MORE ABOUT CRONIN.

The Man Who Drove The White Horse Twice Identified.

BOLD, SUCCESSFUL BANK ROBBERY.

The Sum of $22,935 Is Taken—The Sealer Maggie Mac Searched—An Appeal to Save France.

CHICAGO, Sept. 21.—The Evening Journal's Oakland, Cal., special says: Chicago detectives are here looking for J. J. Heffernan, who is said to be the man who drove Dr. Cronin to his death on the night of May 1.

Suspicion was at first directed toward Heffernan in July, when the Chicago police were inquiring into Desmond's connection with the case. Just before Dr. Cronin was murdered Desmond went on from San Francisco to Washington, stopping some time in Chicago. He was accompanied by a man who, it has since been ascertained, was Heffernan. The latter was introduced under an assumed name as a clan-guard member in good standing and as general manager of the camp in California; in short, a man to be trusted. Desmond, after getting Heffernan well acquainted with Chicagoans went on to Washington and left his California friend in Chicago. There Heffernan stayed until a few days after Dr. Cronin's murder, when he quietly dropped out of sight.

When the Chicago police began to inquire into Desmond's activities, it was found that he was mysteriously missing. This man was Heffernan, but the police did not know it. It was not until his identification was made by Morris Walsh, a cook on the Panama steamer Acapulco, but of course he turned out to be the wrong man and they released him.

About two weeks ago, Chief Hubbard, of the Chicago police, secured a photograph of Heffernan. It was shown to Mrs. Conklin, the lady with whom Dr. Cronin boarded. She at once said: "That's the man who came here with the white horse after the doctor." This was pretty strong, so without saying anything about Mrs. Conklin's identification they showed the photograph to Frank Scanlan, another intimate friend of Dr. Cronin, who came along just as the latter was being taken to the hospital. He, too, recognized the man as the driver of the white horse. This identification they showed to the police, and it was through one of these that he was finally spotted here.

Heffernan is a young man about thirty, stout in dress and manner, and of a gentlemanly appearance. He stands about five feet seven inches in his stockings, is rather stout, with a slight stoop in the shoulders, and has light brown hair. He wears a long flowing dark mustache and has a clean-shaven chin, but is capable of growing a thick, stubby beard very rapidly.

The man who drove Dr. Cronin from his home on the night of May 3 answers the description of Mrs. Conklin perfectly, except that he has a white beard and a shabby beard. Both of these features would be easy for Heffernan to assume, especially if he wished to disguise himself, as he undoubtedly did.

There is another strong point against Heffernan and one which he cannot deny. The officers who after their first sighting that while in Chicago Heffernan was in company with Desmond Conklin and on the night of May 3, it was alleged, was seen leaving the house of a leading suspect in the case at a late hour.

The Oakland dispatch is supplemented by the Chicago end of the story, which is practically to the same effect. It says Heffernan registered under assumed names while in Chicago, and was in company with Desmond Conklin, a well known member of Camp 20, Clan national, who followed up all the clues; that an examination of the governor of California was secured from Governor Fiske, and the same dispatched to San Francisco last Tuesday.

Heffernan Not Known to Oakland.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 21.—An evening paper says Chief of Police Tompkins and Captain Flecker, of Oakland, were interviewed this afternoon and denied any knowledge of the Heffernan or detectives being in Oakland in search of J. J. Heffernan, said to be wanted in Chicago for complicity in the Cronin case. No such name as J. J. Heffernan appears in the Oakland records, and no one seems to have any knowledge of him.

Chief of Detectives Loez said to-night, in answer to a question, that he had never seen the man who was supposed to be the man who drove Dr. Cronin to his death. He said that he had been in the city at that time. He found the man who secured the evidence, but he could not have been connected with the murder. He said Heffernan is well connected here, but refused to disclose his identity.

Heffernan's Whereabouts.

CHICAGO, Sept. 21.—To-morrow's Inter-Ocean will say: Heffernan, the alleged Cronin assassin, is believed to be in Sacramento now.

The Cronin Jury.

CHICAGO, Sept. 21.—Judge McConnell did not announce his decision on the application of Frank Woodruff for a discharge from custody at the opening of the criminal court this morning, as it was supposed he would do. The work of getting a jury was resumed this morning.

