

SALT LAKE HERALD.

SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH.

BY THE HERALD PUBLISHING CO.

BRIEF AND BREVES.

James Kelly was arrested last night for begging. High priests meeting at the assembly hall at 11 a. m. today.

Daniel W. Moran was yesterday appointed a rotary public for Salt Lake county.

The grocery store of Richard James, in the twenty-first ward, has been closed under an attachment.

The city employees who should have been paid a week ago were paid yesterday—in warrants. About $5,000 in scrip was distributed.

The Herald greeted its readers on Monday morning with a seven-day per week paper. Readers of the Daily Herald will welcome the addition.

The second payment on the purchase of the bonds, $25,000, was made yesterday, and Treasurer Duke is prepared to cancel warrants for No. 1 to No. 200.

A sack containing 400 paper chips, red, white and blue, was found last night in the rear of a house on Franklin avenue. The owner can have it by applying at the police office with "link" charges.

In the police court yesterday, A. F. Van and William Voth were fined $10 each for fighting. John Best charged with disturbing the peace, forfeited $5. Frank Wilson charged with robbery, was discharged.

The county cupid yesterday issued marriage licenses to Charles D. Echols, aged 28, and Lavina Sargent, aged 21, both of Salt Lake, and to Joseph Tordahl, aged 31, and Matilda Forsberg, both of Sandy.

Yesterday was the anniversary of the birthday of the late Daniel H. Wells, and in accordance with the custom of the family for many years past, it was celebrated with a family reunion at the residence of one of the children in the Twelfth ward.

The Federated Trades and Labor council met yesterday and some new delegates were admitted. After disposing of the regular routine business, a report from the Tailors' union regarding some trouble with Wallace & Co. was read and referred to the arbitration committee.

At 6 a. m. yesterday the thermometer registered 38, at noon 51, and at 6 p. m. 64, the maximum temperature being 64, and the minimum 35. Clear, sunny, with a light breeze from the west.

The Home Fire Insurance company have received word of the total destruction by fire of a main street building. The loss was $1,000 and Mr. Early carried a good line of insurance, but unfortunately he had failed to pay his premium when it was due and his policy was void.

At an early hour yesterday morning, Joseph David, who resides on Seventh West street, left a main street building for his home. David was quite drunk and H. M. Smith, colored, and another man volunteered to see him home.

The special subject of the service at Burlington Congregational chapel, H and Third streets, Sabbath evening will be "The Wonderful Story of the Wonderful Book." During and after the sermon, proper, the pastor will give chart and stereoscopic illustrations of a score of the rare old manuscripts of the Bible.

BETS GO A-BEGGING.

Liberal Money Scarcer Than Snowballs in July.

PRATT HOLDS A LEVEE.

Scores of Good Citizens Call to See Him.

Old Liberals Hooply Wheeling into Line—J. B. Rawlings is Not Disgraced, but Wants to Work for the Cause at Headquarters.

Wanted—Bets of any sum from $5 upward that the Liberal ticket, or a majority of it, will win the coming city election.

Scenes of sporting tendencies traversed the town yesterday, hunting for Liberal money to cover any of the following propositions:

That Laver Baskin will receive 500 majority; that the Citizens will have control of the next council; that fourteen out of the twenty officials to be voted for will be Citizens nominees; that Johnny Axton will not carry the three precincts.

To all their exertions only gloomy silence came as the answer. One bettor wanted to wager $25 that Powers would not run fifty votes ahead of his ticket, and that the total vote for the lowest man on the Citizens' ticket would be 200 more than Powers' legislative vote. No takers.

Broker Woodley was lucky in finding one innocent abroad with whom he wagered $20 to $15 that Mayor Baskin would have 500 majority.

A sporting man offered to wager $50 to $60 that the Citizens would elect seventeen out of the twenty nominees which means carrying the five general offices and the First, Third, Fourth and Fifth precincts. No takers.

Unfortunately Lew Kelsey some months ago wagered with a banker that the total Liberal vote in this legislative district (Salt Lake city) would be 200 more than the combined Democrat and Republican vote. His check for $50 was put up and will be presented for payment by the man whom he wagered with bright and early on Nov. 3.

