THE CAPTURE OF AGUINALDO.

AGUINALDO HAS BEEN CAPTURED, and General Funston is entitled to carve another notch in the tall stack of his achievements. The plan which he is said to have carried out when first announced seemed too daring and spectacular to be practical. The fact that it was successful demonstrates that the insurgent general must have been traveling with a very slim body guard. Even so, the undertaking which the diminutive Kansan entered into was hazardous, and his having carried it to a successful issue entitles him to full credit as an intrepid and resourceful strategist.

It is confidence that has been the mainstay of administration officials, the dove of peace will be brooding over the Philippines. Ever since the result of the presidential election failed to induce the Philippines to lay down their arms, Washington has assured the public that the rebellion was being kept alive for no other reason than to gratify the personal ambitions of this man Aguinaldo. The insurgents were only his dupes. His capture and the removal of his malignant influence upon the natives should cause the opposition to benevolent assimilation to melt away like halibutons in August. Officials at Washington are already making predictions of this sort, which are warranted, they say, not only by the capture of Aguinaldo, but by the recent surrender of many of his officers and the successful establishment of local governments by the Taft commission.

This being the case, it is but fair to look for immediate preparations to bring home American troops from the Philippines. By the time the volunteer term of service expires in June next, the rebellion will be so far forgotten and the city government so thoroughly established in the affections of the people that it will not be necessary to replace these forces with the recruits that are now being enlisted under the new army bill. The city government will need only a portion of the regular troops now on the islands. Consequently, it will not be necessary to recruit the army up to the standard called for by the Hull bill, which was necessitated, as was many times explained by its sponsors, because of the extraordinary demands of the Philippine rebellion. We can expect to see the $129,000,000 expended by the war department last year cut down to something near the $56,000,000 expenditure of the year preceding the Spanish war. The prospect is most delightful, if only it pans out.

The question of what is to be done with Aguinaldo is an interesting one. He can scarcely be called a traitor against the United States, unless treason is a negotiable commodity that can be acquired by purchase. If that view be taken of the case, Aguinaldo might be hung as a traitor, for Spain so considered him, and we claim to have come into all of Spain's rights in the islands. But Spain so considered the Cubans, who, we have promised, shall be free and independent. It would hardly be right to hang one and put the other on the back, when their offenses are identical. To brand and lodge him for life would surely be convenient. To let him get away and begin contaminating unsuspecting Filipinos would not be a safe policy. Probably the preferable thing would be to induce him to go over to Europe and lose himself, as England managed to do in the case of Oom Paul. If nothing better offers, he might be found a position with some good trust, or given a fourth-class postoffice.

RUSSIA'S DOMESTIC TROUBLES.

THE RECENT TREND OF AFFAIRS in Russia indicate that only the greatest precautions and most stringent measures can avert a crisis. Whether or not the report be true that a mine has been discovered under the emperor's palace, it is evident that plots against his life and the lives of others in high places are rife. Discontent among the poorer classes in Russia is ever present, and for years has been secretly fed by the dissemination of literature smuggled into the country by the more ardent enemies of the present tyrannical form of government. With such conditions the fire of revolt once started will tax the utmost powers of the army and the police to stamp it out.

In the present instance the rioting has begun, not with the lower classes, but among the students of the universities, scions of the nobility and well-to-do families. What the prime cause for an outbreak among the students was is difficult to determine, owing to the strict censorship that the Russian authorities keep on all news sent out from the empire. It is not improbable that the excommunication of Count Tolstoy by the Greek church may have had something to do in stirring up an agitation. The method of drafting disaffected students for army service has had the effect of increasing the disaffection, rather than suppressing it. The cruelty of the Cossacks in charging upon several hundred students and workmen who were making a demonstration in one of the public squares, of St. Petersburg has further embittered the university agitators. Similar demonstrations have been reported in other Russian cities, and a protest against the cruelty was made by the Authors' Society of Russia, composed of some of the foremost men of letters in the empire.

FLATS VS. RELIGION.

THE REV. DR. S. D. MCCONNELL, rector of Trinity church, Brooklyn, in a recent address discussed the flat with a view to its tendency to make its occupants irreligious. He sums up the matter thus: "There is something about the flat that militates against religion. In all sections of New York, in Boston and wherever the flat has been introduced, the fact has been noticed. It may be the large city, which the flat accompanies as a necessity, where people more and more lose themselves among other people, or think they do, and so shirk responsibility and become irreligious. Whatever the cause, the apartment, and especially the high-priced one, is looked upon with fear by all rectors."

There is good reason to believe that the worthy rector is on the wrong track. No one who has lived in a flat will deny that there are in such a life many tendencies to irreligion. But it is neither the flat nor the city that is to blame. It is the other flats and the people in them, especially the high-priced ones where the inhabitants can afford the luxury of a piano. It is a trifle hard to be aggressively religious when a dandelion in the flat across the hall insists on playing rag time morning, noon and night. Even a rector would have a hard time keeping his temper if he were awakened out of a sound slumber in the small hours of each morning by the wretch in the flat above dropping a pair of 10 E heavy walking shoes on the floor. When the fender next door makes it a practice to get up at 6 o'clock every winter morning and beat a Sousa march on the steam pipes with a hammer until the janitor gets up and turns on the steam, some remarks that are not truly religious are bound to escape from the most well meaning lips.

