

RE-SOLD

Peter McCourt and Associates Unload For $65,000.

LOCATED IN THE LA SALS GROUND WAS LOCATED BY SALT LAKE PARTIES.

On a Grub-stake—Sold By W. H. Tibbals and Others to McCourt For Forty Thousand Dollars—New York Parties Take Up Bond, Paying the Difference.

The Huntsman property, in the La Sal country, which was located by J. J. Huntsman, Professor W. H. Tibbals and C. E. Preston of this city on a grubstake and sold to Denver parties for $40,000, has again been transferred to New York parties, through the instrumentality of Peter McCourt and R. C. Miller of Denver. This time it is for $25,000 on certain conditions agreeable to the former purchasers.

The richness for a surface showing at the Julia, Amazon and Valentine group, constituting the "Huntsman property," in the recent discoveries in the sandstone-contact formation, has attracted a great deal of attention to the La Sal district and for this reason influential men representing capital have given this locality, as well as the Salt Wash and Cache Valley districts, an impetus of unusual interest.

It is stated from good authority that the Huntsman property was only purchased in the first place at a selling proposition, and that sufficient time was secured to further the interests of middle men in resumpting the deal.

The new party has assumed the bond and lease, and all attendant agreements, and at once got ahead with work on the same basis, assuming the original payment, but above the $25,000 for the property, over and above the original cash payment of $40,000.

THE NEW YORK PARTIES HAVE ASSUMED THE BOND AND LEASE, AND ALL ATTENDANT AGREEMENTS, AND AT ONCE GOT AHEAD WITH WORK ON THE SAME BASIS, ASSUMING THE ORIGINAL PAYMENT, BUT ABOVE THE $25,000 FOR THE PROPERTY, OVER AND ABOVE THE ORIGINAL CASH PAYMENT OF $40,000.

ELATERITE AND GILSONITE GROUND VISITED BY SALT LAKE PARTIES.

A number of Salt Lake mining men have recently visited the mining districts of Uintah county, through which the Rio Grande Western Railway are now building and have proposed to establish. All have great faith in the development of this country, not only for its production of gilsonite, elaterite and asphaltum, but also for its gold and copper mines being opened up throughout that country.

LA PLATA DISTRICT.

James P. Law Gets a Bond and Lease On the Sandown.

THE ONCE-FAMOUS LA PLATA DISTRICT, northwestern of Ogden, seems to be again awakening its old-time activity and a number of the old mines are going to be worked more especially those on the west side of the old camp, where extensive and rich copper deposits gave so much promise several years ago.

Mr. Law has conditionally secured a bond and lease on the old Sandown ground, where an excellent showing of copper ores, in the form of a sulphide and black oxides, was made recently, and will have samples of the ore here shortly that will tell the showing of the old La Platasites who laid down their claims, picks and staking rights in 1912 to the surprising findings of the Central Pacific Railway land grant agents and in consequence busted the camp.

Engineer Loss Control of the Hoist With Serious Results.

Foreman McCortley Came Up Out of the Mine With Two Cars of Waste, While the Other Cars Were Lowered at the Same Time to the 1100 Level.

When the mine started up about a month ago, the men working in the mine threatened to strike if Brockett was retained as engineer, they claiming him to be incompetent to occupy such an important post. This matter was fixed up satisfactorily, however, and Brockett was kept on. Some of the miners are excited over the affair and feel themselves fortunate that none was on the cage at the time the accident happened.

RICH NORTHERN LIGHT ORE.

Three cars of high-grade ore from the Northern Light mine was marketed in this city the first of the week, the whole shipment bringing in the neighborhood of $10,000.

THE COMPANY'S NEW $40,000 CYANIDING PLANT, UNDER THE MANAGEMENT OF R. G. LEGG, WILL BE STARTED BEFORE THE END OF THE WEEK AND THEN ALL ORES WHICH RUN BELOW SIXTY OUNCES IN SILVER WILL BE TREATED AT THE WORKS.

James Farrell & Co. who have the contract, commenced hauling tailings to the Marsal mill at Park City yesterday and tomorrow.

Asked whether it was true, as reported, that the Ontario company contemplated the use of electric power in place of steam to operate the hoisting plant at the mine, Mr. Chambers said: "No, there is absolutely no foundation for the report. No such change is contemplated."

PAT RYAN FINDS SUCCESSFUL PROCESS IN COLORADO.

Richfield, June 6.—Information comes from Gold Mountain that Pat Ryan, who has been in Colorado making an examination of a new process for treating ore, which is a great saving in cost of milling, and having been very favorably impressed with the merits of the process, has decided upon putting in a plant at the Golden Star, better known as the Blue Bird mine, which will be equal to the capacity of a ten-stamp mill. The new plant will be put in as soon as possible.

HIGH CLASS STOCKS

Little Attention Paid to Those of Cheaper Grade.

PRICES ARE ADVANCING

NOTICEABLE FEATURE OF THE EXCHANGES.

