

Everything in Readiness for The Elks' Carnival Week

FIVE OF QUEEN MABELLE'S MAIDS OF HONOR.

The big show is about to begin. Already the vanguard has arrived. At least 300 Elks from stray herds roamed around the streets of Salt Lake yesterday, while hundreds during the day took a peep into the carnival enclosure, with its many prettily decorated booths, where muskets, hammers and nails were in service all last night to have things in readiness for the opening tomorrow morning. For more than two weeks, in fact, those portions of West Temple and Third South streets given up to the celebration have presented a scene of activity.

But for the death of President McKinley, the festivities would have been ushered in last night. The plan was to have Field's band and the Indians from the reservation out on a serenading tour through the principal streets, but it was abandoned.

The first feature of the carnival will be the parade of Salt Lake lodge 85 at 10 o'clock tomorrow forenoon. Besides the local Elks, there will be in line Queen Mabelle and her twenty maids of honor, the Jarboe attractions and the Indians. After parading the principal streets, taking in the territory bounded by the Knutsford, Eagle Gate, Valley House and Market street on the west, Temple, the procession will enter the arch on the corner of Second South and West Temple and proceed to the band stand. This will be in the morning of the fair, at high noon. At 1 p. m. the opening address will be made by Governor Wells, to be followed by speeches from Senator Kearns and Congressman Sutherland. Exalted Ruler Fred will preside at this ceremony. The first day will be known as Governor's day.

Tuesday will be surrendered to the school children. The age of 15 to be admitted free between 1 and 6 p. m. On Wednesday occurs the big parade of the Elks, merchants, civic fraternal orders, in the morning. Queen Mabelle will also appear in the parade. This will be Fraternal day.

Thursday will be known as Utah, Wyoming, Idaho, Montana, Nevada and California day.

Friday is Elks' Purple day, the greatest of all. The live elk is to be christened and a monster electrical parade in the evening is planned, in which the lodges of Salt Lake, Ogden, Tintic, Pocatello, Rock Springs, Rawlins and Cheyenne, as well as all visiting Elks, will participate.

Saturday will be Traveling Men's day. The salesmen will parade at 10 in the morning. The carnival ends that night.

In case the president's cabinet sets apart one day of the week for memorial services, it will be Memorial day within the carnival enclosure. Everything will be draped in crepe and there will probably be appropriate ceremonies.

There will be plenty of police to handle the large crowds expected at the carnival. An escort of twenty special officers in citizen's clothes will attend the queen while she is wearing the crown. Chief Hilton will assign six officers in uniform and six in citizen's dress for duty on the grounds. Firemen will also patrol the enclosure.

The erection of the arches will commence at midnight Sunday and a large crowd will be present on the night until the grounds are thrown open.

The queen will have no throne, but during the time she is on the grounds she will occupy a seat on the band stand.

Major Myton desires to caution the public against inviting the Indians to partake of any intoxicants. It is against the federal law.

The Indians were assigned to a large enclosure off by themselves on the fair grounds yesterday, where they will erect the Indian village. This village will be a big feature of the show, Charlie Macdonald being the crowd, although not really a chief, says he has fifteen good dancers and the rest of the forty chant the weird tunes while the dancing is in progress. The Indians are prepared to give a bear dance, sun dance and war dance.

The Jarboe attractions, which will be mounted on a general theme, especially for football practice and games during the coming months. Bleachers will also be erected so that the field will be complete. The work of fencing will begin at once.

At faculty meeting on Tuesday last the president's executive committee on state fair, consisting of Professors R. R. Lyman, Byron Cummings and Milton Bennion.

Following the adjournment of the committee on state fair, the board of regents has decided that the university will make a good showing at the coming October exhibit, and the committee has been instructed to begin active preparations at once.

Professor Milton Bennion has been added to the committee on college students.

Miss May, director of the kindergarten work in the normal school, returned to the city last Friday afternoon and was received by the executive committee yesterday.

Miss Sally Sholes, K. '00, and Miss Margaret K. '01, two of Miss May's assistants, have been assigned to kindergarten school in Great Falls, Mont., during the past summer months and returned to the city last week. Their interesting and attractive that they have been induced to continue the school in session during the winter. The school will be opened on Monday and will work a part of the regular schedule for next year.

Miss May received more applications for position for kindergarten graduates than she can fill, and regards this fact as a healthy indication of the high standard of that department of the normal school.

Professor M. M. Babcock returned from a trip to Chicago, Buffalo and Madison and his mother and brother in Philadelphia.