Isaac Woolf, president of the Liquor Dealers association, passed Citizens' headquarters yesterday morning and was invited to make a friendly bet on the result. He mournfully shook his head and passed on. By the way the donations from the liquor men who nominated Sam Ewing, and the tax of one day's pay levied on the workmen in the employ of the city, are said to constitute the whole operating fund on which the Boss is operating. The candidates, with the single exception of Harry Duke, are not in financial condition to be bled with very overwhelming results.

AT HEADQUARTERS. The work of making the canvass, identifying illegal voters, ascertaining where absentees have gone, and in other ways getting ready for election day, is being steadily pushed. The heads of the operations Messrs. Dunbar and Whitehead, have their hands full, but the aid they receive everywhere almost makes their onerous work a pleasure. Scarcely an hour passes that does not bring intelligence of some hitherto active Liberal who has become disgusted and sent in word that he will vote the reform ticket; some come in themselves and tender their services to help the cause. Among the letters received yesterday was one from Attorney J. B. Rawlings, who has hitherto been counted among the disgruntled, reading as follows:

Salt Lake City, Oct. 25, 1893. To the Chairman Citizens' Committee: My Dear Sir—It will afford me great pleasure to lend my best efforts to your movement. My former hasty conclusions to the contrary notwithstanding, I am a Democrat, but an equally fervent Liberal, and her people you are at liberty to assign me any where you may deem for the best interests of the movement. If at any other place, you will possibly be glad to know, if life lasts and the registration is correct, my vote will be cast for the Citizens' ticket. Sincerely yours, J. B. Rawlings.

ARTHUR PRATT'S LEVEE. In his office just over the Citizens' headquarters, Arthur Pratt yesterday held a sort of public reception the greater part of the day. The Herald's plain and unvarnished statement of the influences that nominated Sam Ewing in the Liberal convention, and of his record as a violator of the liquor law while he held office as a city councillor, had the effect of crystallizing the rapidly growing opposition to him all over the city, and of the many who dropped in to see Mr. Pratt and assure him of their vote and influence against the Sunday saloon champion, nearly all said Ewing's vote would be the lightest cast on the Liberal ticket.

The number of men who applied for positions as policemen, jailors, detectives, etc., it would be hard to tell, but to all Mr. Pratt said with a smile that whereas he felt more than hopeful, he wasn't in yet. Among the "feelers" the coming marshal had to meet during the day, was more than one from the liquor interest, who intimated to him in a mysterious sort of way that he'd better see Ike Woolf, president of the Liquor Dealers' association, that it wouldn't do him any harm, etc., etc. Mr. Pratt returned respectful but firm answer that he was not hunting Mr. Woolf; that he was making no pledges to any man; that the saloon men knew where he stood by his past record; that he made no deal with liquor dealers as liquor dealers—the business was entitled to the same protection as any other as long as they kept within the law. As for the dives, the hobos, and the horners of the town, he didn't care how soon they knew he was opposed to them tooth and toe nail, and if he was elected they might as well look out for pastures new.

A SICK SOLDIER. Louis Zeller Taken with a Fit on Second South. Louis Zeller, a soldier from Fort Douglas, was taken with a very severe fit on Second South street, opposite Wonderland, last evening. He fell down and the muscles became rigid, and then his body cramped up and turned over and over like a wheel. A dozen of people found it hard work to hold him. When the violence of the spasm abated he was limp, completely exhausted and unconscious. The ambulance from the police station was called and he was taken to the police office, where he had a second attack, but slightly less severe than the first. Dr. Marshall was called and administered restoratives. Desk Sergeant Armstrong telephoned to the fort and the doctor from the post came down with the ambulance, by which time the unfortunate man was sufficiently recovered to be moved and taken to the post. It appears he has been on the sick list for some time and came to town without the knowledge of his officer. He has been about a year at the fort and worked in the garden during the greater part of the summer.

SCULPTOR DALLIN RETURNS. Award for the Equestrian Statue to the Hon. Mrs. Dallin in Sheridan. C. E. Dallin, the sculptor, returned yesterday from Chicago and the east. In addition to the other honors won by him, it will be remembered that Mr. Dallin received an award at Chicago for an equestrian statue of Sheridan. It now appears that there was but one sculptor, Mr. Taft, on the awarding committee, and he was strongly favored by Mr. Dallin's model. Mr. Yerkes, the gentleman who is to present the statue to Chicago, decided, however, that he must have a running horse, and as there was but one animal of all the pieces submitted in that attitude, it received the preference; under the circumstances, however, Mr. Dallin should feel more highly honored than his successful competitor.

