Although Sunday, Much Work Was Accomplished.

Baptists Probably Had the Largest Reunion in Tents at Washington, Where in Tents Were Conducted By Some Notable Divines—A Satisfactory Day.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—Although the Sabbath today was not one of rest for the large army of Christian Endeavorers who are still in Washington, there was no demonstration of a secular nature, but the local committee had prepared a programme that provided for meetings practically from sunrise until a late hour in the evening.

The attendance at the numerous services was very gratifying. Rarely has the capital city seen the masses of so many distinguished divines and Christian workers in other fields as on the present occasion, and the people have not been slow to take advantage of their presence in order to hear the gospel as preached by them. About eighty of the pulpits of the city were filled today by the visiting clergymen at the 11 o'clock service. The day began, as indeed has all since the convention formally opened on Thursday, with early morning prayer meetings in over thirty of the churches presided over by the presidents of the local Christian Endeavor societies in the respective churches.

The topic assigned for discussion at these gatherings was prayer, and Bible study. "I will make it the rule of my life to pray and read the Bible every day." These were followed by the Sunday school at 9:30 o'clock, and later both the regular church services at 11 o'clock. The visiting societies who filled the pulpits at these services included the following: Rev. W. H. Towers, Manchester, England; Rev. E. T. Root, Baltimore; Rev. R. Dyatt, Newark, N. J.; Rev. C. H. Crawford, New Orleans; Rev. E. W. Thompson, Patterson, N. Y.; Rev. A. Bates, Westminster, Md.; Rev. W. D. Reid, Montreal; Rev. T. H. Walker, Baltimore; Rev. Charles Woods, Philadelphia; Rev. T. P. Wooding of Mount Pleasant, Hon. H. C. Wardleigh of Ogden, and Mr. C. H. Hanks of Eureka, and Grand Master John T. Buckle of this city was an interested listener to the discussions of the committee. The representatives of the railway company of the meeting Monday evening, and were given a careful hearing by the committee. IF I SHOULD FAINT.

If I should faint beside the way, When thinking of me kindly say; To older times like this I'de bet, That fades beneath the fevered fret Of summer's fervid, glaring ray; It was too tender long to stay, And so it died." Will you not say To older times like this I'de bet, If I should faint?

Assured and strengthened by your "Ye I shall remember," now the gray Of eventide holds no regret; I know that you will not forget The promise as you kneel to pray, If I should faint.

—Alonzo L. Rice, in the New Bohemian. LONDON THREE HUNDRED YEARS AGO. It is with difficulty that London life three hundred years ago can be imagined, and London itself has changed as much as the life of the people. In those days it was no exaggeration to speak of "silver-footed Thames." The river was a place for bathing, fishing and boating. Hundreds of watermen plied between the city and the southern bank. Old St. Paul's dominated the city and provided a recognized but unsuitable meeting place for business men and pleasure seekers; it was the customary promenade for citizens and courtiers, soldiers and poets, the fashionable and the disreputable worlds. The citizen lived over his shop with his family and apprentices. The city was the center of an animated and gayly colored life. In the afternoons there were the performances at the theatre on the bankside, the Globe, the Swan, the Hope, the Rose, the Swan, the Paris Garden, all of which were in the neighborhood of Southwark, and might be reached either by old London bridge, or by taking one of the crowd of small boats that were in attendance. The traffic between the city and the theatre was the mainstay of many of these watermen, and when, owing to the prevalence of the plague, the play-houses were closed, the loss of custom naturally affected them severely. There is a curious petition extant in Dulwich College, in which the "servants and pliers" of Lord Strange beseech the privy council to withdraw the restric-

Knights of Pythias. The meetings, considering the hot weather of the past week, have been fairly well attended and the brothers have every cause to feel proud.

When C. Gunnel, Monday night, called at Calathia in order to be notified that a good number of the old stand-bys were present. Joseph Gries was passed into the mysteries of the rank of esquire.

Myrtle lodge and Monitor convened as usual but transacted no business. The meetings were well attended and were both very enjoyable ones.

Faithful old Rocky Mountain had three candidates in the rank of esquire and one in the rank of page. There were a number of visitors present and a few interesting speeches were made.

The joint installation held at Eagle Gate No. 10 lodge rooms on Wednesday evening last proved a grand success. Speeches were made by all the officers-elect and also those retiring from office, and a most enjoyable evening was spent.

Applications for membership are still rolling in, and No. 10 is nearly in the lead for membership of the Salt Lake lodges.

Brother S. W. Darke has the sympathy of all the A. O. U. W. of Salt Lake in his late bereavement in losing his child.

The committees appointed from the different lodges for arranging matters for A. O. U. W. day on August 19 will meet the first of the week and complete all necessary arrangements.

Scrofula

Infests the blood of humanity. It appears in varied forms, but is forced to yield to Hood's Sarsaparilla, which purifies and vitalizes the blood and cures all such diseases. Read this: In September, 1894, I made a mistake and injured my ankle. Very soon afterwards, two inches across formed and in walking to favor it I sprained my ankle. The sore became worse; I could not put my boot on and I thought I should have to give up at every step. I could not get any relief and had to stop work. I read of a cure of a similar case by Hood's Sarsaparilla and concluded to try it. Before I had taken all of two bottles the sore had healed and the swelling had gone down. My is now well and I have been greatly benefited otherwise. I have increased in weight and am in better health. I cannot say enough in praise of Hood's Sarsaparilla." Mrs. H. Blake, So. Berwick, Me.

A Sore

THE MODERNISTIC. Let me, like planets, move unchanged aloof; Neither to wild hopes given, nor dismay; Neither to aims that lead me far astray; Nor to dark doubts that round each spirit throng.

Let me, with unmoved soul face all life's toll; I would be calm 'e'en to the gates of hell. —William Francis Barnard, in the New Bohemian.
