Thirty-Two Hundred Men of the National Tube Works Strike.

McKeesport, Pa., May 14.—At midnight the whole force of the National Tube works are on a strike. The movement has been in progress for some weeks past and was inaugurated today in the buttweld department, where 100 men left their posts. At 6 p. m., the men in the lapweld department joined the strike.

Then the employees in all the other departments held a conference with the strikers, and at the close of the conference the strike was declared general. The fight is made for a restoration of the 29 per cent. reduction in wages made last February.

Thirty-two hundred men are out. It is probable the men in the National Tube works, and in consequence of the same company, will join the strike, thus adding 2,000 more men to the strike. The tube works officials, fearing a raid on the plant, called on the city police force for protection.

Big Raid Planned.

Concessions, Pa., May 14.—The only change in the strike situation in this section of the region was an increase in the working force at most of the active plants and the resumption at Hill Farm mine with a full force of men.

BRECKINRIDGE IS ROUNLY CENSURED.

Red Hot Resolutions Passed in Lexington Yesterday.

A MENACE TO BOTH SOCIETY AND HOME.

A Shame Upon Manhood, an Insult to Womanhood.

Fathers, Husbands and Brothers Implored by the Women of Kentucky to Wipe Out the Stain That Breckinridge Has Brought on the Name of Ashland District.

Lexington, Ky., May 14.—The people of Lexington and Fayette county, including several hundred ladies, turned out today to the anti-Breckinridge meeting at the opera house.

The meeting from a standpoint of morality is a tremendous success. The opera house was filled and 600 people were turned away.

Professor J. W. McGarvey, an eminent minister of the Christian church, was the first speaker, and he showed Breckinridge up in no favorable light. He said that it would be a disgrace to the district, to the state and to the country to return such a man to Congress, and closed his speech by strong appeals to the young men to vote against him.

The other speaker was Judge M. J. Durham, who denied Colonel Breckinridge was the only man in the district who had been a member of Congress. The speeches were both well received and made a good impression.

Resolutions were adopted denouncing Breckinridge and calling on the people of the district to rise up in their might and vote against the silver-tongued persuader.

Harvey C. Clay got up and offered a resolution, not only denouncing Breckinridge's morals, but asking that Senator J. S. Blackburn be asked to obtain leave of absence from the rostrum to speak against Breckinridge, the audience went wild. The speaker was deafening, and it was plain to see that Breckinridge's boom started by the silver-tongued himself, a little more than a week ago, was badly strained, if not broken.

The Resolutions.

The following are the women's resolutions adopted:

"Whereas, W. C. P. Breckinridge has announced himself as a candidate for re-election to Congress from Ashland district, notwithstanding his confession, under oath, of having been guilty of unbecomingly and hypocritically offering a resolution, not only denouncing Breckinridge's morals, but asking that Senator J. S. Blackburn be asked to obtain leave of absence from the rostrum to speak against Breckinridge, the audience went wild. The speaker was deafening, and it was plain to see that Breckinridge's boom started by the silver-tongued himself, a little more than a week ago, was badly strained, if not broken.

"Resolved, First—That we, women of Lexington and Fayette county, Ky., do solemnly protest against his re-election as the representative of this district.

"Second—We believe that such an endorsement of W. C. P. Breckinridge at the polls would be a disgrace to Kentucky, a shame upon manhood, an insult to womanhood, a sinful example to the youth, and a menace to both society and the home.

"Third—We earnestly implore our fathers, husbands, brothers to wipe out the stain that W. C. P. Breckinridge has brought on the fair name of the Ashland district.

The resolutions passed by the men are similar and they adopted one recommending the calling of such meetings by ladies in every county in the district.

Judge Jerry R. Norton, who could not be present to preside, sent a letter in which he stated that in his opinion the re-nomination of Colonel Breckinridge would be detrimental to the best interests of Ashland district, to Kentucky and the Democratic party of the nation.

The reading elicited much applause. The meeting was purely anti-Breckinridge. Not a word was said in favor of his competitor.

To Expel Breckinridge.

Chicago, May 14.—The board of managers of the Union League club this afternoon unanimously voted to expel Congressman Breckinridge from the roll of honorary members.

Mr. Breckinridge will be notified at once of the action of the club and will be given ten days to make a defense.

SINGING FOR HIS LIFE.

John Abell, a celebrated singer and musician, who lived in the reign of Charles II, had a very great notion of himself, and would not perform unless he pleased. There is a funny story told of how he was once made to sing against his will.

While traveling abroad for pleasure he came into the town of Warsaw, Poland, where he was to perform. The famous singer's arrival, and Frederick Augustus, the king of Poland, immediately sent word that he desired Abell to appear before him.

"Tell his majesty," replied John, curtly, "that it suits me not."

"Back went the court messenger with a very white face; he knew his master's temper, too well to disobey him. He returned to the king, and said: 'Tell Master Abell, I thundered the king, that I will have him come! And take you, boy, three stout fellows with you.'"

KING OVER LIONS.

Let's Them Toy With Damms—Never Gives Them An Opportunity to Get an Advantage.

HOW TO REFINER HIM.

That is your work. The young boy who is careless about his appearance, unrefined in his manners and lacking all thought is the one over whom a sister has had no influence. So when he comes to you, even though you are forced to regard him as somebody else's brother, do what you can in a quiet way to make him conscious of right and wrong. You will have an opportunity some day to tell him how difficult it was to teach your own brother that the shirt should be worn with the buttons brushed and clean linen were necessary if he wished to associate with his sister. That boy will look in an embarrassed way at his own hand and you may become conscious of a mused and decidedly soiled collar, and he may remember that his clothes are not very well brushed and that the hat he wore was not clean. As soon as he recognizes these facts he will reform, and you will be surprised to see how quickly he will remedy his mistakes, and how he will respect the opinion of a person he must respect refinement if he desires to be a friend of Jack's sister.

Then when the impolite word is spoken, or perhaps it may go beyond that and be a rude or vulgar word, a little look and a little reminder that he has forgotten himself will cause him to think that the possibility of the man who once begins to think are wonderful. The fact that Jack's friends who charm him with their wit and wit and he will suggest to the boys who come to the house that they have got to do this or they have got to stop that. My dear girl, you have no idea what your influence is over your brother.

The day will come when brother will ask you, with many blushes, if you can't give him a little help in the next block. It doesn't take you a minute to understand that your brother is in love. Possibly you may feel a touch of jealousy, but if you do, don't betray it. Your brother will come to you with a love that is stronger than any other, and you have no right to find fault with him if he has found the love before you.—Ladies Home Journal.

MAKING OTHERS' ENJOYMENT.

This faculty of making others enjoy themselves is really a gift; but it may also, in a high degree, be made an accomplishment, and it depends largely on the nature and genuine good feeling of the lover to be happy and happiness is contagious; and every one loves to be happy with a clear conscience, and the good nature that takes no advantages, that makes no unkind droppery, an excellent foundation for the attainment of this accomplishment.

Whereas, W. C. P. Breckinridge has announced himself as a candidate for re-election to Congress from Ashland district, notwithstanding his confession, under oath, of having been guilty of unbecomingly and hypocritically offering a resolution, not only denouncing Breckinridge's morals, but asking that Senator J.
