

THE DAILY HERALD THE HERALD COMPANY.

R. C. Chambers, President. A. W. McCune, Vice-President. E. A. McDaniel, Manager. OFFICE, THE HERALD block, corner West Temple and First South streets, Salt Lake City.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION. DAILY, PER MONTH, $3.00. DAILY, PER QUARTER, $8.00. DAILY, PER YEAR, $28.00. SEMI-WEEKLY, PER YEAR, $15.00. SUNDAY, PER YEAR, $10.00.

THE HERALD is a franchise member of the United Press, and receives the complete leased wire Overland and Pacific Coast news reports of The United Associated Presses, embracing accurate intelligence of all current events in the whole world.

- National Democratic Ticket. For President, WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN Of Nebraska. For Vice President, ARTHUR SEAWALL Of Maine. Democratic Congressional Ticket. For Congressman, WILLIAM H. KING.

NOTICE. The city circulation of The Herald has been leased by Mr. J. O. McCracken, who will assume control tomorrow morning, November 1. All subscribers due The Herald up to and including October 31, will be paid to The Herald company.

Perhaps Mr. Cleveland considered himself too good a citizen to register. This will be far more of a day of anxiety than of rest to the presidential candidates.

The Tribune says that Martin Christopher's nomination is shameful. And so it is. If any one wishes to know how the gold standard works all he has to do is to study the bond deals.

Francis Armstrong, L. C. Hall and J. S. Rawlins would make a county court that could not be surpassed. Lillian Russell, it is reported, is to marry again. All that is known of her intended is that he is to be fool No. 5.

A Republican legislature means a Republican senator, which means that Senator Arthur Brown will succeed himself. The New York World, with all its pretensions, does not know any more about the mining industry in Utah than does a Comanche Indian.

"SILVER AND PROTECTION."

The Republican party places protection before silver and all other issues. Having demoralized silver in 1873 and always having sought to make the tariff higher and higher, nothing else was to be expected but that it would place protection before silver.

In his speech at the theatre Thursday night, Senator Arthur Brown, a thoroughly consistent Republican, did the same thing; in fact, as a Republican he could do nothing else.

The Herald wishes to make this statement to advocates of free coinage—If you vote to send a Republican to either branch of congress it is almost inevitable that you will regret it.

The fight will not be over when Bryan is elected; there will be many more battles to win before a free coinage bill can be sent to the White House; and at some point or points members affiliating with the Republican, or anti-free coinage, party would be found in equivocal if not absolutely antagonistic positions.

Such members sent from this state would be under obligations to the McKinley wing of the party here and to the national organization. If they failed to observe these obligations they would be spurned and become political pariahs.

It must be admitted by candid men that it is essential to elect Democrats, who will be under no party pressure to dodge or avoid the issue at any point in the contest for free coinage. For this reason, it seems to The Herald that free coinage men of all shades of political belief will feel it to be a duty to vote for the Democratic candidates for congress and the legislature.

There is a three-cornered fight in Idaho. The friends of silver are divided into two camps, while the third force in the field is composed of those who follow the gold banner borne aloft by McKinley.

As to the contest among the silver men, The Herald would only urge the voters that they satisfy themselves thoroughly that their votes, as they shall determine to cast them, will count to the best possible advantage for the free coinage cause. No personal question, no factional consideration, should be permitted to stand between a silver man and the full discharge of his duty in this emergency.

generally with "unknown parties." In many cases in which both names are given it is openly charged that the bets are of the "straw" variety. If the betting was altogether bona fide the McKinley men would not seek to force odds so high that they are likely to frighten their opponents.

The Herald wishes to make this statement to advocates of free coinage—If you vote to send a Republican to either branch of congress it is almost inevitable that you will regret it.

The fight will not be over when Bryan is elected; there will be many more battles to win before a free coinage bill can be sent to the White House; and at some point or points members affiliating with the Republican, or anti-free coinage, party would be found in equivocal if not absolutely antagonistic positions.

Such members sent from this state would be under obligations to the McKinley wing of the party here and to the national organization. If they failed to observe these obligations they would be spurned and become political pariahs.

It must be admitted by candid men that it is essential to elect Democrats, who will be under no party pressure to dodge or avoid the issue at any point in the contest for free coinage. For this reason, it seems to The Herald that free coinage men of all shades of political belief will feel it to be a duty to vote for the Democratic candidates for congress and the legislature.

There is a three-cornered fight in Idaho. The friends of silver are divided into two camps, while the third force in the field is composed of those who follow the gold banner borne aloft by McKinley.

As to the contest among the silver men, The Herald would only urge the voters that they satisfy themselves thoroughly that their votes, as they shall determine to cast them, will count to the best possible advantage for the free coinage cause.

Such members sent from this state would be under obligations to the McKinley wing of the party here and to the national organization. If they failed to observe these obligations they would be spurned and become political pariahs.

