The successful man in the Klondike is the bread winner.

A tramp found loaded with goods is generally charged with stealing.

Nothing remains to complete the road to Deep Creek except to build it.

President Andrews believes in the single tax, but not in the single standard.

The women of Montana are on the warpath for equal suffrage. May they get it.

Yesterday was as warm as a day in spring, in fact, it almost gave one the spring fever.

If congress at its present session can pass a currency reform bill it can pass almost anything.

General Prosperity seems to have contracted the bad habit of going out between the acts.

The New York stock exchange has prohibited betting. What are the dealings in stocks but bets?

Some of the election judges should attend the lower grades of the public schools and learn to count.

Because this is Durrant's last day on earth, it doesn't follow that tomorrow will be his first in heaven.

Mrs. Langtry, it is said, is wearing widow's weeds. Wearing her heart upon her sleeve for Jacklaws to peck at.

It is gravely stated in the dispatches that "Spain is not seeking trouble." That is true; she has trouble to spare.

"Alone I wander o'er life's stormy sea," says a poetess. Someone should take the young lady in out of the wet.

Nansen says there are no microbes in the Arctic regions. The reason probably is that there is so little to eat there.

"Van Wyck made no speeches, but Tammany sawed wood," says the Kansas City Star. Tammany also saw Platt.

President McKinley continues to be pleased with the result of the elections. It is surprising how easily pleased some people are.

The pension list continues to increase. It now looks as though there might be an annual increase in it for half a century to come.

Georgia is going to make Jeff Davis' birthday a legal holiday. There is no likelihood that it will ever become a national holiday.

It cost Robert A. Van Wyck $18.75 to be elected mayor of Greater New York. It cannot be charged that he bought his way to place.

Boss Filley of Missouri calling Boss Hanna of Ohio names will revive in people's minds the story of the quarrel between the pot and the kettle.

The missionaries who are going to walk to the Klondike will have a good time getting there, even if they don't have a good time after they get there.

Anthony Comstock will not attempt to suppress the new $5 silver notes because of the semi-nude figures upon them. Still he would be glad to gather them in.

An English scientist says that the Hawaiian islands will eventually disappear. It is not at all improbable that they will be swallowed by Uncle Sam in the course of a year.

A New Orleans man has patented an alrship. The man who patents an alrship should be given an admission ticket to an insane asylum at the same time he gets his letters.

Worthy divines of New York declare that Santa Claus is a pagan myth, and therefore unworthy of Christian consideration. Santa Claus is a myth and all that, but he is a myth that brings happiness to millions of little children at the glad Christmas time, and those who would destroy him are filled with neither poetry nor Christianity.

Here is Alderman Plotke's ordinance forbidding football playing in Chicago:

"He it ordained by the city council of the city of Chicago:

"Section 1.—It shall hereafter be unlawful for any person or persons to assemble for the purpose of witnessing or playing, taking part or on-acting in the game known as football anywhere within the corporate limits of the city of Chicago.

"Sec. 2.—Any person or persons who shall violate any of the provisions of section 1 of this act shall be punished by a fine of not less than five ($5) dollars or more than fifty ($50) dollars for each offense.

"Sec. 3.—This ordinance shall go into effect from and after its passage and publication."

It hasn't become law yet, and when it does it will cause more kicking than any football game ever did.

AN ANTI-HIGH SCHOOL CHAMPION.

A correspondent of the Deseret News writes that paper at length on the question of the high school, which he opposes. In the course of his letter he says:

Until the burdens now placed on the taxpaying element be made easier, I consider the district school system is all that can be consistently expected as free education, and the state constitution never designed nor contemplated placing more upon the taxpayer than could consistently be carried.

If the high school were abolished it would not make any great difference in the school taxes; it probably wouldn't reduce the assessment half a mill, certainly not a mill, while it would very materially injure the public school system.

But what saving would there be in sending the high school pupils to the preparatory department of the university? That department is already crowded to its capacity, and were the five hundred pupils now in the high school to go to the preparatory department, additional accommodation would have to be provided for them and additional teachers employed; so where would be the saving?