Seven new names have been added to the teaching force of the university, and for the first time the normal school has received more applications for position for kindergarten graduates than she can fill, and regards this fact as a healthy indication of the high standard of that department of the normal school.

Professor R. H. Bradford, after having spent his vacation in Utah, will return to the city on Monday with his folks, to do his second year of post graduate work. He returns with the appointment of a certificate in education and will no doubt repeat his record of last year.

Colonel M. M. Kaignon was a visitor at the university on Friday.

High School Notes.

In spite of the unfortunate interruption by fire, nearly the full number of pupils enrolled Monday morning at the old University building Friday morning. Three of the larger rooms were used as assembly halls, the freshmen being on the second floor and the sophomores, juniors and seniors on the third. General elective study courses and finished enrolling over 200 new pupils, mainly from the eighth grades of the city, are registered in the freshman department. It is important to note that the assignment of classes can be definitely made.

On account of repairs on the building, there will be no general assembly Monday. Irregular students and those who are absent for one or two days on courses should see Mr. Eaton at his office, Monday between 9 and 12 and 2 and 5.

Number of new teachers have been added to the corps of instructors. Miss Moffett, for some years a teacher in the Ogden High school, will have work in English. Mrs. Jennings, formerly instructor at Rowland Hall, is to teach French and German. Mr. Pendergrass will assist in the commercial department. The vacancy created by Mr. Beaver's resignation has not yet been filled. Miss Carney from the eighth grade of the Wasatch and Miss Bain of the Lowell are new teachers in the history department. Mr. Brown, for some time principal of the High school at Nephi, is to have work in mathematics.

Miss Dukes spent most of her vacation in Boston taking lectures at Harvard and making numerous trips to points of literary and historical interest.

During part of the summer Mr. Eaton was in Boston and other eastern cities. He spent some time in visiting different high schools studying their courses and methods of work.

Miss Stokoe's vacation was passed at her home in San Diego, where she continued her scientific work. She is now at 764 First street.

Miss Goddard took work in English at the University of Wisconsin and later visited at her home in Portland. She is at Mrs. La Forge's, 443 East First street.

Miss Clarah is at 348 Third East. During the summer she visited friends in Iowa and Illinois.

Miss Johnson spent her summer visiting relatives in Nebraska. Miss Rowe and Miss Moffett are at the Miller.

Mr. and Mrs. Travis are at 10 Kendall terrace and are studying their courses and methods of work.

The first aid second year boys are taking great interest in the cadet corps.

county schools of the state in the examination of eighth grade pupils. Uniformity in teachers' examinations has already been established. Such will have a tendency to raise the standard of education among teachers of the state. It is clear that the work of the state will be made more efficient by the uniformity of the eighth grade pupils will be stimulating effect upon both pupils and teachers throughout the state.

Mrs. Elliott announces the following teachers' meetings for the coming week: Beginners grade, Monday, Sept. 15, at 2:30.

First grade, Tuesday at 3:15.

Second grade, Wednesday at 3:30.

Third grade, Thursday at 3:30.

Fourth grade, Friday at 3:30.

All Mrs. Elliott's meetings will be held in the city and county building, in the teachers' room there.

Miss Pollock will hold meetings during the week as follows: Tuesday, the teachers of the second grade, at 2:30; Wednesday, those of the first grade, at the same hour, and Thursday, those of the first grade, at 2:15.

Mr. Elgren, who was secretary to the late Dr. Park during his term of office as state superintendent of public instruction, is one of the new teachers at the Summit school. The others are Miss Storeton, formerly of the city, and Miss Folsom, who was with the Bonneville corps last year.

Mr. Calderwood, who will be remembered as a principal in the county school, has been assigned to the Jackson during the past week.

Miss Jane M. Carney was a visitor at the Wasatch during the week.

Miss Pollock made her first formal visit of inspection and inspiration at the Summit school.

Dr. O. H. Avey is visiting his old friends in San Diego. The Lowell school, at 35 South Seventh East street. His friends were glad to welcome him back to Salt Lake, and hope that he will decide to make this his home in the future.

Miss Simpson, who has charge of the primary grades at Rowland Hall, returned on Wednesday from her vacation, spent in the east.

Miss Katherine McDonald, who is now assistant in the beginners' room at the Summit, was a graduate of that school four years ago. Miss McDonald has taken the normal course at the university.

Miss Mary Hoag will return to her work on Monday, after a week's recuperation from her recent illness.

Miss Olive Thompson has been transferred from the Lincoln to the Grant.

Miss Flanders and Miss Ellerbock, of Rowland Hall, are still in Europe, where they spent the summer studying German methods in music.