If the Rev. Dr. McConnell wishes to cure the evils resulting from flat living there is only one way to go about it. Begin with the fellows in the other flats.

CRIMINAL NEGLIGENCE.

IN IMPOSING A FINE OF FIFTY DOLLARS on a doctor who neglected to report a case of smallpox to the health department, Judge Timmony took a commendable stand against criminal carelessness of this sort. With an epidemic of smallpox rife in the city, no condemnation can be too severe against a doctor who fails to take every precaution to prevent the spread of the disease. Patients are naturally anxious to prevent publicity of their affliction and to escape, if possible, being sent to the pest house. A doctor, however, knows the danger to the community resulting from a failure to comply with the law. The convenience of the patient should not be allowed to menace the public, and even where the doctor is not positive that the disease is smallpox, he should at least inform the health department that there exists a suspicious case that they may watch it and take the needed precautions. A doctor who does less than this becomes a public enemy.

A recent smallpox epidemic, the third death from this cause since December has occurred. The doctors report that the disease has assumed a more virulent form. The history of smallpox warrants the belief that the struggle will increase with the continuation of the epidemic. This would be warning enough to induce everyone who is not already vaccinated to take this precaution at once. It is a duty he owes not only to himself, but to the community.

What's the matter with making Argie official stenographer to the Taft commission? He has shown himself to be handy with a typewriter and he has a lovely name for the job.

The Emperor William has decided to have a body guard of cyclists. This is probably the first official recognition of the scooter, as a weapon of offense and defense.

If Aguinaldo spends as much time dead while in captivity as he did when at large his bond bill should not be very expensive.

In spite of the efforts of John Bull the stock reports from China continue to be decidedly bearish in tone.

On a recent slumming tour Mrs. Nation kissed several of the women she met. No faces were broken.

SOCIETY NOTES.

The Sons of the American Revolution will give a reception and ball Thursday evening, April 18. This will be the annual entertainment of the society, and will be given in commemoration of the battle of Lexington.

The Darington club gave a delightful hop last evening at the Ladies' Literary club. This was the last hop of the season, and was attended by all the members.

Miss Jennie Bishop, who spent the past two years in the state, Mrs. M. F. Cunningham, in this city, departed for her home in Illinois over the Union Pacific last evening.

Miss Ruby McCord of Illinois is making a prolonged visit with her friend, Mrs. Ella Cunningham Wetzel, in this city, being on her way home from an extended tour on the coast. Mrs. Wetzel's many friends will be pleased to know that she is on the road to recovery, after a very serious illness.

A special business meeting of the officers of the city will be held tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock at the Exponent office in the Templeton building.

AMUSEMENTS.

The advance sale for the Blanche Walsh engagement next week opened yesterday at the Theatre and was very large.

A PARENT'S PETITION.

Changes in Arithmetic Problems Asked by a Springville Father. (Springville Independent.)

It is told on the q. t. in Springville educational circles that one of Professor Eggertson's assistants in the public schools received the following letter from a concerned parent:

"Sir—Will you please for the future give my boy easier sums to do than these? This evening I brought home two or three nites back: 'If fore gallons of beer will fill 33 pint bottles, how many pint bottles will nine gallons fill?' Well, sir, I tried and couldn't make nothing out of it at all; then my boy cried and sed he didn't dare go back to the mortuary 'without doin' it. So we had to send and by a nine-gallon cask of beer, which we could ill afford to do, and then we went and borrowed some wine and brandy bottles. Well, we emptied the cask into the bottles, then counted them and there were 19. I don't know put that sum down for an answer. I don't believe this was rite, tho', for I think the old man drunk on the rode home."

"P. S.—Please let the next sum be in water, as I am not able to by eny more."

THE SECRETARY'S ADVICE.

Gage Refused to be Worked by the Confidence Man. (Saturday Evening Post.)

Secretary of the Treasury Gage is a benevolent looking person and has such a genial manner that confidence men occasionally attempt to work him. They quickly discover that appearances are deceptive, however, and purchase a day the secretary was warmly greeted near the door of the treasury by a well-dressed man of middle age. Mr. Gage, assuming the stranger to be the stranger was one of the multitude who has met in Washington and whose names he cannot hope to remember, returned the salutation and shook the hand held out to him.

"I trust you will pardon me, Mr. Secretary," the man began, "but I represent a London illustrated newspaper which has commissioned me to obtain a set of photographs of your country seat. I have a camera with me and I am taking a few views there."

"None in the world," answered the secretary, amiably, "if you will tell me where my country seat is, I never knew I had one."

"Ah," exclaimed the stranger, "I must have been misinformed. Then would you consent to let me see some pictures of the interior of your mansion in Washington?"

"With all the pleasure in life, if there were any houses in the city that I could call my own. I live in a rented dwelling and my landlord has notified me that I must get out of that in a few weeks."

