

MYSTERIOUS PARTY OF ENGINEERS

Surveyors at Work in Little Cottonwood Canyon.

CAUSED MANY RUMORS MEMBERS OF THE PARTY REFUSE TO TALK

Several persons who came down from Alta yesterday brought the news that a party of railroad surveyors has been working recently in Little Cottonwood canyon, running lines and securing data for a railroad up to Alta.

The identity of the surveying party is mysterious. The members declined to state for whom they were working or to give any information about their intentions, although they admitted that they were looking over the ground with a view to the construction of a railroad up the canyon.

It was rumored that the San Pedro road had its eyes on the old camp as a possible feeder for the main line, but this was denied. Denials were also in evidence as to the Rio Grande and the Short Line, and the connection of the engineers remaining a mystery.

There is a rumor around Alta that they represent the San Pedro company. The construction of a road to Alta would mean the shortening of some of the great obstacles. The Rio Grande Western had difficulty in operating as far as Wasatch when the narrow gauge was running that far, and this is the easiest part of the grade.

The ascent from Sandy to Alta is approximately 1,000 feet, and the distance is about 2.0 feet in the eight miles between Sandy and Alta. If this were a steady ascent it would mean between 2 and 3 per cent.

In some parts, however, the grade is fully double this percentage. The snowfields have in the past interfered greatly with the operation of the road now running to the old camp, and there are many other obstacles. However, it is believed that the mountain properties will be opened up, particularly for copper, within the next year, and that a heavy tonnage for a railroad will be developed, perhaps enough to justify the heavy expense necessary to build and operate a road.

As a matter of comparison of grade, the heaviest grades over the mountain roads of the present are between 4 and 5 per cent, although the Park City branch of the Rio Grande Western was originally as high as 6 per cent, and mining roads are built on an average of 14 per cent grade in Utah, while the Elko's Peak coal road amounts to a grade of 22 per cent.

INCREASE IN EARNINGS. Western Roads Show Some Heavy Gains. Eastern and foreign investors are having their attention called to the remarkable increase in the earnings of the western railroads. Within a week the annual reports of several western roads have been given out, and practically all show great increases, leading the practical observer to conclude that the Santa Fe and the Union Pacific are at the top of the list.

The Union Pacific, in spite of the great expense for improvements, showed an increase in net earnings of $1,183,125. This has come through the general increase in business all over the west and the improved facilities of the road for handling coal.

Other western roads have shown great strides and the impression is said to be growing among investors that the western railroads will continue to lead the march on ward.

BIG TOURIST TRAVEL. Eastern and Western Lines Scramble For Business. The eastern and western roads are scrambling earnestly this summer for the tourist business of the heated term, and so far the western roads seem to be getting the better of it, in spite of the Pan-American, and the various conventions held in the east.

Placed on a mileage basis, the western roads are cheaper than the eastern rates. The round trip excursion rate between Chicago and Colorado is $25, between Chicago and Utah $35, and to California and Idaho $50. The round trip from Chicago to Buffalo is $13.50 and to New York, which is slightly less than the Chicago rate, is $18.50 and $25. The result of these low rates and the general hustling for business has made the tourist travel all over the United States the greatest ever known.

HOSPITAL ASSOCIATION. Rio Grande Western Is Preparing to Form One. Employees of the Rio Grande Western are preparing to form a hospital, a institution similar to the one at present in existence on the Denver & Rio Grande.

At present Rio Grande Western employees who are injured are sent to hospitals in Salt Lake, but the new hospital would give them the right to go to the hospital at Salina, where by the Rio Grande Hospital association, and controlled by a board of managers selected from the association, and from the officers of the road. If the new association is organized, the hospital at Salina will probably be enlarged.

U. P. REORGANIZATION. Persistent Circulation of Story to This Effect. From Omaha comes the story that, in spite of denial, the Union Pacific is to be completely reorganized in September. The changes will be set forth in a circular letter to be sent from Chicago, west to San Francisco and Portland.

H. H. Harlan's plan is to place all the construction work under the supervision of President Burt, and the same matters under the supervision of the board, and to be abolished and the decapitation will be widespread.

some relations to the northern lines as Mr. Stubbs to the Harriman lines. In addition to being traffic director of the three roads, Mr. Miller will have the title of vice president of the Burlington. It is understood that the two traffic directors will act in harmony with the traffic officials of other lines, and in such way that there will be in effect a traffic board which shall have the duty of smoothing over and adjusting all the difficulties which may arise between western lines.