The state superintendent is busy making his first visits to the schools of the state. The first visit was to St. Louis, but several schools of Morgan county, and on Friday and Saturday last he was visiting the schools of Morgan county, and patrons of the schools of Monroe and Richfield, in Sevier county.

Miss Pollock, the new primary supervisor, was a visitor at the Lowell school on Wednesday.

Miss Helen R. Jenkins of Columbus, O., has been added to the corps at the Lincoln.

Mr. George Hedger, of the Lowell school, returned Thursday from the northwest, where he has been spending his summer.

Miss Felt, who has been teaching in Hober during the past year, has accepted a position at the Union school.

Mrs. Webster, the wife of the principal, has been substituting at the Lincoln the past week.

The teachers, pupils and patrons of the Grant school are pleased to welcome Miss Shell back after an absence of half of the school year last term.

Miss Bain, of the High school, but last year's principal, visited that school on Thursday last.

Mrs. Miller, of the Grant school, was ill during the past week and her place was filled by a substitute.

Harry Nelson and Dr. Rich, two of Mr. Doxey's former pupils at Ogden, visited the Hamilton during the week.

Mr. Nelson is about to leave on a mission to Germany, where he is practicing medicine at Ogden.

Professor Done spent several hours at the Hamilton Wednesday.

The eighth grade of the Hamilton organized its society Friday afternoon. The following officers were elected: President, Ada Maginnis; vice president, Edna Hill; secretary, Madeline Sherrill; treasurer, Minnie Warburton; sergeant-at-arms, Mack Crane; program committee, Alice Hart, Roscoe Musser, Myrtle Peterson.

University Notes.

During Friday and yesterday the registration closed. It was decided that only 256, against about 300 for the first of last year. This great falling off is due largely to the fact that the days of registration have been changed from the beginning of the week to the end. Although class work is programmed to begin tomorrow, it is probable that part of the day at least will be given over to the registration of students.

At a meeting of the board of regents held Friday afternoon, it was decided to enclose with a high board fence part of the university field that it may be used for general athletics, especially for football practice and games during the coming months. Bleachers will also be erected so that the field will be complete. The work of fencing will begin at once.

The military drill will be again in charge of Lieutenant Webb.

Agricultural College.

Christian Larson, 36, has just returned from a three years' mission in Germany. He has been asked to take the place of W. H. Homer as instructor in the Pinedale Stakes academy. Mr. Homer being called on a mission to Germany, but prefers to teach in the Greenville school and pursue a course in Latin with Dr. Moech of the Agricultural college.

Rev. Mr. Charles Davis, now an Episcopal clergyman in St. Louis, but thirty years ago a teacher in Logan, has been entertained for some time at Mr. G. G. Galt's. He visited the college Tuesday to call on Mr. and Mrs. Caine and Secretary Maughan, former pupils.

Ex-President J. M. Tanner was at the college on Saturday. He is "touring" the state in the interests of the church school of which he is general superintendent. On Sunday he and President Linford reported the people of the state, who had been visiting students from Wasatch county in one "bunch" to Provo.

Professor Luther Foster, for several years director of the physical culture and English in the B. Y. college, Miss Mattie A. Stover of the same class, has been awarded a scholarship in the Oread Domestic Science institute in Worcester, Mass., and is now studying in that institution. Miss Stover is the youngest graduate of the college, being still under 17.

Dr. Karl Moech returned Thursday from a long trip out in the interest of the college. He was seriously ill in Salt Lake for a few days, but is fully recovered.

Mr. Peterson returned last week from his course of field work in geology, and has moved into the Thomas Lewis house in the western part of the city. Professor Yoder has moved into the house from which Professor Peterson moved.

The Moech came from Germany some time ago and stepped for a time in Chicago to study elocution and acting. She arrived in Ogden on Wednesday.

Professor Linford will start out in about ten days to purchase thoroughbred cattle. He has been tendered a visit to Minnesota, Wisconsin, Illinois and Iowa.

Professor C. P. Close, who has occupied the chair of botany and horticulture for the last two years, will sever his connection with the college about Oct. 1. He has been tendered a visit to the Delaware college. His salary has been considerably advanced and his work will be limited almost entirely to fruit interests. Professor Close graduated from the Michigan Agricultural college in 82, going shortly after his graduation to the Geneva (N. Y.) station, whence he came here to take a roll of his own raising.