No additional jurors were secured. Before the adjournment Attorney Donahoe, on behalf of his client, Kinzie, renewed his motion that he be given information as to the evidence against Kinzie, saying he does not know the robbers, but no traces of them were left in the office and a few minutes after 9 o'clock a man was seen working at the safe, but he had on the cashier's office coat and nothing was thought of it by those who passed by. The cashier returned shortly after 11 o'clock when he discovered the money missing. Active measures were then taken to get a clue to the robbers, but no traces of them have been found. The express company had no receipt for the money from the bank officials.

one who had learned the combination. The vault was opened by some one in possession of it—Cashier Reynolds and Assistant Cashier Leonard Perrin. The exact amount stolen was $22,935. The robbers were evidently in too much of a hurry to take any silver and $1,000 was left behind. The United States Express company is the loser of the money. They did not deposit it in the bank but merely left it there for safe keeping over night, when it would be delivered to the consignee, Manager William R. Lutz, of the Ashland and Germany mines.

An Appeal to Save France.

PARIS, Sept. 21.—Demophile and other members of the Patriotic league which was recently suppressed by the government, have issued a manifesto in which they appeal to all patriots to vote for Boulanger to-morrow and thus deliver the country from the yoke of the government, which is ruining France. The league says the government intends to issue a proclamation declaring that votes cast for Boulanger will be void. The Boulangists are working actively in the interest of their candidate. Committees have been appointed whose duty it will be to closely watch the ballot boxes and prevent any attempts at fraud.

The Sealer Maggie Mac Searched.

VICTORIA, Sept. 21.—The schooner Maggie Mac has arrived from Behring sea with 1,200 sealskins. She was overhauled by the United States steamer Rush, after a three hours' chase, August 27, but Lieutenant Tattle allowed her to proceed after examining her papers, as she had not been several days. Captain Doi said he had resolved to fight rather than surrender his vessel of skins.

A DIPLOMATIC INCIDENT.

France Apologizes for the Ill-Treatment of Three American Ladies at Mentone.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—The governments of the United States and France have reached a peaceful settlement of the diplomatic complications arising from the arrest and discourteous treatment of Miss Dyer, Miss Van Astrand and another New York lady, who were visiting the police authorities at Mentone. These ladies were arrested and thrown into a cell at the instance of a dressmaker with whom they had a dispute over a bill. The incident was caused by a misunderstanding of the French government, all explanation and apology with a notice that the offending officials have been reprimanded. These ladies were commiserated by the consuls, and as they expressed themselves as entirely satisfied, the incident may be regarded as closed.

BASEBALL AGITATION.

The Brotherhood May Cut Loose From the National League—The Conference.

SPECIAL TO THE HERALD—EXAMINER DISPATCH. NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—There is deep agitation in baseball circles; rumors of the new league arising through the air thick and fast. J. J. Coogan has said that capitalists and men interested in the New York club have approached him with offers to lease certain lands just north of the polo grounds for baseball purposes. Although it is impossible in account of conflicting statements to ascertain the exact truth of the matter, the most reasonable conclusion is that if the National league does not concede certain demands that will be made by the Brotherhood this fall, the players will manage the management of the game into their own hands.

John M. Ward said: "If the National league does not grant the requests we shall make at the present time, we shall certainly form a league of our own."

"But will you form this league regardless of what the present magnates may do?"

"That is a question I am not in a position to answer at the present time," was the reply. This diplomatic answer of the excited ball player is significant.

According to Coogan's statement, a syndicate composed of capitalists and baseball players has formed in this city and its representatives have made an offer of $30,000 a year for a lease of lands just north of the present polo grounds. Coogan is administrator of the Lynch estate, to which this land belongs. He has been in conference with a syndicate for several months and a lease for five years, with a privilege of renewal, has been framed in legal form and will undoubtedly soon be signed by the contracting parties.

Coogan is to retain the management of the gentlemen who form this remarkable syndicate, but said some were men who controlled millions of dollars, others were millionaires of the New York class.

For eleven months past, or since the adoption of the obnoxious classification rule by the National league, it has been apparent that some or larger the Graciers had been in a projected effort to detail conduct the game on a conservative plan, if it so decides.