It is true that our school taxes are quite heavy and that there is a big school debt, but the creation of that debt was necessary to give the city school facilities. When our present school system was started and the era of building school houses was begun, the city had outgrown the very meagre school facilities that had been provided in the past.

seekers could not fail to be attracted to the place. The people of Boise should make a life-saving effort to change the main line so that it shall pass through their town.

AFTER THE ALASKAN TRADE.

The merchants of San Francisco are reaching out after Alaskan trade, which has become of much more value in the last year and very much of which has been captured by Seattle.

So far as Canada is concerned there should be a constant effort to draw her closer to this country rather than to alienate her, for it is not impossible by any means that eventually there will be a political union between that country and this.

A Wilmington, Del., dispatch to the Baltimore American says that a wedding ceremony which interested many people took place in that city last Saturday night.

Another Buckeye is to be sent to Utah to take an official position. What taking ways those Buckeyes have!

Somebody has been sowing the wind in Denver because they have just reaped an awful whirlwind there.

Theodore Durrant has official knowledge that Friday is an unlucky day.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat: John Adams said when 90 years of age: "As boy and man, I have known New York for 70 years, and her politics has always been to me among the devil's incomprehensibilities."

Pittsburg Dispatch: It is interesting as an example of the perseverance and of the ability, that has been criticized as if he had revealed state secrets or in some way violated the proprieties of his position.

Chicago Inter-Ocean: The review of the Census question, contained in the North American Review for November by Mr. Hannis Taylor, our minister at Madrid under Cleveland, is a very remarkable document.

Denver Times: The Silver Democracy of Iowa does not appear to be altogether draped in sackcloth and ashes, after all. While its state ticket was defeated, the Republican majority was reduced nearly one-half as compared with that of a year ago.

San Francisco Call: Daniel Lamont is credited with being a shrewd business man, and such he undoubtedly is. Yet it must be remembered that the element of luck has not been absent in his case.

Logan Journal: As was confidently predicted by the Democratic and free silver press, the mission of Senator Logan to bring the matter of Europe, in the interest of international bimetallism, was a dismal failure.

Ogden Standard: General Miles' dream of a great government is one in which the ruling power is vested in the military and in which the common people are overruled by a display of arms.

Ephraim Enterprise: Now that the bubble of international bimetallism has burstured there is no longer any reason why people should be undecided. The lines are sharply drawn. On one side is bimetallism, on the other the gold standard.

Chicago Record: "I believe in meeting people half way." "So do I, my mother-in-law would so glad like the dickens if I didn't go clear to the station."

New York Weekly: Gave the Snap Away.—Mrs. Gabb (hostess)—Your little son does not appear to have much spirit.

Puck: A Remarkable Comparison.—Clarice—I am actually jealous of that puppy, you know.

The rush to the Klondike and the opening up of mines in British Columbia all means that thousands of Americans are going into Canada, and of course they are subject to Canadian laws; and all laws, as everybody knows, can be given a construction that is harsh and makes them bear heavily upon those to whom they are applied.

Harper's Bazar: Education Thrown Away.—Mrs. O'Flaherty (to Nellie, aged 9)—And what is the good in getting you a French governess if you goes and says Fido has the mange, instead of the mange?

Washington Star: The Drawing.—"The drawing of this picture is something unusual," said the connoisseur. "Yes," replied Mrs. Cumrox. "My husband says it's the only thing he won in a charity bazaar in all his life."

Boston Traveler: Her Status Changed.—His Wife—And you are to defend that shoplifter? "The lady says—My dear, she isn't a shoplifter. She was formerly, but she has saved so much money in the last ten years that she has become a kleptomaniac."

Chicago News: "Brings and his wife seem to be a very congenial pair. What he says she agrees to, and what she says he backs up."

TALES OF THE DAY. Too Good to Be True. New York Journal: "Ah, it does me good to see so many bright, smiling faces around me this beautiful morning, and I feel flattered that your beloved teacher has called upon me for a little talk."

The Boy and the Poet. Youth's Companion: An author whose home was in a country town, had planned a day's outing in Boston.
