

Managing Director A. F. Holden So Declares.

AT BINGHAM JUNCTION DOES NOT DEPEND ON CONSOLIDATION.

A. F. Holden, managing director of the Centennial-Eureka and United States Mining companies, arrived from the east yesterday forenoon...

He stated to the Herald last evening that he would likely remain here a month this time, as there was much to be done affecting the interests of the companies with which he was connected.

Regarding the talk of consolidation of the Centennial-Eureka and the United States properties, the gentleman said the matter was being considered and would come up for determination at a meeting to be held in Boston.

Whether it will go through or not he was not prepared to say, though he was inclined to the belief that it would.

"We have been waiting," Mr. Holden said, "to see how the Bingham company's new smelter would perform in the morning, and from what I can learn, it has been so successful that I have no doubt whatever that the United States company will order the building of a similar plant before I leave.

It is a question whether the consolidation will take place or not. It will be erected on the site already prepared at Bingham Junction, and will surely be completed during the present year.

Regarding the application for a receiver for the Niagara company, the gentleman said that was a matter that he caused him to consider whatever, as no matter what was done with the property it could not materially affect the interests of the Centennial-Eureka and the United States companies.

From all he could learn before coming west and further basing his opinion on a personal knowledge of the mine, Mr. Holden felt very confident that the pending deal for the control of the Grand Central would go through.

The Bingham syndicate, he said, was very strong one and perfectly able to take up the option. What would become of the Mammoth has not been decided, but he felt that short as the time was, it would change hands also, but who would secure it was an unsolved problem.

UP FROM COLORADO RIVER.

Colonel Ben Hite Says the Future Has Much to Store.

After an absence of two months or more among his holdings in the Henry Mountain district, and the placers of the Colorado, Colonel Ben Hite, to whom much of the interest now being taken in that section is due, came up from the south Wednesday night for a short breathing spell before hurrying on to Denver.

Colonel Hite stated yesterday that while he was not at liberty just yet to go into details regarding what is occurring, he could say in general that the future of the Henry Mountain country and the Colorado river, never looked as bright as right now.

On his way out the colonel met John E. Stanton, president, and John H. Harkness, one of the directors of the Hoskinson Placer company, on their way down to the river. They were going in to make an inspection of the company's holdings and witness the operation of the new dredge.

Their examination, however, was not so much as to be recommended at the meeting of the company scheduled for the last of the month in New York.

Colonel Hite expects to start for Denver tonight.

STAR CON. ANNUAL.

Company's Financial Condition—President Packard's Statement.

The shareholders of the Star Consolidated Mining company met in annual session yesterday and elected new officers and directors as follows: Milton Packard, president; R. Deane, vice president; J. P. Packard, superintendent; C. S. Davis and the other directors being C. S. Davis and M. O. Packard.

Milton Packard, who has been on the sick list for the past several weeks, was able to be present at the meeting and he said he hoped in a few days to be about as usual.

of gold and two cars of silver-lead ore are now being loaded for market.

The gentleman said he was able to verify the reports that he had been approached with propositions to sell the mine. A few days ago, while I was lying on my back, I had parties call on me and offer to buy the mine at the offer down, of course, and within a day or two one of my sons was offered $2,000 to get my consent to the deal.

It is a question whether the consolidation will take place or not. It will be erected on the site already prepared at Bingham Junction, and will surely be completed during the present year.