To Utilize Arid Lands Without Water.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—Dr. Veasey, chief of the botanical division of the agricultural department has returned after an extensive tour through the arid regions of the western states and territories. He is conducting an inquiry into the question of bringing up to a standard of utility the arid wastes that cannot be made useful by water irrigation. He has no doubt that the introduction of grasses adapted to the soil in the localities where there is no water to be had, the grass product of the region can be more than doubled and in some cases tripled and quadrupled. The department contemplates sending an agent to Asia and Australia at an early day to make selections of grasses which will be given a trial in carrying out the objects in view.

AN ENGLISH KNAVE.

Accomplished and Courty, He Bilks Everybody.

NEW YORK'S "OUR FOUR HUNDRED"

Has Entertained Him to a Large Extent—Names of the Hosts Are Not Given—His Business Methods.

SPECIAL TO THE HERALD—EXAMINER DISPATCH. NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—At precisely 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, Judge Van Brunt, of the supreme court, issued an order of arrest against Sydney S. Landeschut, alias Edgerton, on account of fraud. He was nabbed by a deputy sheriff at the Union Square hotel at 8 in the evening and conducted to the house of Mr. Charles H. Phelps, formerly editor of the Courier and Monthly, in San Francisco. He there filed in full a claim against him, principal, interest and costs. The events which led up to this prosaic denunciation are of many kinds, and of many names, especially to Californians.

William A. Hylor, the complainant, was formerly a salesman in Shreveport's jewelry store in San Francisco. He is a cousin of the late ex-Governor John Hylor, of California, and of ex-Governor Bigler, of Pennsylvania, who was president of the Centennial exposition at Philadelphia. He is a resolute, determined little man with a strong sense of humor, and has proved as perfect a Jonah as that apparently irrepressible gentleman. It appears from his story that Landeschut has been making a sort of "tour" of the United States, and that he had sufficient data to construct quite a detailed account of his travels. Mr. Landeschut's social success in New York has been remarkable. Had it not been for the tact and decision of Mr. Barker, the British consul here, no one knows to what extent he might have gone. He represented himself at the consulate as being on a furlough from the Bengal railways. He had letters of introduction from the most prominent people in England under the name of Edgerton. With these letters and in his capacity as a distinguished English gentleman, he had letters with great consideration, shown through the offices of the New York Central and Hudson River roads. Mr. Landeschut, in merely giving an account of his trip, was so delighted with the system of organization and promised himself the pleasure of introducing some of its details into the Indian route which he was to undertake in another part of his tour.

Inspector Barker's men have been busy investigating Mr. Landeschut's doings in New York and after the matter is disposed of, they may be very busy in getting the agent of the Cunard here to refund the money for his passage. He also endeavored to leave the Brunswick hotel without settling his accounts when the clerk told him that he had a draft upon the British consul. He subsequently told the clerk not to present the draft, and he left the hotel with very bad grace.

OF UNSOUND MIND.

The Trustees of Hartville College Accused of Obtaining $20,000 by Coercion.

SPECIAL TO THE HERALD—EXAMINER DISPATCH. COLUMBIA, Ind., Sept. 21.—Charles Snyder, of Hartville, yesterday entered suit against the trustees of Hartville college to recover $20,000, which he claims, was secured from his wife by coercion. Mrs. Snyder is worth over $50,000 in her own right and is regarded by her acquaintances as being of unsound mind and incapable of transacting business. The Hartville college is a United Brethren institution, which has a number of students. Snyder charges that during his absence Thursday Rev. James Woodford and Isaac Van Sickle, trustees of the college, visited his wife, and in the absence of her husband, they coerced her into signing over to them and placing in their possession a certain amount of money, which he alleged, was to go to the benefit of Hartville college. As soon as Mr. Snyder returned home and learned of the trustees' action, he was so enraged that he immediately started for the college, and on his way, he was met by the trustees, who offered him a $2,000 check which he refused. He also says that his wife declared herself of unsound mind.

A TRUE HERO.

How a Man in the Quebec Raids Goes to the Rescue of a Buried Victim.

