How the Missile Was Made and What
It Contained—Valliant's Allegance
That He Had No Accomplices, and
Is Alone Responsible for the Deed—
He Wished to Deal a Dramatic Blow at the Institutions of the Country.

Paris, Dec. 10.—After a day of great excitement, following the explosion of the bomb in the chamber of deputies, the authorities have announced that they have the bomb-thrower in custody. The miscreant is named Marchal.

He is an anarchist, and has made a full confession.

He soon fell under suspicion of the authorities, and, pressed by the prefect of police, made a full confession, showing in the most distinct manner, among the persons questioned by the police yesterday evening, was the man whose nose was almost blown off by the explosion of the bomb in the chamber. The suspect gave his name as Valliant, and said he lived at Chosey Street.

At the hospital the suspect was carefully watched by four detectives and they noticed that he gave the name of Marchal. This confirmed the suspicions already entertained and several detectives immediately started out with instructions to find Valliant in establishing the identity of Valliant or Marchal.

His Suspicions Confirmed.
By morning the prefect of police was in possession of a full confession, which made it clear that the man in the Hotel Dieu with his nose almost blown off was a dangerous anarchist named Valliant who has been at Metz.

Valliant is 25 years of age, and had passed several years in the penitentiary, and in 1887 he returned to France and married; now he has two children. Valliant, however, soon deserted his wife. Since 1888 he has been connected with the extremist branch of the socialists, and with regular anarchist groups, and made himself prominent by incendiary speeches and eventually became a member of the committee of the revolutionary socialist group, the arrangement.

He Glories in His Crime.
Early in the day M. Lepine, prefect of police, the public prosecutor and the examining magistrate visited the Hotel Dieu and had a long interview with Valliant, who at first protested his innocence and was quite indignant at the questions put to him. Finally the police proceeded to search him.

Your name is Valliant, and not Marchal, as you claimed when you came to the hospital.

After a moment's hesitation, the suspect admitted his identity and confessed he had thrown the bomb.

When questioned as to his reasons for attempting the deed, Valliant said many people, Valliant replied defiantly.

I wished to deal a thoroughly dramatic blow at the institutions of the country, and wished to cause a great sensation. I endeavored to aim the bomb at M. Dupuy, glory in the act, and I only regret my hand was so weak and that the bomb did not explode near his mark.

Valliant said the bomb he used was a little iron sauceman which he bought at a bazaar near the Hotel de Ville.

Made of a Sauceman.
The sauceman, when loaded, contained, he said, a number of nails, which you found in the floor of the chamber. Inside the sauceman was a tube with a compressed center. In the tube, these being separated at the point where the tube was compressed by a small ball of cotton saturated with sulphuric acid, which at a given moment would be consumed by the sulphuric acid, thus allowing the peric acid to mix and cause the explosion.

The anarchist then described a variety of articles which, he said, would be found in his lodgings at the Hotel Union, where he had lived under the name of Marchal.

But, Valliant added, "if you are going to search my room you had better be careful, unless you want to be blown to pieces. I advise you especially to be careful in handling a box which is full of explosives."

His Lodgings Searched.
M. Rouiller, Lepine and Meyer, the examining judge, accompanied by the prefect of police, went to the Hotel Union, where Valliant lived under the name of Marchal.

Valliant had, eight days previously, hired a furnished room in that establishment. The authorities found a number of nails scattered around the chamber of deputies after the explosion. The nails were found in the room described by Valliant, and which he had evidently discarded because it was a trifling matter to be carried about without danger of detection. The authorities also found the trunk mentioned by Valliant, but it did not contain any explosives.

Had He Accomplices?
Detectives express the belief that Valliant had a number of accomplices, but Valliant replies to all questions with the remark:

"You need not put yourself to the trouble of searching for accomplices. I alone did the deed."

All sorts of the bomb found are mostly pieces of iron and large-headed hob-nails, as well as a number of smaller nails.

Nothing was found to indicate the bomb was loaded with dynamite, and it is evident it was not charged with powder.

The setting of the chamber near where the bomb was thrown is peppered with marks, made by the flying nails. The window near the roof is broken, and one of the benches occupied by the doorkeeper is perforated by a large piece of iron.

The Federal Election Repeal Bill
Will Be Fought by the Republicans—Democrats Who Favor the Hawaitian Policy of Cleveland.

Washington, Dec. 10.—The tariff bill will not come up in the House before a week from tomorrow at the earliest. The majority report will be filed on Wednesday, but it will be some days later before the Republicans have a report prepared.