It must be admitted by candid men that it is essential to elect Democrats, who will be under no party pressure to dodge or avoid the issue at any point in the contest for free coinage. For this reason, it seems to The Herald that free coinage men of all shades of political belief will feel it to be a duty to vote for the Democratic candidates for congress and the legislature.

But, alas! for archeology and archeologists, these water pipes, which are merely tree trunks hollowed out, and having the bark still on them, were placed in Piccadilly near the end of the last century by the New River company, as shown by "A History of the Water Supply of London from the Creation of Man to A. D. 1884."

The Herald wishes to make this statement to advocates of free coinage—If you vote to send a Republican to either branch of congress it is almost inevitable that you will regret it.

The fight will not be over when Bryan is elected; there will be many more battles to win before a free coinage bill can be sent to the White House; and at some point or points members affiliating with the Republican, or anti-free coinage, party would be found in equivocal if not absolutely antagonistic positions.

Such members sent from this state would be under obligations to the McKinley wing of the party here and to the national organization. If they failed to observe these obligations they would be spurned and become political pariahs.

It must be admitted by candid men that it is essential to elect Democrats, who will be under no party pressure to dodge or avoid the issue at any point in the contest for free coinage. For this reason, it seems to The Herald that free coinage men of all shades of political belief will feel it to be a duty to vote for the Democratic candidates for congress and the legislature.

There is a three-cornered fight in Idaho. The friends of silver are divided into two camps, while the third force in the field is composed of those who follow the gold banner borne aloft by McKinley.

As to the contest among the silver men, The Herald would only urge the voters that they satisfy themselves thoroughly that their votes, as they shall determine to cast them, will count to the best possible advantage for the free coinage cause.

Such members sent from this state would be under obligations to the McKinley wing of the party here and to the national organization. If they failed to observe these obligations they would be spurned and become political pariahs.

It must be admitted by candid men that it is essential to elect Democrats, who will be under no party pressure to dodge or avoid the issue at any point in the contest for free coinage. For this reason, it seems to The Herald that free coinage men of all shades of political belief will feel it to be a duty to vote for the Democratic candidates for congress and the legislature.

The New Mexico school question. He made the point so clear in a few words that no one will hereafter seriously charge that the vote cast by him reflected any unfriendliness on his part toward the public school system.

The New York World of Tuesday last says: "Nine mines in Colorado, with a capital stock of $37,500,000, have paid $11,340,120 in dividends. Three mines in Utah, with a capital stock of $24,600,000, have paid $2,831,300."

Up to date $7,000,000 in gold has been imported. Goldbugs say it is being imported because of fear of free silver. And yet they say that if the country has free silver all the gold will leave. Whatever happens they will be in a condition to say: "I told you so."

The schedule of Republican claims published Saturday morning was the first that has appeared that did not claim everything. Mr. Hanna did descend to put a few of the southern states in the Bryan column; and at last he let go of Idaho.

A. S. Geddes and Martin Christopher voted themselves illegal mileage, and drew the money from the county treasury, but they have not returned it. Geddes and Christopher also voted to repudiate county warrants. Vote Geddes and Christopher down.

Washington Post: "I know what I am talking about," said Don Dickinson in introducing his prediction on Michigan. We hope he does, but at the same time cannot forget his performance in that line in 1888.

Boston Post: Bishop Worthington of Nebraska will deserve the rebuke administered by Mr. Bryan for his offensive expressions regarding the education of American farmers. "The trouble with the farmer, in my opinion," said the bishop, "is that he has carried over from the educational system too far—It is the over-education of those who are not qualified to receive it that fills our cities while the farms lie idle."

Philadelphia Ledger: The sailing of a vessel bound for Liverpool from Galveston, with a cargo consisting of 3,000,000 worth of cotton, grain and miscellaneous freight will be noted with interest in both Philadelphia and New Orleans. Galveston and New Orleans are becoming rivals of these cities for the foreign trade of the Mississippi valley, and Galveston has converted the former from a comparatively shallow-water port into a regular port for the largest vessels. There is a great lesson in this for the older cities.

Kansas City Star: The singing of the Bryan procession in Chicago, the mistakes being apparently aimed at Mr. and Mrs. Bryan, was a shameful outrage in the eyes of the Convention assembly, upon Mr. Carlisle. The assailants in both cases were criminals, and were inspired by the same mania of partisan and political feud. Perhaps the Chicago parties thought they were getting even with the Covington rioters. Both gangs deserve the treatment accorded highwaymen.

solemn was the march to the grave. When the pastebord box was lowered into the earth by means of a derrick the little group spoke in subdued whispers. When this was over all stood around the grave with bowed, uncovered heads, while the one who had led the procession stretched out his arms and moved his lips silently. Then raising his head, he said: "Let us sing hymn 99."

Chicago Record: Somebody has invented a tablet to facilitate writing on railroad trains. Things are getting so that a traveling man won't have any excuse left for not writing letters to his wife.

Chicago News: Mr. Figg—"Tommy, I hear you have been telling lies. I never told lies when I was your age." Tommy—"When did you begin, paw?"