Dexter and Northern Light, However, Show Declines—Four Aces Shows Big Improvement and Valeo Makes Noticeable Gains—Little Trading Done In Cheap Stocks.

Trading was fairly good among the brokers yesterday and the general tone of the better grade stocks was still on the improve. A few, however, slumped, among which was Dexter, it falling down to $2.15; a board lot going at that figure.

Northern Light had another off day and declined to 38 1/2. Chloride Point tumbled a little, the best price offered for it being 51 1/2 cents.

Geyer-Marion suffered a similar fate and showed no indication of rallying at the close of the call. Four Aces showed a decided advance, the strike made in the mine a few days ago seems to have had an exceedingly strengthening effect; in the last few days it has climbed up 10 cents.

Star Consolidated exchanged at an even dollar while La Reine could do no better than 84 cents. North Swanton was an active seller, one of the officers of this company taking in some of the Great American stock at the prevailing price. Valeo was stronger and sold at $1.18. Four hundred shares of Bingham Gold Placer was knocked down at 48 cents. A block of 1,000 shares of Omaha brought 39.

Outside of Valeo Park City stocks were inactive except Daily West, a block of that stock selling on the Utah exchange at $9.94.

On the afternoon call Four Aces was a drawing card and prices stiffened up considerably over figures offered earlier in the day. The little stocks were almost entirely lost sight of and there was little demand for anything cheap.

Sunbeam was in demand on the call after calls and showed signs of a vigorous turn upward. No one seemed to know the cause of it and inquiries at the company's office failed to bring out any news of important strikes or other developments.

Asked whether it was true, as reported, that the Ontario company contemplated the use of electric power in place of steam to operate the hoisting plant at the mine, Mr. Chambers said: "No, there is absolutely no foundation for the report. No such change is contemplated."

HOW JOE CAUGHT THE BANDIT

LANDED SILVER TIP IN THE PROVO JAIL.

Bush and His Companions Traveled Three Hundred Miles—Found Their Man at Pailsack.

Joe Bush, the veteran hunter of outlaws, has remained after the capture of another bad man. He landed Joe Hawkins, alias "Silver Tip," who is wanted for horsestealing and attempted murder, safely in the Utah county jail at Provo. Bush, who is a mild-mannered man, did not think very much of his exploit, and considered it hardly worth discussing. The catching of bad men of the border has become an ordinary matter with him, so many of them has he trailed.

Bush left the railroad at Richfield and first found a trace of Hawkins in the Henry mountains. He had with him Assessor Golden of Garfield county and Otis Thompson and Jack Cottrell. As the desperado had several horses with him the trail could be followed. They crossed Boulder mountains and found Otis Thompson and Jack Cottrell. As the desperado had several horses with him the trail could be followed.

They heard nothing more of the outlaw until they reached Escalante, forty-five miles away, where he had remained overnight. The trail was difficult to follow through this country, for there were many roads where it was quickly obliterated. But they heard of him and continued their journey on to Henryville, in Kane county, where they stopped to get fresh horses.

Bush had figured it that the outlaw was heading for Lee's ferry, on the Colorado river, and into Arizona. As he had two weeks the start of them they found it necessary to ride hard to catch up. With new horses at Henryville they pushed on more rapidly. In going on to Palisade they learned that Hawkins had camped in a deserted house, or rather two houses, outside of town. They went up to within a few miles of him on last Wednesday night, but not desiring to give him a chance to get away in the dark they decided not to try to effect the capture until the morning.

Before daylight came they moved on down upon him. Golden and Cottrell remained on one side of the house and Bush and Thompson took their places back and between the two, so that they could see the outlaw pass from one to another. He slept in one of these houses, and had his cooking outfit in the other. They waited very patiently until Hawkins came out, and he walked on around toward where Golden and Cottrell were stationed. They drew their rifles and called to him to throw up his hands, but he failed to obey. Instead he ran back to the house. They fired two shots at him, but neither took effect.

As he dashed around the corner of the house, not more than ten feet away, Bush threw his gun up and commanded Hawkins to throw up his hands.

"All right, sir," he said, and did so. Golden and Cottrell, knowing the desperado man they were dealing with, were somewhat excited, which accounted for the fact that they had not shot Hawkins when they fired. "If he hadn't thrown up his hands I would have dropped him," said Bush yesterday. "He didn't have his guns with him when they fired, so that they had been in the house to get them. Had he gone in we would have been at a disadvantage and might have been killed. At any rate, it would have meant a long siege."

In the cabin was found a Winchester rifle with smokeless powder cartridges and bullet casing, along with a pistol of the heaviest caliber. Bush tested the force of the rifle, shooting at a butcher's block. The ball went clear through.

Hawkins was placed in a buggy with Bush and Golden after he had been handcuffed and they drove on to Richfield with him, then on to Provo, where he was placed in jail to await the arrival of the sheriff of Grand county. The posse traveled more than 300 miles on the desperado's trail.
