fruits, by this means, reach Cache valley, Rich county, Bear lake and most of Southern Idaho and parts of Wyoming and Montana. The fruit business is thus being worked "for all that's out," but, this does not amount to a hundredth part of the great quantities shipped by rail. People from the remotest parts of Gentile valley, and points ever farther west, come to Brigham, load their wagons down with our luscious fruits and fine vegetables and drive off homeward-bound as if they were carrying away a load of gold dust.

LUTHER TUTTLE is up from Mantu. He says the town is recovering from the effects of the flood, and enough drift wood was left in the town to supply the poor all winter. DR. C. A. HOOPER, assistant surgeon U. P. railway of Montpelier, Idaho, is at the Cullen. He says Montpelier is improving fast, and that the town has a larger circulation there than any other paper.

MYSTERIOUS DEATH.

A Wife Found Dead by Her Husband's Side. THE HUSBAND UNDER ARREST. A Quarrel Supposed to be the Cause of the Uxoricide—The Examining Physician Interviewed.

PARIS, Idaho, Aug. 28.—(Special to THE HERALD)—The little settlement of Orad, lying about midway between Montpelier and this place was the scene of a terrible occurrence on Saturday last which has thrown the whole vicinity in a high state of excitement. The circumstances as near as they can be learned, are as follows: Oscar Quarsell, a Swede about forty years old, was at Montpelier on Saturday, accompanied by his wife who was about the same age. They make regular trips to Montpelier, their business being that of peddling and shopping. After concluding their business for the day, they set out for home, and on the way it is known that Quarsell was drinking and was talking to drink and his wife remonstrating with him. On reaching home some of the friends and neighbors of the couple were called in, and, by mutual consent, the differences were referred to them both, urging them to submit to their decision which was to be given at some future time. The neighbors then left, thinking everything was amicably adjusted. This was about 10 o'clock in the evening. About an hour later the wife was startled by the appearance of a little girl, a daughter of Andrew Johnson. She came lying down from Quarsell's house with the new that Quarsell was lying dead on the floor of the house with her husband by her side. A party was immediately formed and upon reaching the Quarsell's house, the woman was found, as described, quite dead. The man showed signs of life and on being raised, recovered himself at once and told the following story: He said his wife had taken strychnine and that, having lived with her as a loving husband should, he was determined that he would die with her and he had accordingly taken chloroform. This was his story; but it was notorious that his relations with his wife had always been of a quarrelsome nature; and it is significant that no other witnesses were called. Furthermore, the woman's body has evidences of violence, the neck particularly showing signs of blows.

The man was taken into custody by Constable Bolton, in the company of Sheriff Jones, and is now lying in jail here, awaiting further investigation. A girl named Helen Eber, about sixteen years, who has lived with the Quarsells for the past eight years, was also arrested on suspicion of knowing more than she is willing to divulge and is also held in custody as a witness.

The woman was buried on Monday, after a post-mortem examination by Dr. C. A. Hoover, of Montpelier. The doctor has made a careful examination of the fluids and tissues of the stomach and bowels, but he would give nothing as the results of his investigation. He left last night for Salt Lake to make a further analysis and investigate for the presence of strychnine bearing on the case may be looked for.

A HERALD reporter found Dr. Hoover at the Cullen last evening, and asked him for what further information he possessed in this case. He replied that he had no communication to give before the hearing, which he thought would be on Saturday next at Paris.

THE ALLEGED ELIXIR. It is said to have been used by the Dies for Hundreds of Years. A correspondent writing from the Ouray Indian agency says: "The Brown Squard elixir, which seems to have captured the effete east, is an old and established remedy among the Die Indians. It is an emulsion of milk, and has been in use among them for centuries. Colorado, Stovannon, Douglas, Yamma, Platt and other Indians have testified to the use of the method by reaching an equal to the average years of youth to students of the Bible."

Not only do the Indians use matter, but the great majority of the white people in conversation with a prominent Uncomphagre medicine chief, your correspondent was told that "cheap big medicine" had been used for many years.

IN USE AMONG THE INDIANS. For more than two centuries, he also made the startling statement that Colorado was more than three hundred years old when he died, and that more than one thousand years ago he had been in physical support in his advanced age. When asked regarding the use of sheep tallow, he replied that it was all right when the people were not that fat or overweight, but that good tallow carried more force with it, and that goats were never unsound or unhealthy.

The medicine chief's name is Coteo, and made some startling revelations also. He said that Ouray, who died in 1879, was a very old man, and that the cause of his death was elixir. He said that he was credited with having more than ordinary Indian intelligence and commanded the respect of all the white people. Coteo said he acquired this from his association with Cortez in the sixteenth century. Proceeding further he said that Ouray and Safova was taken into captivity by Cortez when he swept through the west mountain valley of Colorado during the expedition of 1540, and that they were compelled to work in the mines of the Sangre de Christo range.

