FERRY BOAT IS SUNK IN THE HARBOR OF NEW YORK

Loaded Down With Passengers, Many of Whom It Is Feared Have Perished.

Rammed By Another Steamer, She Goes to the Bottom Before Help Could Arrive.

New York, June 14.—The wooden side-wheeler Northfield, which has been in the service of the Staten Island Ferry company for the past thirty-eight years, was rammed tonight by the steel hulled propeller Mauch Chunk, used as a ferry boat by the Central railroad of New Jersey.

The swift running flood tide and the question of which boat had the right of way was the cause of the disaster. Captain Abraham Johnson was in charge of the Northfield and Captain C. S. Griffin in command of the Mauch Chunk. Each lays the blame for the collision on the other.

When the accident appeared inevitable, the Communiway ferry boat was ordered to be driven full speed into the Mauch Chunk, which was in the way of the Northfield.

Blow a Terrific One. When the accident appeared inevitable, the Communiway ferry boat was ordered to be driven full speed into the Mauch Chunk, which was in the way of the Northfield.

Life Preservers Not Available. While the Northfield was well supplied with life preservers, which were stowed in out of the way places, not more than two dozen of the endangered passengers were able to get the life belts on.

HER FATE IS NOW IN HANDS OF THE JURY

Strong Arguments by Counsel For and Against Her.

Kansas City, June 14.—When Mrs. Kennedy entered the court room this morning to hear the arguments to the jury before whom she has been on trial for the past ten days for the murder of her husband, Philip H. Kennedy, she appeared in better health and spirits than on any day since the case opened.

Mrs. Lulu-Prince Kennedy.

Jury intently scrutinizing closely the facts of each of the twenty-one days. Asked how she felt, the prisoner said: "They gave me some kind of a powder a little while ago. I am going to be brave as possible."

She Dropped Her Head. The day's session was opened by Prosecutor Hadley giving the instructions to the jury. The prosecutor read with almost dramatic effect and the jury paid unusual attention.

At the afternoon session Attorney Nearing opened for the defense and demanded acquittal. He declared that the state had admitted nothing to prove the charges that the Prince family had conspired to kill Kennedy.

At this point Mrs. Kennedy, who had been laying her head on the table, straightened and shrieked: "Oh, mercy, man! Oh, mercy!"