QUEBEC, Sept. 21.—Although the rain fell incessantly last night, the work of digging out the victims of the landslide was carried on throughout the night. The efforts of the workers were concentrated on the spot where the man named Kemp was supposed to be. At 10 o'clock this morning the work was fast and anxious. It was allowed him to be seen about fifteen feet from the base of operations. Kemp would sign a couple of popular songs and then shout "police, police." The poor fellow either insane or a delirious man named Beauchamp, who with his two brothers, had worked at the wreck ever since the landslide without a moment's rest. He had a small opening to get at the man, but he was unable to get through. He had one of his fingers under the man's nose, and he was able to get a couple of inches further, his progress being blocked by the corpse of a woman. A priest who passed the night at the scene encouraging the workers, knelt down and began to recite a prayer. The men, although exhausted, seeing Beauchamp doomed to certain death, rushed to his rescue, and after great efforts they were able to pull out the man, who was lying under the ruins twenty feet deep for thirty-six hours.

Timothy Reagan, wounded in the landslide, died this morning. Coroner Belleau opened an inquest this morning, and after a short sitting adjourned till tomorrow.

A LIVELY ELECTION.

Oklahoma Voters Are Chased By U. S. Troops.

KNIGHTS OF LABOR TROUBLE.

Powderly to Resign—Murdered a Little Child—The Joggins Raft Company—Across the Continent on Horseback.

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 21.—A special from Oklahoma City, Indian territory, to the Times says: To-day was one of the most exciting days in the history of the city. After six weeks ago a faction of citizens, after failing to induce the council to call a convention for the purpose of framing an amended charter, framed one themselves and called an election for the people to vote on it. As it provided for the immediate ousting of the present city government, United States troops under the authority of General Merritt, prevented the election.

Two or three weeks ago the charter prepared by a committee authorized by the original charter faction, then called a meeting to consider the charter for to-day, again without the consent of the mayor and council. General Merritt again sent orders to Colonel Snyder to prevent the election in this morning. Captain Stiles, in command of the troops here, carried out the command at the point of the bayonet.

The polls were opened early in the morning and a large number of citizens, a number of persons endeavored to vote when Captain Stiles threw his company across the street and gave the command to charge. The company encountered no opposition to their progress. The leaders of the charter faction then rushed to another place and declared the polls open again. Captain Stiles repeated his charge again, and cleared the street. R. Glasgow then mounted a box, called the crowd around him and advised them to disperse. Continuing, he censured the interference by the military, when Captain Stiles charged the crowd for a third time and brought the speech to an abrupt termination. The second ward polls were then declared open in another part of the city. Captain Stiles proceeded to the new voting place. The leaders of the charter faction after consulting with Captain Stiles, advised the crowd to disperse. The advice was followed and the excitement subsided. Nine of the leaders were afterwards arrested on a charge of conspiracy against the United States and city government, all of whom were held in custody.

Knights of Labor Troubles.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 21.—The Leader will publish a story to-morrow on "reliable authority" to the effect that the entire executive board of the Knights of Labor has been suspended because of there being no money in the general treasury to pay the expenses of the order. Also that all general lecturers, with the possible exception of Wright, have been called in for the same reason. Powderly is said to be preparing his resignation, which he will present to the general assembly in Atlanta, in November, for the reason that he is not getting his salary. He will then begin the practice of the law.

Murdered a Little Child.

EL DORADO, Kansas, Sept. 21.—Last Tuesday a farmer named Bloomer placed his young child in the care of Mr. and Mrs. Edwards for a few hours. When they returned the child was missing and no trace could be found. After vigorous searching, Bloomer made up his mind that Mrs. Edwards knew more of the matter, and charged her with murdering the child. She denied it, but a neighbor placed a rope around her neck and told her that unless she confessed she would be hanged. Just as she was about to be pulled up, she confessed the murder of the child, and she was undoubtedly by the neighbors, and if the story is verified, the Edwards will undoubtedly be lynched.

They are to be of a large size and will contain 15,000,000 feet of lumber. A saving of freight of $2 per 1,000 feet is projected. J. D. Speckles and William Dowdell, of San Francisco, are the leading promoters.

President Barnard's Will.