Uncomphagre is now the head chief of the Uncomphagre and the medicine man, Coteo, says that he is about three hundred years old and is 136 times a widower. He has always been the owner of large flocks of goats and has goats and sheep in his herds today. When asked how he had obtained the Elix of Ouray, Stovannon, Platt and Colorado and others was not prolonged to a greater point, he truthfully stated that Stovannon and Platt had obtained it against his will, and as regarded the death of Ouray, he said he did not die of heart disease, as reported, but he went on a trip to visit the southern Dies, and took a sheep load from Ouray last twenty days. Clipped, his faithful squaw, realizing the importance of the situation, at all times guarded the "medicine bag," but her pony was drowned while crossing a swollen stream, and the elixir floated down the stream with the dead pony's carcass, and before more could be obtained, Ouray died and mummified in the recesses of his friends.

In the case of Colton, he said, misfortune struck him that fatal morning on the battle field of Panguely. The old chief made his escape, but soon returned to his old home, and he said that he had obtained the Elix of Ouray, Stovannon, Platt and Colorado and others was not prolonged to a greater point, he truthfully stated that Stovannon and Platt had obtained it against his will, and as regarded the death of Ouray, he said he did not die of heart disease, as reported, but he went on a trip to visit the southern Dies, and took a sheep load from Ouray last twenty days. Clipped, his faithful squaw, realizing the importance of the situation, at all times guarded the "medicine bag," but her pony was drowned while crossing a swollen stream, and the elixir floated down the stream with the dead pony's carcass, and before more could be obtained, Ouray died and mummified in the recesses of his friends.

THE MUCH NEEDED ELIXIR. but he had received such a setback in not having the stuff when needed that he never rallied, and the jail would not save him. He, too, crumbled away on his way while looking for a letter from Washington entailing $30,000 indemnity for stolen horses by Kendall's deputies. When asked how the elixir is prepared, Coteo replied that the tissues were dried and reduced to a powder and concentrated by a delicate process, and that the elixir must be taken at least every three days. He also said it was often applied to broken down horses with good results, and that a very old horse can be regenerated and made to appear as sound as a dapple. He says that there is an old doctor in this vicinity who buys up all the old, broken down horses and gets him (Coteo).

Soft as Silk and White as Milk

Is the complexion made lovely by the use of "Glenn's Sulphur Soap." It should occupy a place on the toilet of every lady in the land; for if the middle aged need it to keep the bloom of their youth, it may be said to be equally to preserve and brighten their natural charms. The unpleasant effects of perspiration are entirely removed by its use. The irritation occasioned by dust and heat is succeeded by a refreshing coolness after its application. Beware of counterfeits. Sold by druggists. The lady who uses "Glenn's Sulphur Soap" may also require a hair dye, and if so, the safest and most reliable that she can use is "Hill's Instantaneous Hair Dye," which is also the cheapest article of its class manufactured in America.

COURT PROCEEDINGS.

Business Done in the Police and Probate Courts. TRIED FOR STEALING A WATCH. A Number of Arrests Made for Selling Intoxicating Liquor on Sunday. Other Matters.

On last Sunday afternoon, a gentleman from Omaha named G. H. Mack, visited Garfield Beach and left a valuable gold watch and over one hundred dollars in cash at the office, receiving his check. While bathing the check was stolen and the thief went up and claimed the property. The case was reported to the city authorities and the police have been actively engaged in the search for the missing goods and the guilty party. It was learned on Monday that there was a mysterious package at the residence of Mrs. Free, just west of the museum. On making further investigations it was learned the package was in possession of a man giving his name as George W. Young, who had rooms in the house. The man had taken the package and disappeared with it, leaving his wife in the house. Mrs. Young was arrested and placed in the city jail to await the return of the court.

When she was arrested she telegraphed to Mr. Sisson, train dispatcher at Laramie, and that gentleman came on. He stated that he was well acquainted with Mr. Young's family in the east. They are highly respectable, and the lady herself has an excellent character. She is 29 years of age, and was married to Young but a short time ago. When Mr. Sisson heard that she was in trouble he came at her request, but did not learn what was the matter till he got here. Mrs. Young turned over to Mr. Mack $20 of the money she got from her husband, and says she will endeavor to secure for him the remainder of the property.

The case came up in the police court yesterday afternoon. Her story is that on Sunday night her husband came home in an angry mood, and gave her the package, ordering her to take it away, and to get a friend of his. She wanted to put it in her trunk, but he told her not to. She inquired what it was, but he told her with an oath she should not know until she had it. She took it down stairs and gave it to the housekeeper, as stated. On Monday she got it again, at her husband's request. He was still angry, and when he took the package he told her to open it, and give her $10 and left. She says she had no idea where he was going; that she has not seen him since, and does not know whether or not he intends to desert her. She says she never saw anything in his conduct before to cause her to lose confidence in him, but of late he has been very quarrelsome.

Further evidence shows that the mysterious package was wrapped in a piece of paper when given to Mrs. Young by her husband, and she afterwards secured a piece of cloth to wrap it. She says she never saw anything in his conduct before to cause her to lose confidence in him, but of late he has been very quarrelsome. The judge held that the prisoner could be convicted of larceny when it was only shown that she was in possession of the stolen goods, and she was released. FURTHER BUSINESS. The additional business transacted in the police court was the arrest of J. Y. Smith, Billy West, Alex. Smith, Josh Arthur, Will Grey, David Hillstead, on the charges of selling intoxicants on Sunday. The offenses for which the arrests were made date back to various periods in July. Josh Arthur paid a fine of $20 and was released, the others will be tried on different dates during the week. Charles Kelley was fined $5 for being drunk.