P. & I. N. Contract. (Special to The Herald.) Boise, Ida., Aug. 7.—The contract for the extension of the Pacific & Idaho Northern railroad from Council toward Lewiston is to be signed in a day or two. Work will be delayed, however, on account of the eastern strike.

Railroad Notes. The third outing excursion of the Short Line to northern points will be Aug. 24.

Short Line passenger cars are now being painted Varlyke brown instead of black. It is reported that the Hill-Morgan interests have secured enough stock in the Canadian Pacific to stop rate cutting.

The Short Line expects to bring at least 1,200 persons from Box Elder county today on the Sunday school excursion to the mountains. At least 500 persons are expected to be in Salt Lake from Butte Saturday, Aug. 17, a $10 excursion rate having been made by the Oregon Short Line. The Herald has received from Advertising Manager A. Darlow of the Union Pacific a copy of the new edition of the "Handbook of the State," which contains the resources of the state. General Passenger Agent Lomax has had the information brought to date, and the entire book has been gone over carefully and revised. The book now furnishes a complete and up-to-date account of the history of the state, its climate, attractions, institutions, industries and its various advantages to a possible resident or investor.

Milford Bard Shipp, jr., was yesterday made defendant in an action for divorce commenced in the district court by his wife, Ida Dehlla Shipp, whom he married at Manila, P. I., in 1896. An report of Referee Eldredge, who took the testimony in the case, a decree of divorce was signed yesterday by Judge Hall to Elva Menzies from his wife, Ellen Menzies, whom he married in this city on Jan. 4, 1898. SHERIFF EXONERATED. Explaining Satisfactorily Why Beer Flowed Last Sunday.

The imminent breach between the county commissioners and Sheriff Naylor over the failure of the latter to apprehend the proprietors of the bars at Salt Lake and Caldwell's park in the sale of beer last Sunday, was closed yesterday. A special meeting of the commissioners was held at noon to hear the statement of the sheriff, who had been cited to show cause why he had not enforced the Sunday closing law, and after the hearing the sheriff was exonerated from blame for dereliction of duty.

Sheriff Naylor stated to the commissioners that the reason none of his deputies had been sent to the pleasure resorts in the county where liquor is sold last Sunday was due to a misunderstanding of the part of Chief Deputy Eldredge as to the purpose of the commissioners' orders and to the absence of the sheriff himself from the state.

After hearing Sheriff Naylor's statement, the following resolution, written by the chairman and offered by Commissioner Harker, was adopted by unanimous vote: "The explanation of Sheriff Naylor be accepted, the commissioners being satisfied that the sheriff is in perfect harmony with the enforcement of all of the laws, and that the omission called attention to in the report of the sheriff was due to a misunderstanding and was not intentional neglect."

The sheriff then assured the commissioners that he would have deputies detailed at the resorts every Sunday hereafter to see that the bar rooms and beer counters are closed.

JOSEPH BRIDGE ARRESTED. Is Charged With Assault on Little Girl.

Joseph Bridge, a plasterer living at 666 West North Temple street, was arrested yesterday afternoon upon a charge of having assaulted Helen Budd, the 8-year-old daughter of George Budd, proprietor of the West Side saloon. The crime is alleged to have been committed on July 21 last. The parents of the child, who looked upon Bridge almost as one of the family, never suspected that anything was wrong until Tuesday night when Helen became sick and an examination by Dr. Fisher disclosed the cause of her illness. Upon being questioned then, the child told the story of several assaults by Bridge.

Yesterday the father of the little girl swore to a complaint against Bridge and Officer Gillespie arrested him late in the afternoon. Bridge, who is about 33 years of age, stated when seen in the jail that he did not know whether he had committed the crime or not, but that if he had it was while he was drunk. Bridge's bail was fixed at $5,000 by Judge Timmony, and in default of it he is now in the city jail. He has a mother and several brothers and sisters living in this city. He was born and raised here.

GIRLS WHO KEPT LIFE OF SOLDIER

Two Sisters, Now at Cheyenne, Have Exciting Career.

ENLISTED IN THE ARMY

SEX WAS LEARNED WHILE ON WAY TO PHILIPPINES.

Cheyenne, Wyo., Aug. 7.—Mrs. Pearl Padgett and Miss Mary Ward, sisters, who publicly horsewhipped Ed Williams, a Cheyenne young man, in the streets Sunday night and who were later arrested on the charge of creating a disturbance, are still in the city jail. The authorities are at their wits' end, however, to know what to do with the young women and in all probability they will be given their freedom during the week.

