

HERALD

DEPARTMENT.

SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH.

May 29, 1891.

General Cleanings. Sidney Dillon and party will arrive in Ogden this morning.

Several Salt Lakeites were registered at the Ogden hotels yesterday.

Scott Anderson went to Salt Lake last evening to be gone several days.

The postoffice will be open to-morrow from 8 to 10 o'clock a. m., and 4 to 6 p. m.

A strawberry and ice cream festival will be given in the Fourth ward amusement hall this evening.

The Novelty theatre, which has been running in Ogden for over three years, closes down this week.

A new monthly paper is to be established in Ogden. It will be known as the Ogden Real Estate and Mining Journal.

To-morrow is Decoration day. The leading business houses will remain closed during the hours of the ceremonies.

The Union Pacific passenger No. 7 arrived from the east on time yesterday with a heavy load of passengers on board.

The Southern Pacific train, delayed by the landslide in Nevada, day before yesterday, arrived in Ogden yesterday afternoon.

Ogden begins to put on her old-time appearance. With the electric railways being pushed ahead and other permanent improvements under way, the future of the city seems very encouraging.

A party of young ladies of this city will undertake the difficult task of reaching the top of Observatory peak, east of the city, next Sunday. They are undoubtedly not aware of the strenuousness of the trip they have before them.

The city tramway has been started and streets in the southwestern portion of the city are being graded.

Eighty thousand dollars were expended in the year of 1890 in improving the streets of Ogden city, and fully that amount will be spent this year.

It costs about $50 a day to keep the tramway in operation.

The case of the Henderson-Brinker-Garretson Street Railway company vs. the Ogden street railway, will come up before Judge Miner this afternoon, at which time the defendants will be obliged to show cause why an order should not be granted for training them from building a double track railway on portions of Twenty-fourth street.

First District Court. C. W. Brooks vs. C. C. Robinson et al.; order to show cause on May 29, 1891.

C. K. Bannister vs. Wyoming Pacific railway company, trial; default entered against defendant; order for judgment.

C. R. Reed vs. William Lowe, administrator; order setting aside former order and entering new; order overruling motion for a new trial.

The People etc. vs. Frank Chapman and Frank Hirst; trial continued; order by court for verdict of not guilty.

United States vs. Joseph Johnson; indictment unlawful cohabitation; on motion of David Evans order dismissing indictment.

The People etc. vs. Will L. Young; order continuing case for the term.