The tariff admission bill will come up during the coming hour tomorrow. The Republicans will probably continue filibustering and this will return the bill to its place back on the calendar.

Kilgore expects that before Saturday night the bill will have been passed by the House and sent to the Senate.

It is not impossible the Hawaiian matter may come up in the House before the end of the week. It is not thought the Democrats will resist the consideration or the resolutions on Tuesday.

Hill's bill for the repeal of the federal election laws will be vigorously fought in the Senate by the Republicans, who don't expect to prevent its passage, but hope to gain a party advantage by the view on record.

Hoar will endeavor to send the bill to the committee on elections, and should he succeed, final action will be considerably postponed.

Merrill is expected to make a set speech this week on the portions of the president's message relating to tariff reform.

The chances are the Hawaiian question will come up in the Senate in connection with the president's special message.

A large number of Democratic senators stand ready to defend Cleveland's policy.

CIVIL SERVICE.

Classified Clause Should Be Extended to Free Delivery.

Washington, Dec. 10.—The majority report on civil service for the present year is a document of about 15,000 words. The most interesting portion is that bearing on the extension of classified service to the free delivery postoffices, the subject on which Commissioner Johnson dissented, and was accordingly removed by the president a short time ago.

The report contains a list of 100,000 free delivery lines, and recommends classification by grade. In support of this view, the satisfactory results of classification in the leading agencies are given.

The report says in unclassified service, taken as a whole, the governmental methods of the United States are so much inferior to those of other countries that it is difficult for a man of ordinary intelligence, who wishes well to his country, to avoid the conclusion that it is in their favor with anything like tolerance.

The report likens our system to that of other countries, and says that the leading agencies of that country, taken as a whole, the governmental methods of the United States are so much inferior to those of other countries that it is difficult for a man of ordinary intelligence, who wishes well to his country, to avoid the conclusion that it is in their favor with anything like tolerance.

GREATEST ROMAN LAYMAN.

He Will Dissolve His Banking House in the Spring.

New York, Dec. 10.—The World tomorrow will state that the old and well known banking house of Eugene Kelly & Co. will be dissolved in the spring.

The firm consists of Mr. Kelly, its head, his two sons, Edward and Eugene, and John Donohoe, of San Francisco, the head of the Kelly-Donohoe banking company of that city.

Eugene Kelly's fortune is estimated at $10,000,000. His beneficiaries to the Roman Catholic church have earned him the distinction of being considered the leading layman of that faith in this city, while his donations to the Irish home rule movement, as well as his liberal contributions to other charities, have been no less renowned.

In appreciation of what he has done for the church the pope last year appointed him "Cameriere di Cappella Spada" or Chamberlain of the Cape and Sword, an honorary office in the household of the holy father. Mr. Kelly's most valuable recent service to the Irish cause was as president of the National Federation of America, and treasurer of the Irish parliamentary fund. On one occasion, when it was decided to try to raise $150,000 for the cause of home rule during the parliamentary elections, he subscribed $20,000, and it is said he carried privately to John Dillon that he might be necessary for the entire $150,000 if necessary.

A LOCOMOTIVE RACE.

Another International Contest Not at All Improbable.

New York, Dec. 10.—Another international race is in prospect. It is not one of yachts this time, but of railroad locomotives. The challenger is Fred Charles Laby, of England, who arrived here on the steamer New York yesterday. He is the inventor of the mammoth locomotive, "James Tolson," which was exhibited at the World's fair, and which he is now waiting a favorable opportunity to amount against "No. 999" of the New York Central, or any other American locomotive.

Canon Farrar writes the London Times that he is about to erect in St. Martin's church, London, a beautiful memorial to the late Dr. Phillips Brooks.

Edward M. Johnson, of the law firm of Headly, Landerback & Johnson, died in New York last night. He was ex-Governor Hughes's partner for a quarter of a century. He once ran the Democratic ticket of Ohio for lieutenant-governor, and was defeated.

The year '93 began on Sunday, and it will end on Sunday, thus giving fifty-three Sundays to the year.

Palermo, Dec. 10.—The socialistic riot at Partinico, particulars of which were cabled on Saturday, arose from an increase of taxation. Forty thousand persons, many of whom were women, surrounded the municipal offices, shouting "Long Live Savoy!"

The rioters burned the municipal registers and entry books, extended the fire to the houses, and the roof collapsed at 1 o'clock.

At 11:30 tonight the walls fell and buried two policemen and wounded many others. The wreckage was carried to the city and was insured for 1,200,000 francs. It contained 11,000,000 francs of grain and 200,000 kilograms of linen.

One firm which occupied a portion of the buildings claims its loss of grain amounts to 1,000,000 francs.

