

LOST IN THE STORM

Fred Lewis, a Mercur Surveyor Perished in the Blizzard.

FAITHFUL DOG ON GUARD

STOOD OVER ITS MASTER'S BODY FOR THREE DAYS.

Eighteen Inches of Snow Fell in Southern Tooele County—Robberies at Lehi—Mysterious Death at Provo—Catholic Dedication at Castle Gate—Willard's Building Boom.

[From The Herald's Correspondents.] Mercur, Nov. 29.—The body of Fred Lewis was discovered about a quarter of a mile from his cabin near Five Mile pass on Saturday, by a man hunting sheep. Lewis was a surveyor, and had lived in Mercur nearly three years. This summer he moved down to Five Mile pass, and has been developing the Pennsylvania group. Last Wednesday he went to Camp Floyd for a barrel of water, and must have lost his way in the heavy snow storm raging at that time. He had hitched his horse from the curb, which has not yet been found. The horse and dog were with him when found, the former being tangled up in the brush by the lines, and the latter standing guard over the body of his dead master.

Sheriff McKellar was communicated with, and removed the body to Mercur, where it is being prepared for burial by Undertaker Watt. Lewis was a man about 25 years of age, and but for his slavery to liquor, could have commanded the respect of all who knew him. He was intelligent, and a kindly disposition horse from living in the east, and a brother living in Canada are his only known relatives. The dog was shown an example of faithfulness seldom equalled. For three days and nights he kept his weary vigil, protecting the body of his dead master from the coyotes that abound in that locality.

A WEAK NOMINATION

Logan Republicans Refuse to Withdraw Benson—News Notes.

Logan, Nov. 29.—A delegation of leading Democrats called this morning on prominent Republicans of the Fourth ward, and tried to induce them to withdraw the name of Lorenzo Benson, Republican, from the nomination for State Representative. The Democrats are becoming more fully satisfied that a non-partisan school board is not the best thing for Logan City, and the Republicans will insist on electing a man to such an important office who, it is believed, is wholly incompetent to fill the position.

TABERNACLE DEBT PAID.

For some time past the people of the Lehi ecclesiastical ward have owed a donation towards the finishing of the Provo tabernacle. During the last week or two very liberal subscriptions have been given by the people and over $1,000 has been collected. The debt on the tabernacle has been paid and an amount also has been expended on the meeting house hall in improvements, including a new fence, the house has been plastered on the outside, repainted inside, relighted and will be re-seated, and after this has been done there will be a most little sum left to help pay for a lot to build a new meeting house on next summer.

OUR STOCKS ABROAD

Feeling That There is a Selling For Transfer on This Side.

STRENGTH OF EXCHANGE

ATTRACTING MUCH ATTENTION AMONG FINANCIERS.

Market Opened Quite Animated, But Weakness Overtook It—Net Declines Reached a Point in Many Leading Stocks—Active Speculation in Sugar—Bond Market.

NOTES.

New York, Nov. 29.—There was an accumulation of commission house orders in the market at the opening this morning which had come in over Sunday as a result of the strength displayed by the stock market on Saturday. The quotations for American were also run up on the London exchange before the opening here. As a consequence the market opened with quite an animated ball movement and advance of a marked traction all along the line. But the buyers of Friday and Saturday immediately set about realizing their profits and the advance came to an untimely end.

FREIGHT CASE.

The motive offered for the selling was the withdrawing of the decision of the Nebraska maximum freight case by the supreme court. There were occasional rallies during the day, but the market strongly upward after a preliminary decline to the extent of almost 3 points. There was very heavy speculation in this stock during the day, sales amounting to one-third of all sales, or over 100,000 shares, and its price closed unchanged from Saturday. There was some buying for the London account on the decline to cover contracts made in London at the early morning level, and which helped to steady the market. The early weakness soon overtook it and was the prevailing tone for the balance of the day. Net declines reaching to near a point in many leading stocks and exceeding that in special cases.

As a result of the lively sentiment movement and the active speculation in sugar, sales of stock ran up to near 200,000 shares before noon, a figure in excess of any other trading for some weeks.

STRENGTH OF EXCHANGE.

The week's strength of sterling attracts much attention in view of the status of the international shares. Posted rates were advanced 1/2 for both long and short sterling. There is a steady market for the export buying of long exchange, the leaving of funds on balance in interest abroad, and the arrival of gold at San Francisco from Australia via the steamer combined to act for the strength of exchange, and that there is much buying of high class American securities by European holders for transfer to this side of the water than appears on the surface. The high level of prices for this grade of securities goes to confirm this view.

INCREASE IN LONDON.

The very heavy increase in the loans of clearing house banks, amounting to over 14,000,000, as shown in Saturday's bank statement, is also closely scrutinized. The explanation is that the London bank connected with the Union Pacific's payment to the government does not entirely cover the government's debt. The expansion of loans previous to Nov. 29 was sufficient to act for that operation and was attributed to the closing Liverpool cables, which showed a decline in wheat and a rise in cotton. The London bank statement for Nov. 1 of this year and Sept. 1, 1896, the English visible was estimated to have increased 171,000,000. The visible supply increased 55,000,000 bushels last week, compared with a decrease of 1,000,000 bushels the year ago, of 1,071,000 bushels. The total visible is now 33,650,000 bushels, against 33,940,000 bushels a year ago.

Figures on the export movement arrested the decline for a time. Atlantic seaboard exports for the week ending Saturday amounted to 750,000 bushels. Paris advised to St. Louis were to the effect that France would send a consignment of wheat to the United States between Nov. 1 of this year and Sept. 1, 1898. The English visible was estimated to have increased 171,000,000. CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW.

Bulls Given a Body Blow—December Wheat Closed at 96. Chicago, Nov. 29.—Bulls in wheat were given a body blow right at the start by the enormous world's shipments, which, including India, amounted to 5,112,000 bushels. The effect was seen on the opening figures, which were 1/2 lower at 95 1/2, and slowly declining to 91 1/2. It recovered for a short time to 93 1/2, but soon turned and started a lower at 92 1/2 and selling off without a stop to 87. In neither option market was there anything but a steady liquidation, but there was an almost utter lack of support and a decline was inevitable. The market was 3/4 lower to start with, then it was said, to the unlooked-for increase in Russian shipments, which last week were 3,250,000 bushels. It was a week ago that the market was reported 1,000,000 bushels heavier than it was a week ago. The market was still too liberal to be other than bearish in their effect, although Minneapolis was a little firmer, but not so much as against 1 1/2 the Monday preceding, but today's reduced number was still 1,000 cars more than on the corresponding day of last year.

Only one feature of the early news affecting wheat was considered favorable to the bulls, and that was the big drop in the temperature. But this was almost entirely overlooked. Primary market receipts were 100,000 bushels heavy to the bears at any time during the season at 1 1/2, 500,000 bushels for the day. Chicago contributed its quota of bearish statistics. Receipts were 154 cars against only 17 last week, and the elevator receipts were 171,000 bushels last week, compared with a decrease of 1,000,000 bushels the year ago, of 1,071,000 bushels. The total visible is now 33,650,000 bushels, against 33,940,000 bushels a year ago.
