CONFERENCE ENDED

The Amalgamated Officials Do Not Accomplish Their Object.

NON-UNION MEN ARE ASSAULTED

The Ever Victorious Police Fail to Capture the Amalgamated-General Situation of the Homestead Strikers.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 13.—The conference between the Amalgamated Association and the American Federation of Labor ended this evening. The conference has issued a statement to the American public, reciting facts of the Homestead strike and stating that they were not receiving the high wages generally supposed. While there are 2,251 men employed in the thirteen mills whose average wages are $1.50 per day, forty-six averaged between $2 and $5 per day; 1,177 averaged from $1.00 to $2.00, and 1,028 receive fourteen cents per hour less. The statement says that there is less than 500 persons in the mills, and not a dozen skilled workmen who can perform the work required. The situation is such, they say, that we confidentially assert that at no time during the struggle were the prospects of victory as bright as they are now. The manifesto closed with a request for contributions to aid the strikers and a notice not to come to Homestead or Pittsburgh for employment until the pending dispute is settled and recommended that all contributions be sent to the president of the Amalgamated in care of the American Federation of Labor, 100 Broadway, New York.

CONFIDENCE OF VICTORY.

Mass Meeting of Laborers at Homestead

After an investigation the council will prepare a statement for the public.

The principal trans-Atlantic steamship companies, he said, put all their steerage passengers through a thorough cleansing process before allowing them on the vessels. FOREIGN FLASHES

The Berlin International Exhibition Officially Squeezed.

THE EMPEROR'S GREAT POWER

Gladstone's Great Policy—Horseflesh as an Article of War—Foreign News in General.

Berlin, Aug. 13.—(Copyright, 1892, by the New York Associated Press.)—Emperor William has definitely squelched the proposed Berlin international exhibition, withdrawing all official support from the scheme on advice of Von Caprivi, in this instance the emperor who personally favored the holding of the exhibition, bowed before the will of the majority. Herr Furth's restoration is now credited to his having honored the emperor's disfavor by combatting the Schicks lottery. The Visuelle Zeitung publishes an article protesting against the emperor's swaying all important matters through the minister's slavishly ask, says the article, what is best for the country, but what will please the emperor, the ministers having a general leaning for him and unwavering methods, even if they are sometimes oppressive, as under Bismarck.

Satisfactory assurances have already been given to the German horse breeders that the emperor's policy is a permanent one. The emperor's horse breeders agreed to open a first-class restaurant for the purpose of educating the upper classes to the use of horse-flesh as a food.

Two hundred soldiers engaged in swimming exercises in Neuss river today. They formed in three rows, carrying rifles, and swam in linen suits. When half way over

The fighting was of the most bloodthirsty character, and the opposing forces frequently engaged hand to hand, using machete, bayonets and rifles as clubs. The losses on both sides were heavy, but the exact number of killed and wounded is not known yet. The Legation force, estimated at 4,000 men of all arms, is advancing rapidly on Ciudad, Bolivia, and another bloody fight is expected at any time.

DUG UP FROM THE SEA.—A Sunken Treasure Vessel of George III's Time Located.

(Special to THE HERALD—Examiner Dispatch.) NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—Captain Thomas Simonds, of the hydraulic dredge Little Bear, which is anchored in the sound just south of Port Morris dock, was very active today. He had been grappling day after day for $4,800,000 lost in the British ship Hussar. After the first plunge of the bucket about one cubic yard of mud was dumped upon the grating. When the men began to sort and wash for treasure, the captain saw something yellow glitter and picked it up. It was an English guinea of the time of George III. It was in a state of perfect preservation, and only a livid discoloration by the water. Hal a treasure more were found, then two gold buttons from the uniform of a British naval officer. The next plunge of the bucket brought up a quantity of copper coin, very thin by the water. Captain Simonds said: "We are right over the stuff. I am cock certain, and I expect to have all of it up very soon."

THEY WERE SCRAPED THEY PROVED TO BE PURE GOLD. Captain Simonds took them to a jeweler and they were pronounced sterling silver. That ended the hunt of the day, but it established beyond doubt that Captain Simonds has located the lost Hussar and her enormous treasure, and is, perhaps, on the threshold of great wealth for himself and other members of the company. This is, as far as is known, the only coin and precious metal ever recovered from the wreck, except thirty guineas by a wrecking party in 1870. The dredge is anchored in ninety feet of water, directly over the spot, where it is said the Hussar, containing the money to pay off British troops, sunk with the gold in 1780. The ship is directly off One Hundred and Thirty-seventh street.

CHICAGO, Aug. 13.—The superintendent of the Treasury small service, who had charge of the train which carried twenty millions of gold from the federal sub-treasury in San Francisco to the sub-treasury in New York, arrived here today. He says he has no desire to repeat his experience of the trip and is of the opinion that the government will not try it again soon. The publication of the fact that the train had started increased the danger and necessitated increased vigilance. The result was a loss of many hours of sleep and considerable discomfort. The cars on the front car were so situated that they could see without being seen, and at the same time cover and protect the gold and the men with Winchester. The party had two or three bad scares on the trip. At one place in the mountains a railway employee placed a torpedo signal on the track and came near losing his life as a train wrecker, the guards thinking it dynamite. At another point a number of tramps made a dash to board the train, but that a precipitous retreat was confronted by a score of double-barreled rifles.

DECLINE OF SILVER.—It Is the Subject of Great Speculation on Wall Street.

Henry Cleve Talks on the Results of the Present Depression in the White Metal—Some Conditions as to War Times.

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—The steady decline in the price of silver has been the subject of all manner of talk pro and con on Wall Street for a month past, and yesterday it was renewed with vigor. Henry Cleve, on the silver question, said: "The recent depreciation in silver is largely the result of manipulation and bear attack for the purpose of producing an effect upon values and prices as well as stocks. It serves as a good purpose, therefore, for silver to be dealt on New York Stock exchange, and was moved up and down most expertly for speculative purposes. The effect was seen to be injurious, and from spring to fall silver was strictly from the East and the dealers prohibited. The same should be done now with regard to silver, for the white metal now commands the same position in the exchange as it did when it was at a low price."