Chicago Tribune: "I am sorry to see that Miss Mabel appears to be losing interest in religious things." "Why, Dr. Fourtroy, how can you say that?" "She has joined the choir."

Indianapolis Journal: "Maw, what are the 'early Christians'?" "Figg, 'em man who gets up and builds the fire for his wife to get breakfast out of to have a right to the title."

Washington Post: "I know what I am talking about," said Don Dickinson in introducing his prediction on Michigan. We hope he does, but at the same time cannot forget his performance in that line in 1888.

Boston Post: Bishop Worthington of Nebraska will deserve the rebuke administered by Mr. Bryan for his offensive expressions regarding the education of American farmers. "The trouble with the farmer, in my opinion," said the bishop, "is that he has carried over from the educational system too far—It is the over-education of those who are not qualified to receive it that fills our cities while the farms lie idle."

Philadelphia Ledger: The sailing of a vessel bound for Liverpool from Galveston, with a cargo consisting of 3,000,000 worth of cotton, grain and miscellaneous freight will be noted with interest in both Philadelphia and New Orleans. Galveston and New Orleans are becoming rivals of these cities for the foreign trade of the Mississippi valley, and Galveston has converted the former from a comparatively shallow-water port into a regular port for the largest vessels. There is a great lesson in this for the older cities.

Kansas City Star: The singing of the Bryan procession in Chicago, the mistakes being apparently aimed at Mr. and Mrs. Bryan, was a shameful outrage in the eyes of the Convention assembly, upon Mr. Carlisle. The assailants in both cases were criminals, and were inspired by the same mania of partisan and political feud. Perhaps the Chicago parties thought they were getting even with the Covington rioters. Both gangs deserve the treatment accorded highwaymen.

Half a Cent for a baby! The cost of the few drops of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral that will cure cough, whooping cough and any other cough, if administered in time is perhaps half a cent. It may prolong baby's life.

HER PAGE. Scant beauty nature gave her; in disguise Rugged and harsh she bade her eyes about. With face unlovely, save the dark, sad eyes. From which her fearless soul looked bravely out.

ON THE AVENUE. Ribbons will be used as a skirt trimming this fall. Empire wreaths figure largely in the latest jewelry designs. Feather capes will be an expensive dress item this autumn.

IN PASSING. France has 7,346 postoffices. Illinois employs 30,000 miners. Italy contains 86,400 teachers. Teeth are pulled by electricity. Japan has one leather shoe mill. Mexico has a 130-ton locomotive.

AN UNBIDDEN GUEST. Sorrow once said to Youth: "I needs must dwell With thee awhile—I pray thee let me in. For if thou shelt me it shall be well. And thou fresh treasure for thine own shall win."

WIT AND HUMOR.

Chicago Record: Somebody has invented a tablet to facilitate writing on railroad trains. Things are getting so that a traveling man won't have any excuse left for not writing letters to his wife.

Chicago News: Mr. Figg—"Tommy, I hear you have been telling lies. I never told lies when I was your age." Tommy—"When did you begin, paw?"

Chicago Tribune: "I am sorry to see that Miss Mabel appears to be losing interest in religious things." "Why, Dr. Fourtroy, how can you say that?" "She has joined the choir."

Indianapolis Journal: "Maw, what are the 'early Christians'?" "Figg, 'em man who gets up and builds the fire for his wife to get breakfast out of to have a right to the title."

It's Neat, Isn't It? Of course, there is but one answer to that question. More than that, It Is Comfortable, and to make it still more desirable, it is Cheap.

Tea Gowns. You can buy at a reduction of 25 per cent this week. Z. C. M. I. T. G. WEBBER, Superintendent.

SOME EDITORIAL COMMENTS.

Cincinnati Enquirer: The McKinleyites are driven to close quarters in the last week of the campaign, and they are making one last desperate effort to crawl out of their dilemma on the tariff. Major McKinley was, however, the most humiliating failure on the tariff question in the history of the country.

Boston Herald: They manage these things differently in London: A young woman entered a London street car, and when a gentleman offered her his seat she looked him square in the eye and delivered this speech: "This is a reserved seat for the benefit of the poor."

Philadelphia Ledger: The sailing of a vessel bound for Liverpool from Galveston, with a cargo consisting of 3,000,000 worth of cotton, grain and miscellaneous freight will be noted with interest in both Philadelphia and New Orleans.

Kansas City Star: The singing of the Bryan procession in Chicago, the mistakes being apparently aimed at Mr. and Mrs. Bryan, was a shameful outrage in the eyes of the Convention assembly, upon Mr. Carlisle.

O, WHERE IS LOVE?

Who would have thought it a year ago! How they have run—the months—just lately. Since I've been waiting an hour or so by the chance plates, while you dressed sedately.

TALES OF THE DAY.

The Marriage Contract. New York Weekly: Bill of Particulars—Good Minlater (to a man wishing to be married)—"Do you wish to marry this woman?" "I do."

THE VOTERS OF WYOMING.

Do the people of Wyoming appreciate what is implied in the claim that the state is uncertain in this campaign?