

SCHOOL LIFE IS OVER

Commencement Exercises at Theatre Yesterday.

OVER 100 GRADUATES

FROM INSTITUTIONS FROM OUTSIDE OF SALT LAKE.

Interesting Address is Delivered by Superintendent Van Cott—Large and Enthusiastic Gathering Encourage the Students in Their Efforts on the Stage of Theatre.

Yesterday was the crowning day in the school year for the students of Salt Lake county schools, the division line that separated 136 bright boys and girls from the common schools and the higher institutions of learning from the stern realities of earning a living.

The graduating exercises of the Seventh annual commencement were held in the Salt Lake theatre and attracted a crowd of parents and friends of the graduates that filled the house from pit to dome. Fifteen hundred programmes were distributed at the door. It was an enthusiastic gathering too, which cheered the performers royally.

There were 136 in the graduating class and as they were arranged on the stage, the girls in white and the boys in darker colors, they presented a most beautiful picture. There was a great profusion of flowers and these added much to the beauty of the scene. The programme was one of rare merit and many of the numbers were most heartily applauded. A pleasing feature was the variety and the brevity of the papers and the addresses. There were but few changes in the programme as previously printed.

Mr. Van Cott's Address.

In presenting the certificates of graduation to the young ladies and gentlemen Superintendent Van Cott spoke earnestly and briefly as follows:

These are promotion exercises, rather than graduation exercises, and there would be cause to regret that they were ever held, were you not satisfied with your present mental attainments. But that you are not content to rest here. You have expressed a determination to attend the university. Let me urge that you all do so. Do not be too easily satisfied. It is by but a slight margin that the greatest man exceeds the next greatest man. It is to your advantage, then, to increase your knowledge, to add to your learning, to get greater understanding. Later in life you will find ample opportunity to compare your ability with the ability of other men. Then will you discover that greater understanding, greater power. The greatest credit that was ever wasted was won by but a margin. The fastest race that was ever run was won by but a margin. The little gain or the little loss leads to success or failure.

The next ten years is but a preparatory period in your lives. Work will bring happiness and contentment, will result in misery and failure. The most valuable thing you have is your time, and the use of it will indicate what you will become. As the poet says: "Minutes are things, each one furnished with wings; with which they fly on an unseen track, and never a minute ever comes back."

Our university is on a higher plane and you go forward and upward with it. Continue to study until your horizon line is extended to the boundary of the field of science, literature and art, until you specialize until you reach the summit of some peak that stands in your chosen pathway.

That has been done for you by your parents and teachers should be remembered with gratitude. They have given the best service of their lives for you. Count every opportunity of showing your appreciation of their labors and sacrifices. See that every kindness extended to you is returned with tenfold increase.

And now, as an evidence of your fitness to do creditable work in higher institutions of learning, and as a recognition that you have pursued and completed in a satisfactory manner the course of study prescribed for the first eight grades of the public schools of Salt Lake county, I, in behalf of the officers and teachers, do hereby present to each of you a certificate of graduation."

Address to Graduates.

Professor William M. Stewart delivered the principal address to the graduates, and followed the same general line of thought as Mr. Van Cott. He laid special stress on the idea that this graduation was a completion of an education, but merely a beginning, and that the success attained thus far should be but an incentive to higher and more persistent efforts.

Mr. Ackerman reports the Bryan sentiment as booming in that section. Joseph S. Fowler started for Washington over the Rio Grande last evening, and there were a large number of his young friends at the train to see him off. He left a month sooner than he expected, because he received a letter Friday last urging him to come at once, and the supposition is that he will go to work in the census bureau at once. Joe has been congratulated on all sides for his good luck in leaving so early. He has been given an additional gift giving him an opportunity to attend the Columbia Law school in Washington.

The programme was carried out without a hitch or break and the performers reflected great credit upon themselves, the teachers and the public school system. The parents who were out at the exercises in full force had every reason to be proud of the showing made. None better was ever made by the schools of Salt Lake county. Mr. Van Cott was highly pleased with the success that attended the exhibition. He was especially pleased, he said, with interest manifested by the parents in the public schools. The exhibition itself would be of very little consequence if there were not back of it that deep and sincere interest of the people generally upon which the public schools must ever depend for their support.

FOR BENEFIT OF SUFFERERS

MONEY RAISED FOR SCOFIELD WIDOWS AND ORPHANS.

Entertainment Given at the Residence of Mrs. W. J. Beattie Last Evening—Increasing the Fund.

