

WHO DREW IT UP?

Quarrel Over the Paternity of the Tuscarora Suit.

Passage at Arms Between Two Attorneys on the Result of the Appeal to Judge Zane.

If Attorney Newton is as good as his word, Powers and Hiles will have a libel suit to welcome them home from the Chicago convention.

During the trial of the Tuscarora versus the straight Democracy, Oden Hiles, who is one of the attorneys for the plaintiff, accused the defects of the complaint by saying that the person who drew it was ignorant of the rules of pleading.

Newton's name was signed to the document, and Hiles' remark naturally cast necessary reflections upon his legal ability.

When court adjourned, Mr. Hiles, as attorney for the straight Democracy, asked Mr. Newton if he was the "father of this legal freak of nature."

The latter, not wishing to appear as lacking in the most fundamental rule of law—that of good pleading—unwittingly, "let the cat out of the bag."

He grew somewhat excited and said: "Why, I am going to sue Powers and Hiles for defamation of character; Powers drew that complaint and signed my name, and now Hiles comes into court and reflects on my ability by saying that I don't know how to draw complaints."

The room was filled with "straights," and the voters of Ogden which greeted Newton's answer brought the deputies in from the marshal's office.

"Why," remarked Judge Norrell, "your name appears at the bottom as attorney; and through you did not draw it you are responsible for the character, because you read and then signed it."

"That shouldn't make a difference," Newton replied. "If I had not signed it, I would not have allowed me to charge it if I had written it."

The unstrained mirth of the "straights" still echoes in the new court room and during the second outbreak Attorney Newton vanished down the elevator shaft.

Lawyer Billy Condon, who attended court during the entire morning and afternoon sessions, made a pithy diagnosis across the street where, by a strange coincidence, he met Judge Powers, Newton and "Curly" Glen.

He asked Powers if he was responsible for this "most defamed of deformities."

Judge Powers replied: "I didn't draw that complaint; Oden Hiles did." "Well, I like Hiles' call," was all that Billy could say.

This, is probably, in one respect, one of the most unique cases ever tried in a court of justice. The most important part of any action, has no author. Hiles says that "the man who drew it did not know anything about the rules of pleading." Newton claims that Powers drew it, and Powers says that none other than Oden Hiles was its father.

It will ever remain a legal curiosity among the files of the court office. Chief Justice Lochrie's decision has been reversed, and the Tuscarora contingent laughed out of court.

One of the representatives of the Powers' wing, who was selected to go to the Chicago convention as an alternate on his fighting merits could not hold until he arrived at the windy city but broke loose in front of the Walker House last evening.

A young attorney who never boasts of his pugilistic qualities remarking on the case, said that it would be quite appropriate if the Tuscarora would attack one of their special car, bearing the legend, "THROWN OUT OF COURT."

Mr. Tarple took exception to the remark, and when a mutual friend endeavored to pacify him by an introduction to the young attorney, he showed his culture by remarking that he did not wish to know the latter. This satisfied the lawyer, who said that he considered himself the gainer; whereupon Tarple tried to show his superior breeding by making a vicious pass at the attorney. Tarple received a "slinger" on the nose. Friends then interfered, and another score was marked against the Tuscarora.

AMUSEMENTS.

"NATURAL GAS." The theatre had a very good audience last evening on the occasion of the re-appearance of those clever comedians, Donnelly and Girard, in their well-known farce comedy "Natural Gas." The old time skit is well worn and yet interpreted by the reticent people who have made its reputation. It goes with as many blows of laughter and as many groans of sympathy as it sprang on the public. Girard, who is the special star of the company, got a rousing welcome, and Donnelly and Amy Ames were warmly received. These three are the mainstays that make the success of the occasion, though they were well supported by Mr. Kirby as the main attraction, and by Mrs. Neely as a specialty.

Miss Neely Stevens, the well known pianist, who has been giving several recitals in St. Mark's school this evening. The following opinions show the regard in which Miss Stevens is held in the musical world.

Miss Neely Stevens is a very talented and industrious American pianist, of excellent technical abilities, endowed with great intelligence, and a fine endurance.

Dr. HANCOCK'S REMEDY. HAMBURG, January, 1892. Boston Courier, March 10, 1892: Miss Stevens has a refined musical taste and a very brilliant technique. She gave several difficult passages in a manner that deserves the highest praise. Her solo work was excellent and seriously a blur was noticeable throughout. Her octave passages and chords were given in a very bold manner and showed plenty of reserve power. She aroused her audience to great enthusiasm and was often recalled.

The San Francisco Independent, 1887: Miss Neely Stevens is a great gifted pianist with most excellent schooling. Her compositions are beautiful and artistic. Force and delicacy are characteristics which she possesses in equal degree, and technical difficulties for her appear not to exist.

TUSCARORA TOUGHS.

A Pleasing Prelude to the Convention Now to Convene at Chicago.