Mr. Dallin will remain here for two or three months, completing the work he has in hand. Mrs. Dallin is in Boston and will remain there for some time.

AMUSEMENTS. The London Comedy Company. This morning at the box office of the theatre the sale of seats will begin for the engagement of the London Comedy company, which is due next Tuesday and Wednesday evenings. The principals of the company are Mons. Mauris and Miss Ffolliott. They both said to be very clever people. A tripple bill will be given each evening.

In the report published in The Herald of the Citizens' mass meeting it was by error stated that Mr. John Collier gave a recitation with splendid effect. This recitation, "Lasta or of the Stampede on the Rio Grande" was given by Mr. Charles H. Collins, the very clever leading man of the Liberal Stock company which by the way, has under active rehearsal that great melodrama, "Romany Rye."

Wonderland. This is children's day at this family resort, and an instructive treat is in store for all those attending. Parents should not miss this opportunity to take their children to see the Equimau village. The management have secured eleven genuine Esquimaux, and they also have their native dogs, sleds, hunting and fishing implements, etc., etc. The children will see a graphic illustration of how they live in the far north. Besides this exhibition, a very good performance of "Rip Van Winkle" is being presented by the stock company in the theatre.

LAND OFFICE ITEMS. A Patent Received—Contest Filed—Two Homestead Entries. In the land office yesterday a homestead patent was received for Peter Christiansen, conveying the northwest quarter of section 22, township 7 north, range 1 east.

Joseph Alfred Elder, of Garfield county, filed a contest against the above entry, claiming the same quarter of section 22, township 7 north, range 1 east, as the southwest quarter of section 8, and the southwest quarter of section 9, township 7 north, range 1 east.

Catherine Crezee, of Logan, filed a homestead application for the northwest quarter of section 2, township 12 north, range 2 west.

Peter P. Hendrickson filed a homestead application for section 34, township 9 north, range 3 west.

CITY JUDGES OF ELECTION.

The Democrats, Republicans and Liberals Equally Represented.

BALDWIN'S FIELD DAY.

Seventeen Illegally Registered Liberal "Voters" Knocked Out.

J. C. McNally Chosen to Fill the Vacancy on the Legislative Ticket Caused by Judge Cherry's Withdrawal—Other Political Matters.

The Utah commission yesterday took up the matter of the appointment of judges of election for Salt Lake county. The importance of the matter was recognized, and the session was a long one. The appointments of the city were completed last evening, the Democrats, Republicans and Liberals each being represented by one judge at each poll, the appointments being as follows:

FIRST PRECINCT. First Poll—E. A. Smith, D., presiding judge; C. O. Whitemore, R., Charles E. Kaylor, L.

SECOND PRECINCT. First Poll—Thomas Adams, D., presiding judge; Barlow Ferguson, R., C. M. Hammond, L.

THIRD PRECINCT. First Poll—Moroni Gillespie, D., presiding judge; E. B. Lyons, R.; Henry Barnes, L.

FOURTH PRECINCT. First Poll—L. M. Earl, R., presiding judge; W. H. Bywater, D.; J. E. Jennings, C. E.

FIFTH PRECINCT. First Poll—M. E. Sowles, D., presiding judge; T. Ellis Browne, R.; Chris Diehl, L.

SEVENTEEN KNOCKED OUT. Objections on the Ground of Non-Residence Sustained. Judge Baldwin yesterday heard the objections in the cases of nineteen registered voters. Attorney Denney was present to look after the Liberal interest. The objections were sustained in seventeen of the cases, on the ground of non-residence, and the following names were ordered stricken from the registration list:

L. A. Doles, Charles G. Seyboubt, R. G. Smith and B. R. Sutherland, from the Fourth precinct; William Endus, Henry James, Peter Crowley, C. E. Travis, G. M. Young, E. Wagner, Fred Schmidt, H. A. Kane and W. Hurst, from the Fifth precinct; Nephi Groves from the Second precinct; Homer Smith from the First precinct.

There is another long list to be heard today, among which it is expected there will be several cases of non-citizenship that are likely to make mighty interesting reading.