The Daughters of the Revolution conceived a highly artistic way of benefiting the Scofield widows and orphans in an entertainment given at the home of Mrs. W. J. Beattie, 25 North West Temple street, last evening. Between 200 and 300 guests called in during the evening to pay their respects to the hostess and listen to the strains of Held's military band, which had generously donated its services for the occasion, offering to play twenty-four selections, if so desired, and took a position on the lawn to the edification of quite a large crowd on the sidewalk. The Union Light & Power company had the veranda and lawn decorated with dozens of incandescent lamps, which was their donation towards the good cause.

Inside Old Glory was everywhere in evidence. It was festooned as portieres between the parlor and dining room, draped in the bay window of the parlor, and occupied quite a few other important positions, while the colors of the Daughters of the Revolution were uniquely presented in yellow roses in blue vases. The first flag that was ever seen in Iron county, coming in with the pioneers, held a place of honor. It had only thirteen stars on it, and was a cheap calico affair, but it received more attention than its newer and handsomer neighbors. During the evening vocal music was furnished by Mrs. Willard Croxall, soprano, who sang effectively "Vidal's 'Pritemps Nouveau'" and "My Roseary" by N. M. Mrs. Edna Dwyer, of Central, Paoli Tosti's "My Dreams"; Walter Wallace's "Two Grenadiers" (Schumann), and Miss Mabel Cooper, who gave a charming rendition of Berthold's "New Kingdom," in a rich contralto. Tickets of admission were worth 25 cents, and it is safe to say that the Scofield widows will be 455 richer for the entertainment.

Going to Scofield.

J. J. Thomas, W. O. Carbis and J. T. Buckle of the grand lodge, I. O. O. F., have in the morning for Scofield. Mr. Buckle will carry with him for distribution a part of the fund raised by the Odd Fellows for the wives of their dead members. This fund, according to Mr. Buckle, is now more than $5,000, and he is confident that this figure will be doubled several times. The Odd Fellows will have memorial services at the graves of their dead at Scofield.

PAY MORE FOR MERIT

Eighth Grade Teachers Will Get Larger Salaries.

$2.50 A MONTH INCREASE

ALL HIGH SCHOOL INSTRUCTORS RE-ELECTED.

No Change in Personnel, but Principal Not Yet Chosen—Department Heads Created and Salaries Lifted—More Room to Be Made at Oquirrh, Grant and Lowell Schools.

The board of education, in committee of the whole, last evening determined upon several actions which will be of uncommon interest to all teachers and to the high school faculty. In the first instance, a modification of the salary schedule was agreed to, whereby all teachers of eighth grade classes may, if they fill the fullest measure of anticipations, have the maximum of their compensation increased from $70 to $80 per month. High school instructors who have been on the anxious seat may now rest easy, for their re-employment for next year has been authorized without any change whatever in the personnel of the corps.

However, this statement has no reference to the question of who will be the principal for next year. The principalship is still an open question. Principal Clark does not desire to be considered an applicant for re-election, and speculation has been indulged in that some one of the high school professors would likely be chosen Principal Clark's successor, but since all of the professors have been re-employed on Superintendent Cooper's recommendation, it is now more than probable that the new principal will come from outside the city.

Department Heads Created.

Besides deciding to make no change in the high school corps, the salaries of the next year were fixed the same as heretofore, except that Professor Gillman was designated head of the department of mathematics, at a monthly salary of $115, and Professor J. M. Dukes was designated head instructor of the English classes, and Miss Rowe was designated head of the department of languages, her present position. The salary of Miss Rowe was fixed at $105 monthly, an increase of $5 a month.

Providing For More Rooms.

In order to accommodate the growing needs of the Oquirrh, Lowell and Grant school districts, the committee on buildings and grounds was authorized to solicit bids and award contracts for finishing two basement rooms in each of the school buildings, and for placing the lavatories in an annex to the main buildings. According to approved plans and specifications, these improvements will cost about $12,500. The board allowed the claim of Primary Superintendent Holton in the sum of $68.25, to bring his salary up to $1,500. He has only thirteen stars on it, and was a cheap calico affair, but it received more attention than its newer and handsomer neighbors. During the evening vocal music was furnished by Mrs. Willard Croxall, soprano, who sang effectively "Vidal's 'Pritemps Nouveau'" and "My Roseary" by N. M. Mrs. Edna Dwyer, of Central, Paoli Tosti's "My Dreams"; Walter Wallace's "Two Grenadiers" (Schumann), and Miss Mabel Cooper, who gave a charming rendition of Berthold's "New Kingdom," in a rich contralto.