There was a little Tuscarora tiff last evening. The procession was showing off on the street and the chief of the fire department was exhibiting his form and good looks in front of the umbrella brigade. When in front of the Hotel Knutsford the Rapid Transit car was going south, and apparently was a foot or a half too far when it stopped; the procession all stopped and Stanton retreated from behind Gus Wood and rushed to the car. The first thing a reporter noticed was a man named Ford on the front step of the car and Stanton, playing Sullivan on the motorman of the Rapid Transit car line. There appeared no just provocation for the tiff, and Stanton, the superintendent of the Salt Lake street car company, measured the distance and found four feet from the front of the car to the next telephone pole, giving Stanton and his umbrella brigade plenty of room to pass.

"Stanton," said a citizen last night, "should either retire from public service, where conservatives pay his salary, or else sweat off showing his peculiar propensities. NO SUPERHUMAN STRENGTH, BUT NATURAL VIGOR." To attain the muscularity of the individual who steps aside shades like the fly, apply tending his arm is vouchsafed to few. But to acquire a reasonable amount of physical power and constant energy, to eat, sleep and digest well, to possess an equable, quiet nervous system, is possible. The nervous, excited and dyspeptic individual who begins and pursues a course of Hostetter's stomach bitters. The fruition of his hopes is not remote either. Speedily felt are the tonic effects of the medicinal ingredients, and there are no less permanent than prompt attainment. The bowels, the liver, the stomach, the kidneys—all co-operate, under the benignant influence of the comprehensive medicine, to insure those stable guarantors of health, harmony, regularity, vigor of action. Never was there discovered a medicine more better calculated to actuate and keep moving the main springs of healthful vitality. Use it for malaria, rheumatism, indigestion, biliousness, kidney complaint, in grippe.

HAMMOND HALL.

The Graduating Exercises Last Night.

Misses Axtan and Sadler and Joseph S. Brandon to Graduates of the Year—Touche's Recital.

Hammond hall was crowded to the doors last night by the friends of the Salt Lake academy, who had assembled to witness the exercises of the graduating class, assisted by members of the junior class.

The platform was handsomely decorated with pot and flowers, and the wall immediately behind was a mass of evergreens.

Following is the programme: Piano solo (selected)....Prof. T. H. Badolite. Prayers....Rev. C. L. Biles of Chicago. Vocal solo (soprano)....Schubert. "The Men to Make a State"....George W. Donnan. "The Best of the West"....George H. Blake. Extract from Epilog on Gardiner....James G. Haines. "The Best of the West"....George H. Blake. Vocal solo, "Le Carnaval de Venise"....Ar. T. Root. "The Best of the West"....D. Davis. Essay, "Higher Education for Girls"....May E. Axtan. Oration....Joseph S. Brandon. Essay, "What Makes the Woman"....Joseph S. Brandon. Vaudeville address....Joseph S. Brandon. Duets, "The Crimson Glow of Sunset Fades"....Miss Linnie Rutt. Presentation of diploma....By the President, Benedictus....Rev. J. H. Turill.

The essays of the two ladies of the graduating class were appropriate, well delivered and showed much care and thought.

Miss Axtan reviewed the progress of the higher education of women from the time of their admission to the college, and said since that time their opportunities had steadily increased. "Wherever the test had been made," she said, "women have not been the losers."

Miss Sadler thought that intellectual ability, honesty, truth and virtue made the true woman, and that the coming woman should not be afraid of work.

The vaudeville address of Mr. Joseph S. Brandon was excellent, but we are sorry we cannot say as much regarding his oration, employed by the Salt Lake City Street Car Company, frankly describes his sentiments and testifies to the virtues of the treatment of the Copeland Medical Institute in the Progress Building.

Mr. William C. Staines, a well-known gentleman, employed by the Salt Lake City Street Car Company, frankly describes his sentiments and testifies to the virtues of the treatment of the Copeland Medical Institute in the Progress Building.

For the past nine years my life was filled with fevers, coughs and uncertainty, arising from the fact of my continued ill health. No matter what I tried to relieve me the result was always a failure. I had but little doubt that my affection was fast inclining into consumption.

If You Commence The Day Good Naturedly

You are likely to continue so throughout the day. It largely depends on how the first meal is prepared and served. If you have a stubborn, old fashioned cook stove with poor draught, and slow oven and smoking, you are likely to have everything go wrong, but if you have a "Quick Meal Gasoline," all difficulties are overcome. Practically, all one has to do is to turn the button, apply the match, and the stove does the rest.

There is neither coal, wood nor kindling, smoke nor soot. Best of all, there is no dust nor ashes. With a "Quick Meal" the kitchen becomes one of the cleanest, coolest and most delightful rooms in the house. In summer especially it is well worth its cost.

It will be a great pleasure for us to show you the "Quick Meal" in operation. We are especially well prepared to fill all orders for mining and milling supplies and the wants of prospectors. Full line of Refrigerators, ice cream freezers and lawn sprinklers and hose.
