

Two large receptions, the Alta club on Thursday evening and the one at the residence of Judge and Mrs. Zane on Friday, distinguished the past week from the quiet weeks which preceded it.

The hop at Fort Douglas and the dancing party given by Mrs. P. L. Williams were other events of interest. There were numerous dinner parties on Christmas.

The old year will have many watchers, there being a number of parties for tomorrow evening, the largest of which will be the one given at the Manitou, for which over one hundred invitations have been issued.

Four hundred invitations were issued for the reception given by Mrs. C. S. Zane, her daughter, Mrs. John S. Wether, and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. John M. Zane, and the home of Judge and Mrs. Zane was thronged on Friday afternoon, not only with many of the representative ladies of this city, but of its sister towns.

Appropriate to the season the rooms were decorated chiefly with holly and evergreen, and the light colors were emphasized by the red and green shades over the electric lights.

The hours were from 2 o'clock to 6. The three ladies were assisted in receiving by Mrs. James A. Miner, and in the rear parlor Mrs. H. P. Henderson, Miss Kate Lawrence, Miss Katherine Lowe and Miss Blanche Kimball also assisted. Mrs. John Marshall presided in the refreshment room, where Miss Addie Zane, Miss Margaret Richards, Miss Rose Gleadowing and Miss Ruth Kipkepatsek served the guests.

On Wednesday evening Mrs. Parley L. Williams gave a dancing party in honor of her daughter, Miss Katie. Canvases were stretched in the double parlors and dining room, making of the whole a handsome ball room, which was adorned with potted palms and chrysanthemums. The evening was one of rare pleasure for all present.

The invited guests were: Misses Addie Zane, Julia Dean, Eloise Sherman, Laura Sherman, Jessie Forbes, Fannie Bird, Louis Odell, Nellie Dooly, Louise Richards, Marguerite Richards, Misses Grace Jacobs, Bessie Bacon, Edna Alf, Jasmine Young, June Sadler, Phyllis Young, Frankie Sharp, Misses Ethel Paul, Alice Paul, Mattie Kimball, Stella Salisbury, Bessie Gleadowing, Bertina Carter, Misses Louise Putnam, Margaret Thompson, Laura Thompson, Ardel Cummings, Louise Smedley, Anna May McMillan, Edna Remington, Carol Young, Messrs. George Smith, Kent Smith, Dana Smith, Mayne Smith, Enos Hoge, Lew Colbath, Harry Colbath, Hal Hempstead, Charlie Lawrence, Bert Walker, Charlie Walker, Jay Gilmer, Salsbury Gilmer, Tod Reddin, Roy Hampton, Fred Odell, Joe Richards, Ralph Richards, Matt Gleadowing, Rob Gleadowing, Rob Terman, Tod Caine, Ernest Bamberg, George Wallace, Abil Sawyer, Milt Miles, Ed Kimball, Albert Allen, Lorraine McFarland, Hal Cobb, Earl Cummings, Mortimer Allen, Miles Varian, Albert Allen, Francis Colton, Rob Harkness and Walter Snoup.

Among those from the city who attended the hop at Fort Douglas on Friday evening were Misses Julia Dean, Katie Williams, Florence Roundly, Stella Terman, June Sadler, Jasmine Young, Addie Zane, Emilie Katz and Messrs. Dana Smith, George Smith, Wayne Smith, Brig Little, J. T.

Goodwin, Jay Gilmer, Max Smith, Alma Katz and H. J. Cobb.

The last reception of the Alta club surpassed all former receptions given by that club. It fully deserved the too often misapplied description, "A brilliant affair." The social record of the year is no longer complete without a reception or ball in the sumptuous apartments of the Alta club. This yearly function has come to be a permanent institution. A complete account of the reception of Thursday evening appeared in Friday's Herald.

The Athletic association of the University of Utah gave a ball at Christensen's hall on Friday evening. It was largely attended and well managed, and beside being an occasion of much pleasure to all participating, a neat sum was netted for the association.