J. C. McNALLY CHOSEN. To Succeed Judge Cherry on the Legislative Ticket. The Democratic county committee met last evening at J. H. Moyle's office for the purpose of filling the vacancy on the legislative ticket caused by the withdrawal of A. N. Cherry. The Democratic candidate for representative from the Fifth district, J. C. McNally was chosen.

McNally was one of the most prominent of the younger lawyers at the bar here, and his ability is recognized by all. Aside from that he possesses social qualities which make him a general favorite, and he is sure to poll a heavy vote.

The following committee was appointed to take charge of the campaign in this county: Granville Gillette, G. B. Blakely, G. A. Gibbs, John Burt, C. E. Angell.

FROM A WORKINGMAN. Ridiculous Objections to Mr. McCormick—Reasons Why He Should Be Elected. Editor Herald: W. S. McCormick, the Citizens' nominee for councilman in the Third precinct has been the subject of many sides by those who should give him hearty support. In these attacks upon him false and malicious statements have been made. As a sample of these I quote the words of a native of South Carolina, who in a conversation, used language whose bitterness and utter disregard for facts seems convincing proofs of his membership in the "I-am-wrong" society. The words he uttered are particularly memorable in that "I would not vote for McCormick, anyhow, as I don't vote for bankers. Do you think McCormick cares for the workmen of this city? What did he ever do for them? All he thinks is to make money for himself and to oppress the poor man. If elected he would want to stop all public work. It is bad enough at present, but what would happen if the class of men to which he belongs were to be put into power? No, sir! I will not vote for him. I want to see our city and county prospered and to represent us in the council and in every other place. We want men who, like ourselves, have passed through the mill and who can feel the wants and troubles with which a poor man must contend.

"But all this aside I would not vote for McCormick on any account because he is a Catholic. I don't want any of that class in mine. Why, look at what they are doing in the eastern states, where they wish everything to go according to the say-so of Pope Leo of Rome. Do you think that we are going to let the pope come into Salt Lake? Not by a jugful! I will vote against a Catholic every time. No McCormick for me!"

Perhaps the spleen made manifest in this attack upon Mr. McCormick would not fall of effect, if the utterances did not show upon their face that the speaker was profoundly ignorant of his subject. All he seemed to know about the candidate were two facts—that he is a banker and that he is a Catholic. What is particularly memorable in that this man is not the only one who is ignorant in this respect. "Every day we hear men talking against Mr. McCormick, with no more knowledge of his mind than Paddy Moran has of statemanship.

For the information of those deluded men I wish to state a few facts about the man who has been so basely maligned. Some four years ago this so-called enemy of the laboring men built one of the finest residences in the city. He entrusted the building to a contractor because he was afraid of the workmen? No! He had so much confidence in them that he had the work done by the day. Do you think he tried to make the men work for small wages? No! He paid the very highest rate. Thus he distributed thousands of dollars among the workers, and they were enabled to trade at the stores and so help business. Does that look like he wants to oppress the poor man? In this one instance he helped hundreds of the inhabitants of this city.

Since the erection of the house he has caused the construction of the finest stone building in the city at a cost of a quarter of a million dollars and has thus given to a great many laborers, thousands of dollars which were spent in the city and did a great deal of good. Of course he looked after his own interests, but who can point to one instance where he has oppressed the poor man? And who can point to instances where he has helped them? So much for the character and his relations with the workmen and mechanics.

As to what is said about his Catholicism there can be but one reply. If he is a Catholic he is simply exercising the God given right, that is afforded by our Constitution, to worship in whatever manner he may choose. To all those who live under the protection of the stars and stripes this right should be accorded without let or hindrance or fear of consequences. As to whether Mr. McCormick has chosen to ally himself with the Catholic church in the exercise of his natural and unalienable right, I do not know. But I do know that he has been in our midst for the last twenty years, and that he has been a good, square and honest citizen during all that time. I do know that his all is bound up with the prosperity of this city. Above all his family is here.

In the face of things such as these and the many other good things that can be said of him, any man is foolish and unreliable who will say that Mr. McCormick will do ought to hinder the progress of this city for the reason that he is a banker or a Catholic. The only logical course of reasoning points out unmistakably that his whole efforts will be given to the advancement of Salt Lake and its citizens in every material way. Therefore every good square, honest and upright citizen of the Third precinct should consider it his duty to vote for him on the 7th of November, and thus give a place in the council chamber to a capable, progressive and honest man, who will be a credit to his constituents and an honor to the city.