In spite of his air of assurance, the stranger began to look embarrassed. Drawing a trick from his pocket, he dropped his voice several degrees, he said:

"The fact is, Mr. Secretary, I am a little short of money. This illustrated London one is owing me money and thought possibly that you, as a banker and business man, could advise me how to proceed."

"I should think your best plan would be to ask your creditors."

"Quite so, but your office, it costs a good deal to send the advices by cable." "That is true. Under the circumstances had better send your messages 'collect.'" "Of course, of course." By this time the insinuating stranger was beginning to mop his brow. He said again, however, I am confronted by a little difficulty. The cable company has refused to send both dispatches 'collect.' "Easiest," asked the secretary with a look of real concern. "Well, then, my friend, it seems to me that you are reduced to a single course of conduct. Send one dispatch 'collect' and get your money from that; out of the proceeds you can repay the other."

And with a smile Mr. Gage disappeared through the swinging doors of the treasury building.

PART OF HIS SPINE GONE.

Miraculous Surgical Operation That May Save Boy's Life. (New York Journal.)

Surgeons will consider it almost a miracle that young Weston Shaw lives after a section of his spinal cord and three broken bones of his spine have been removed by an operation which the boy lies at his home in Inwood, L. I. Six weeks have passed since the remarkable operation which was performed on him by Dr. M. E. DeBakey, Inwood. Yet Shaw lives. Necessarily he is paralyzed below the point of section of his spinal cord and he suffers pain so intense that he is kept constantly under the influence of morphia. But, when free from the narcotic, his mind is clear. Besides, his appetite is good, his functions are normal and he has no fever. When he is free from pain he talks cheerfully and hopefully of the days when he will be out again. Even if he survive, the operation, work, paralysis of his lower extremities will be permanent.

Shaw is 16 years old. On Jan. 16 last he fell twenty-five feet from a roof, on which he was working in Far Rockaway. He struck the frozen ground on his back and broke the third, fourth and fifth vertebrae. The force of the fall drove the broken bones into the spinal cord they enclosed, crushing and severing it.

Shaw remained in the hospital eleven days, then Dr. Lee took him home in an ambulance. Then, as the last chance to save the boy's life, he performed the unique and vastly dangerous operation. Said Dr. Lee:

"I don't know of a case like this in the history of medical science. The case of Walter Duryea, who lives with a broken neck, becomes nothing compared to this. I am arranging to put him in a plaster cast to hold his back right. It is dangerous now as a little twitch might end his life at any time."

When He Was Crazy. (Kansas City Star.)

"Now you are tired of me and abuse me," said the man, "I am going to the band refused to hire another maid to take care of her pet dogs. 'Yes,' she con-

...hot two years ago you were just crazy to marry me." ...answered the impatient man, "my friends told me so at the time, but I didn't realize it until after we were married."

SALARIES OF SUPREME JUDGES.

New York Jurists Receive Very High Stipendiary Emolument. (Law Notes.)

A list of the salaries of the judges of the higher courts in the various states of the Union, compiled by C. D. Merrick of West Virginia, is interesting. Leaving on one side the judges of the supreme court of New York, in New York county, who receive $17,500 annually, and the Brooklyn judges, who receive $15,000, the highest salaries are paid to the judges of the supreme court of the United States and the court of appeals of New York, who receive $10,000 and $9,000 more for the chief justices.

New Jersey gives her chancellor and judges a salary of $10,000. Pennsylvania's supreme judges receive $8,000; the chief justice $8,500; Michigan pays her supreme judges $7,000; Massachusetts $6,500; Connecticut, Iowa, Montana, North Dakota, Ohio, Texas and Washington.

In Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Delaware, Florida, Maine, Maryland, Mississippi, New Hampshire, Oregon and Tennessee the salaries range from $3,000 to $5,000. The $3,000 line falls the incomes of the judges in Idaho, Kansas, Nebraska, North Carolina, South Carolina, South Dakota, Utah, Vermont, Virginia, West Virginia and Wyoming.

It thus appears that the salaries are highest in the great commercial states of the east and the middle west, and are least in the southern and extreme western states—except California.

England's Expense For Troopships. (Chicago Record.)

Liverpool.—The close of the financial year of the Liverpool Steamship company draws attention to the amount of money expended for the vessels chartered by the government to transport troops in this region. The amount being considerably over £750,000 (£2,500,000) service has been in the government's hands since the commencement of hostilities, the company being remunerated at least a third of a million. Before the war received her value twice over. The White Star company's earnings from the same source are estimated at over £450,000 (£1,500,000).

Her Name More Than She Could Bear. (Chicago Chronicle.)

Mary Wotowawitz attempted suicide yesterday because her name had been drawn in the social circle in which she mingled. She was employed as a cigar maker. For some time past a friend who was unable to pronounce her name, called her Mary Walsh, and the fact that she had an alias preyed on her mind to such an extent that she became melancholy. To her mother's lover ceased his attentions and she assumed her loss of his affection to her death.

SHORTLY AFTER 3 O'CLOCK TUESDAY, Miss Wotowawitz was purchasing a quantity of carbolic acid and swallowed it in her room. She was taken to the county hospital, where she was treated for several days. She regretted her action and says that she will try to live down her name or change it.