St. Paul, Dec. 10.—The Pioneer Press' Helena, Mont., special says: Last night, two highwaymen went to the house of John Bower. The door was opened by a boy. A gun was poked into his face and he was ordered to assist in the robbery.

Two regiments of troops quickly suppressed the riot.

AT TRAFALGAR SQUARE.

Lively Scenes in and Around That Historic Place.

London, Dec. 10.—The police force in Trafalgar square today was larger than usual, in view of the rumor that anarchists intended to hold another meeting, but whether frightened by the police demonstration or owing to the excitement created by the Paris dynamite-bomb-throwing, only a few persons were present.

Four Italian anarchists shortly after 11 o'clock entered the square, and were obliged to run away owing to the hostility of the crowd. There was great excitement for a moment when the police shouted "Stop" to a man carrying a mysterious-looking bundle. The man fled, followed by a part of the crowd, and the square was cleared at 4:30 p.m.

There was no trouble of a serious nature.

THE ITALIAN MINISTRY.

Negotiations for the Formation Are Still in Progress.

Rome, Dec. 10.—Negotiations for the formation of the new Italian ministry are still in progress, but nothing definite is yet settled. The newspapers believe that the composition of the cabinet: Premier, Crispi; interior, Naracore; public works, Sonnino; finance, Peruzzi; treasury, Bonelli; agriculture, Cagiano; navy, and posts and telegraphs, Cosensers or Ricotti; war, General Baccelli; education, Spadolini; justice, Crispi; foreign affairs, Adorni; Resman, Duke Caleni and Signor Norini are mentioned.

Calenda is named as minister of justice. Signor Ricotte will, it is said, be offered the ministry of war, and Signor Spadolini is mentioned as minister of foreign affairs.

CAMPOS IS ALL RIGHT.

His Conduct Fully Approved by the Cabinet Council.

Madrid, Dec. 10.—The cabinet council has approved the conduct of General Campos at Mellila, and decided to renew the powers in full.

Latest news from Mellila is to the effect that a friendly native who has visited Kaybes says, Kaybes declared that he had no intention of leaving upon his laying down arms. He announced, however, that he would consent to obey Muley Arraf, provided the Spanish government promise not to enter the territory.

THE MARBLEHEAD.

She Is Still Lying at Anchor in the Harbor.

New London, Conn., Dec. 10.—The new cruiser Marblehead still lies at anchor in harbor and probably will remain here some days. Her safety valves are out of order and it is now claimed they were during the trial trip. This is believed to be the basis for the request for a new trial. It is said that owing to the fact that her valves were not in the best of order, the escaping steam caused a great loss of power, and a reduction of speed.

The builders are confident she can average 19 knots an hour, and would have been called upon to resign by the harbor till it is known whether there will be another trial.

Strange Death of a Non-Union Man at Wilkesbarre.

Wilkesbarre, Dec. 10.—G. W. Guerley, a non-union telegraph operator, died in the hospital last night, with symptoms of arsenical poisoning. Last Thursday he was called upon to prosecute a man who was charged with poisoning.

The week thirty or forty non-union men, who boarded at the same restaurant, have suffered from severe cramps in the stomach. A thorough investigation will be had.

THOUSANDS GO TO WORK.

Wilkesbarre, Dec. 10.—All collieries of the Lehigh Valley collieries, tributary to the Lehigh Valley railway, will resume operations on full time tomorrow. This will give employment to thousands of miners and help others who have not worked regularly since the Lehigh Valley strike began.

THE MIDLAND TERMINAL.

Last Rail of First Division Laid Yesterday.

Denver, Colo., Dec. 10.—At noon today the last rail of the first division of the Midland Terminal railway was laid. The line is a Santa Fe feeder from the gold mines of Cripple Creek district, reaching the main line of the Santa Fe at Eldorado. It is now finished to the Midland at Midway, between Cripple Creek and the main line. Over 500,000 tons of low grade ore have been held awaiting the construction of the line. With only half the line built it would be possible to operate many mines at Cripple Creek now closed on account of the high transfer rates.

Antwerp, Dec. 10.—The Haasseele house, destroyed by fire this morning, was one of the historical landmarks of the city. The building was begun in 1564 and completed in 1568, from plans by Cornelius Vriendt. At midnight two men were seen leaving the house and house and ran along the quay. It is believed they were incendiaries, as the fire broke out immediately after. The docks were filled with shipping. The seamen, soldiers, and police made strenuous but unsuccessful efforts to subvert the flames. The tower and roof collapsed at 1 o'clock.