S. H. CARLISLE, 4 Polson avenue, Fourth West.

NEW QUARTERS. Secretary Richards Looking for Halls for the Legislature. The next meeting of the legislative assembly will be in quarters more convenient and comfortable than those in which the last session was held. Secretary Richards has advertised for bids for suitable and convenient halls for this purpose and hopes to secure quarters well adapted to the purpose.

Powers and the Trib. How conditions are reversed. The "Mighty" Tribune, which has ever revealed amid the dead and musty past; that has taken more interest in ghost stories than in living issues, that has ever been a rough look under the wheels of progress, is now whining because it finds itself incapable of leading the recreant but respectable members of the Liberal party back over the Dead Sea and into Egypt. While posing as a Republican sheet and denouncing the Liberal party, it is willing to swallow everything from O. W. Powers, who wears on his right jaw the venerated brand of Democracy, to Pat Laman and "Gally," the dog catcher, in order to prolong its rule or ruin policy.

The editor in chief is a man of marked ability and with a heart as warm and tender as that of a woman, except when in the heat of his hatred of the Mormon people, he allows his passions rather than his intellect to guide his pen.

Has the smoke of the conflict which he has been waging, blinded him to the hand writing on the wall? It should not require the inspiration of a modern Daniel to tell him that his Liberal "kingdom is departing."

The people of Utah are forgiving and will gladly welcome C. C. Godwin to the higher and broader platform of purely political warfare.

As for Powers, he will become a kind of wandering Jew. The Utah Democracy can't take chances on the cramps, which a dose of O. W. Powers would give them—Millard County Blade.

TOLD ON THE QUIET.

A Liberal, Yet Not Against Statehood—Politics and Persons.

"I am a Liberal, yes," said a very prominent business man in my hearing lately.

"But," said I, "how can that be the only excuse for a man allying himself with the Liberal party now in defeat statehood. What other campaign cry have they got?"

"Oh, you see—"

"Yes, I see, but with statehood really here, what figure would you and your party cut? Statehood means the death-kend of the Liberal gang, doesn't it?"

"Yes." "You believe that Utah is perfectly able to govern herself?"

"That she has the requisite population?"

"Yes." "That she has had it for many years past?"

"Yes." "You are not at the present time seeking a municipal office?"

"No." "You are anxious to sit in the legislative halls next January?"

"No, indeed." "Then why should you remain a Liberal? Why should you continue to ally yourself with a party, whose sole reason for existence now is the idiotic fear that with Utah as a state, Salt Lake and its citizens may happen something horrible would be done to the mountains for a moment, carefully inspected the ceiling of my den, and then said:

"I'm hanged if I know, but I'm a Liberal."

This man represents a class of people that is rapidly becoming extinct. I am pleased to say that they were Liberals in the past, when there was something in sight for them. I understand, but why they should cling to that party when they admit that its usefulness is at an end, is something beyond mortal ken.

There should be no Benedict Arnolds in the Citizens' party.

My Scandinavian friends are doing great work in the aid of the Citizens' ticket. They are a sturdy race and are men that friends can tie to. The gentlemen at the head of the movement are entitled to all praise; so, indeed, are the rank and file, that will present an unbroken front to the Liberal hordes on election day.

"Johnny, the Kid," who aspires to the rectorship, still continues to make himself obnoxious to the business men of the community, and is the laughing stock of his acquaintances. But the poor fellow can't see it. More's the pity. His friends, or those desirous that he should at least make a fair showing, should call it by off.

"I don't wonder that Jim Hegney clings to the rotten bulk of the Liberal party," said a gentleman who claimed to know what he was talking about. "When Hegney came here he was as poor as the proverbial church mouse. During his residence, in Salt Lake, however, he has accumulated about $100,000. Only a few days ago he purchased real estate and buildings valued at $75,000."

Did all this profit come from boarding hobos, employed by the city, while he has been waging, blinded him to the hand writing on the wall? It should not require the inspiration of a modern Daniel to tell him that his Liberal "kingdom is departing."

The people of Utah are forgiving and will gladly welcome C. C. Godwin to the higher and broader platform of purely political warfare.