Mrs. T. Egan gave a very delightful Brownie silver high five party at her home on Sixth East street last Wednesday evening. The game was so called from the fact that a card was pinned to the person of each guest with a brownie pin, that of each gentleman containing the name of a country through which the brownies had passed in their travels and that of each lady containing the name of a capital. The lady and gentleman having the cards representing the country and its capital were partners. The winners of prizes were Mrs. Driscoll, to whom was awarded a hand-painted winter scene. The gentleman's first prize, a silver letter holder, was won by Mr. Luce. Mrs. Charles Egan was the recipient of the ladies consolation prize, a rag brownie, and Mr. Jack, the gentleman's consolation prize, a mock glass of wine. His unsuccessful attempt to drink the sparkling liquid afforded much amusement to the guests present. A very pleasant evening was spent by the company.

At the Denhalter ball Christmas eve army life was represented in a realistic way, guns, knapsacks and canteens being hung about the wall. The platform on which the musicians were stationed represented a camping ground, the tent and pine trees besprinkled with cotton, forming a very picturesque scene.

Those present at the Ionic club on Wednesday evening were: Madam Rivers, Merinaux, Gleason, Slace, Crismon, Stanton, Bartling, Houtz, Peters, Haywood, Stiehl Houghton, the Misses Russell, Cora Cady, Mattie Lewis, Maud Dewoody, Bessie Geass, Minnie Taylor, Emma Lunt, Belle Robinson, Hilda Lagan, Ethel Griffith, Daisy Moffatt, Lee Moffatt, Slade, Jennie Rawlins, Florence Keelson, Lizzy Livingston, Lulu Ryan, May Raybould, Messrs. Miss Mackintosh gave an elegant little luncheon yesterday, in which the beauty of the decorations was exceeded only by the sumptuousness of the menu. The dining room was adorned with its Christmas garlands of holly and red ribbons. The centerpiece of the table decorations consisted of a tall vase, surrounded by six smaller ones, containing red carnations, and twined about the vases and massed between them were sprays of smilax. The lunch cards were decorated with Brownie figures and tied with red ribbons, through which were drawn red carnations.

Miss Mackintosh's guests were Mrs. Stayer, Mrs. George F. Downey, Mrs. A. F. Holden, Miss Rookledge, Miss

Harkness, Miss Wallace and Miss Miner.

Mr. and Mrs. W. P. James entertained a small party of friends at a 7 o'clock dinner on Christmas. The formal decorations were daybreak carnations. After discussing the elaborate menu the guests repaired to the parlors where the evening was spent in the enjoyment of music by Mrs. Hamilton and Mrs. Fabian. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. Fabian, Mr. and Mrs. Billings, Mrs. Hamilton, Mr. Packard, Mr. Jungk, Captain Pogran and Mr. Walter Wolf. The same party will be entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Billing on New Year's day.

One of the most tasteful parties of the week was the violet tea given last evening by Miss Winifred Kimball, her guests being principally the young ladies with whom she was associated in the Christmas party given for the benefit of St. Ann's Orphanage and some of the young men who were generous patrons or assistants during the same. The doilies and lunch cloths were embroidered with violets. The cards were decorated in the same manner, and each lady was provided with a bouquet of violets tied with ribbon of that shade. Each gentleman was presented with a boutonniere. The menu was also in accord with the color scheme.

The invited guests were Misses Clara Clawson, Carl Young, Emma Lunt, Noble, Edith Noble, Judge, James, Frances and Katherine Judge, Lillian Sinclair, Bertha Benedict, Arvell Cummings and Messrs. Ives Cobb, S. K. Hooper, Kenneth Dodelman, Kenneth Kerr, Chauncey Benedict, Rob Smith, Francis Colton, Fred Noble and Walker Gunter.

won fresh laurels and displayed wonderful executive ability as "master of ceremonies" at the Alta club reception. The reception with the handsome committee the entire responsibility of this most successful affair devolved upon him and he attended to the minutest detail. He is very justly esteemed by the ladies as perhaps the most popular member of the club and is in equal favor with the members. Could the colonel have been persuaded to grace the reception with the handsome regalia of the governor's staff, the happiness of his friends would have been complete. By the way, the colonel is something of a sportsman and the other day bagged two canvas backs at one shot, and at the club "the boys" now call him "Canvas Back Dick."