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—The will of the late President Barnard, of Columbia college, has been admitted to probate. Barnard gives his astronomical apparatus to his wife for life, the residue to the college. All his books to his wife, the residue to his children. He leaves $100,000 to be a fund for the Barnard college fellowship for the encouragement of scientific research, the income to support an astronomical observatory. A gold medal, to be known as the Barnard medal, is to be awarded to a person who shall have made some discovery of physical and astronomical science, or of novel application of science to purposes beneficial to the human race, as in the judgment of the National Academy of Science in the United States as shall be deemed most worthy of such honor.

A Colorado Teller Goes Wrong.

DENVER, Sept. 21.—It is reported on good authority that J. P. Williams, receiving teller of the First National bank, is a defaulter to the extent of $8,000 and has gone to Mexico.

The first of last week Williams was granted a vacation for one week and took his family to the mountains. The day after his departure he returned and gave an excuse that he had come back for some clothing which they had forgotten. He disappeared that evening and nothing was thought about the matter until to-day when the bank officials received a letter from Mrs. Williams asking where her husband was. They became suspicious and ordered an investigation of his books which revealed a deficit of over eight thousand. Further investigation shows that the night of the day he returned to the city was spent at a notorious house on Twenty-second and Lawrence street and the next morning he purchased a ticket for Paso del Norte. The detectives are of the opinion that Williams is a friend of Wells, the man who held up his bank several months ago for $100,000 and that he has gone to Mexico to join him. The bank officers refuse to discuss the matter and say there is no truth in the report.

FOREST FIRES.

HALIFAX, N. S., Sept. 21.—The largest forest fires ever seen on Prince Edward Island raged west of Summerside on Thursday and Friday. The loss cannot be estimated. Three saw mills and a large number of dwellings and out buildings were destroyed. Several people had narrow escapes from being burned. The rain which has fallen has partly subdued the flames, but the people are fearful lest the strong wind will again fan them into activity.

THE RUSSIAN EMEROR.

The Russian Emperor Will Arrive At Kiel Saturday.

A RAID UPON A LONDON CLUB.

The Attorney-General and the Creek Fee Question—Soldiers' Votes—The Blythe Estate—The Lily's Officers.

BERLIN, Sept. 21.—[Copyright 1889 by the New York Associated Press.]—The Kaiser Zeitung announces that the Russian yachts Dzhrava and Barevna and the Russian General-Admiral, conveying the Emperor, are timed to reach Kiel on the morning of the 27th inst. If Bismarck's plans are effected, instead of a short and unceremonious visit, the Emperor will be treated to a number of court banquets and diplomatic dinners. The absence of DeMurs, the Russian foreign minister, indicates the Emperor is determined to refuse Bismarck a political conference. All of the Russian papers agree exceptionally that the friendly statements of the Emperor have recently been excited by an incident arising from his conferring the order of St. Stanislaus on the Bulgarian Major Groueff, who kidnapped Prince Alexander of Battenberg, and who now is a Russian pensioner. The Emperor, at a military dinner, in the course of a conversation, expressed wonder that a general should have been given such a traitorous soldier. Three Prussian officers who wore the decoration of the order of St. Stanislaus heard the Emperor's words. They forthwith returned their insignia to Petersburg with a collectively signed protest. The Emperor, in the meantime, wore an order that had been given to a minister. The Emperor's exasperation was so intense that he demanded through Count Sonaroff, the Russian ambassador here, the punishment of the officers. The Emperor placed them under arrest for an unauthorized correspondence with a foreign government, but after two days he forbore a reprimand.

The maneuvers at Hanover terminated to-day. The Post published a report on the maneuvers which is instructive as to the readiness of the German army for the artillery and infantry. The corps using smokeless powder within 200 yards of the enemy without the latter being able to determine the position of the batteries, often taken on the flank and were unable to guess where the fire came. If it had been a real battle, they would have been annihilated. The Emperor is preparing a supply of smokeless powder for all the troops, including the second-class Landwehr. The latest perfected smokeless powder is so good that it can be used by the infantry and only a slight gray mist after the firing of the artillery.

The constant squabbles between 800 wards, United States consul at Berlin, and the merchants have resulted in the Emperor being sent to the foreign office by a syndicate of the merchants' society, regarding the consul's delay of business and unceremonious view of the fact that he had been being sent to the foreign office by a syndicate of