The "Ward sisters" have been very fond of the society of soldiers stationed at Fort Russell, and well they may be, for of this story it is true they have seen not a little of soldier life in barracks and on the battlefield, and this fact has subjected them to the jeers of a gang of young toughs who have been in the habit of following Mrs. Padgett and her sister about the streets, throwing insulting remarks at them, etc.

Two weeks ago, it is alleged, Mrs. Padgett was accosted by a well known Union Pacific conductor, running between Cheyenne and Denver, and, as she said, she gave him a horsewhipping. The matter was hushed up, however, until Sunday night, when the girls told their story to the police. The horsewhipping was done Sunday night only after the girls, who were out riding, had been followed through the streets for some time by a group of young men. The affair was witnessed by a large crowd, including two policemen, who followed the women and placed them under arrest.

To The Herald correspondent last night Mrs. Padgett and her sister told the following story of their lives: Born in Lima, Pa., and 23 years of age, both girls attended Catholic schools. Mrs. Padgett taking a two-year course in the St. Augustine academy at Fort Wayne, Pa. Ed Williams, San declared war upon Spain the girls, accompanied by a girl named Mabel Howard, daughter of a wealthy lawyer of Fort Wayne, ran away from home and went to Columbus barracks, where two cousins of the Ward girls assisted them in getting to Tampa with one of the Ohio volunteer regiments that was ordered to Cuba. At Tampa they were found and sent back home.

Shortly after, the Ward sisters left home again, this time going to Newport where battery C, Seventh artillery, was waiting orders to sail for Manila. Although only 23 years of age, the girls were determined to go to the Philippines, and, donning uniforms and cutting their hair close to their heads, they were accepted by the recruiting officer and under the names of John and Joe Adams, they set out with the regiment.

Seven days out from Honolulu the discovery was made that the "Adams brothers" were girls in disguise. They were placed in the stocks and taken to a cabin below decks and upon their arrival in Manila they were given their freedom and permitted to join the Red Cross hospital corps.

Discovered to be Girls. "In crossing the continent we rode in the coaches with the soldiers and never suspected our identity. Leaving San Francisco, however, we assigned to a bunk with the 'top' sergeant and my sister was bunked with a corporal. Four days out the sergeant came to me and said he knew who I was. He said that he bunked by himself. Seven days out from Honolulu the commanding officer called and declared that he believed there were three girl stowaways on board. The ship was searched, but the stowaways were not found. The sergeant, however, the ward and told of the discovery he had made and we were immediately arrested. The officers and men treated us very nicely, however, and we enjoyed the trip immensely."

After a short stay in Manila the artillery was ordered to the front and the girls "went along" with the money. Padgett, "after a skirmish with the Philippines, the hospital corps was gathering up the wounded when we were attacked and taken prisoners by the Filipinos. We were carried back into the mountains, a distance of seventy miles, and confined in a prison built of bamboo. We were treated well by the natives and in five months my sister was exchanged and sent back to Manila. Four months later I was also exchanged. We enjoyed our stay in the mountains immensely. The Filipinos did everything possible to make us comfortable and in fact, during the time we were not permitted to move about much, our confinement was more in the nature of a pleasant visit than anything else."

When the Twenty-third infantry was ordered home the Ward girls say they made up their minds to return with the regiment, and a policeman happened along and told her he had done nothing at all. Deputy Mauss is looking for the other two.

HURT IN A FAST RUNAWAY

TWO MEN SUSTAIN BRUISES AND CONTUSIONS.

Will Yates and George Budd Thrown From a Vehicle on West Temple Street.

There was a lively runaway near the Short Line depot yesterday afternoon, in which two men had narrow escapes from severe injuries. Both parties were severely bruised, but no bones were broken. The men were Will Yates, an express driver, and George Budd, the proprietor of the West Side saloon. Yates was driving Budd to the city when something went wrong with the harness, and Yates removed the bridle from one of the horses to fix it. The animal became frightened and dashed down the street, dragging Yates with him. The rig had not gone far when it collided with a pole and Budd was thrown with considerable force to the ground, sustaining a sprained hip and several bruises. Yates, who got tangled under the horses' feet, was quite severely bruised and had to be carried to the hospital by hospital attendants. His injuries, however, it is said, were not serious.

The horses continued to run, and the last seen of them was in the direction of the Jordan.
