THE CHORAL'S WORK

They Entertain the Visitors in Grand Style.

THE GUESTS ARE ASTONISHED

Stephens Provides a Menu That the Strangers Will Long Remember—A Grand Programme.

When the visit of the Irrigation congress is all over and the members are settled back in their homes, nothing in the whole memorable occasion will have as green a spot in the memory of the delegates as the complimentary concert tendered by the Choral society at the tabernacle last evening.

THE CHORAL SOCIETY

It is doubtful if one of the visitors was missing from his place when the great choir from the electric lights and gas jets lit up the magnificent auditorium. There were 1,150 complimentary tickets out, and there were probably another 1,000 to 1,500 people who paid the admission fee. The audience was nearly equally divided above and below.

THE CHORAL SOCIETY

It was a rare sight when the 300 singers arose in answer to a signal from Stephens and prepared to open the concert. The ladies were all in bright colors and presented the appearance of one huge bank of roses. The gentlemen, dressed in uniform black, looked scarcely less striking.

THE CHORAL SOCIETY

Nothing better could have been selected to open the concert than the grand selection, "Dannacus," one of the prominent hits of the June festival. It is a selection in which the great organ and the 300 voices are pitted against each other, and thunders forth a volume of harmony seemingly independent of the other, but both blending and uniting in a glorious whole.

THE CHORAL SOCIETY

The number selected, and the enthusiasm would have been more pronounced still had it not been for the evident doubt of many of the visitors as to whether applause in the building were the proper thing or not. Mr. and Mrs. Metcalf's duet followed, and by that time the audience had found that applause was permitted, and they had just got a rousing encore. Mr. and Mrs. Metcalf have a store of songs which are selected and executed with the same taste, feeling and skill as the previous ones.

THE CHORAL SOCIETY

Mr. Hardy said that he was heartily in favor of the measure. That if it was passed, it would have a tendency to encourage estate buyers to come into the city that the council had the power to reduce the assessment roll and Mr. Young deemed it in the interest of the city to pass the resolution.

THE CHORAL SOCIETY

The resolutions were adopted as read by Mr. Young. Messrs. Young, Fraidenham, Heath, Folland, Spafford, Pendleton and Spafford voting in favor, and Mr. Lynn against it.

ACCIDENT AT THE NEW IDEA.

An accident occurred in this mine a few days ago which occasioned considerable loss of property. During a rainstorm the drift above the mines broke through and gave free access of sand and water to the shaft, and in a very short time 100 feet of the shaft was filled. A force of men was immediately set to work clearing it, and yesterday it was reported clear. About 500 feet of track was also destroyed. Mr. Osbourne, the manager, was in the city yesterday and purchased iron to repair the loss.