President Kerr went to Salt Lake City on Thursday. Director Whitsoe returned from his Bear Lake outing on Wednesday. Mr. Caine has just returned from a visit to Salt Lake friends, Messrs. Engle and Dryden are still "vacationing" as Dinkelapfel would say, and several other members of the faculty are still with friends.

Entrance examinations and registration will begin on Tuesday, and recitation will probably begin about Thursday.

Old Sport Returns from His Vacation and Criticises the Elks' Fair.

TAKE them keysters up to my room," said the Old Sport, as he stepped out of a carriage in front of Bogle's.

"I got to go in here an' see a old friend." Johnny had heard the well known voice and was wiping his hands on a corner of his apron when the Old Sport pushed through the doors. He couldn't have looked more pleased if Jimmie had told him his salary had been tilted ten, and he reached a plump hand across the counter in utter disregard of a man who wanted a cocktail in time to catch the next car.

"Where you been, Sport?" he said. "Time's been passin' durin' your absence like it passes to a cold foot man the evenin' accommodation an' get down to the main line before somebody else took a check on me. I'm through with the old home for a while, Johnny. I guess that'll hold me till my second time on earth."

"After I hit the main line I goes on a tower through the east because I got this roll that needs bittin'. You I has a reasonable good time. There can't be no doubt about that, for I ain't got nothin' but a shoestring left. I shore done the thing in right, but now I'm hungry to get back to real work, what they calls the actualities of life."

"Evens by the papers comin' in that there's goin' to be a Elks' carnival here an' I had a notion that I could turn a trick down there. But I'm some fearful that it can't be did. I asked one or two of the boys about it an' they says there won't be none of my kind o' doings inside the enclosure. An' yet they calls that a fair. There's nothin' to it, John, there's nothin' to it, I tell you."

"People are goin' to come here expectin' to get all the comforts as well as the luxuries out of that there show grounds. They say there's goin' to be a postoffice, a telegraph office an' a D. T. service. There's goin' to be restaurants an' beer an' booze, but what, I asks you, is them things in comparison with a few which I shall name?"

"Is there a wheel inside that fence? Is there a wheel layout? Is there a stud game? Is there any good old hony-mus? Echo answers with the large copper. It ain't right, John. I'm glad to get home, but it ain't right for these things to be. The boys'll be comin' down here from Carson an' Reno an' Virginia City. They'll be floatin' up from Tucson an' Tombstone an' Phoenix. From Cheyenne an' Medicine Bow an' Laramie, they're a comin', and they're expectin' to find somethin' warm."

"How'll we feel as citizens when they walks into that fair an' asks where the keno game's stowed away? Won't we be jarred when they inquires for the high card game? Can't you see our faces mantlin' with the blush of shame, as the pote says, when they begins their tenacious but unavailing search for the wheel?"

"John, my boy, I ain't got no hammer. Far be it from me to rap a enterprise that's growed an' flourished here in our midst, but I see, what things is wrong an' I pits 'em out as a friend, a true lover of the beautiful an' the proper. They tells me Elks is to blame. I says no, Ez ain't no more to blame'n a baby. It's the cussed management that's to blame.

"If they let me supervise the erection of them gates I'll put a hole in every one of 'em an' keep the dern coppers out. No, sir, not one of 'em could get in, even if he carried a dinner pail like the feller I did that soaked pore French Pete. That's the way it could be done, but the committee had had any git-up about it, the thing would of been arranged long before now."

"As it is, I ain't got the heart to invite none of my friends over. There won't be nothin' barrin' a few private desks, an' you knows, John, the best known remedy for quick relief and sure cure. Price, 25 and 50 cents. Van Ender's Drug Store, corner Main and Third South.

I reckon I'll take a check, too," says the next man, an' so it come on down the line to me. I'm still conscious but my senses is goin' fast by this time. I remembers callin' or brandy an' hittin' out to the fresh air.

"Pretty short crowd you butts into, Sport," said Johnny, sympathizingly.

"Short, says you? Short? Hah," was the reply. "If they was all lined together they wouldn't cover a faro box. But I don't blame 'em none, boy, 's the narrow circle they're raised in that's to blame. All I could do was to catch

Substantial

The city schools have entered upon the year's work with vigor and enthusiasm. The teachers have returned from the mountains, the seashore or the farm, refreshed and invigorated for the long siege before them. The pupils also have returned—some of them reluctantly, it is true—from their summer playgrounds, and taken up once more in the tasks of last June. A general spirit of work pervades the air of the various buildings, and both teachers and pupils seem to be beginning in good earnest. If the enthusiasm which is the result of closer association with nature and her surroundings does nothing towards making the work of the school room better as well as brighter, the summer will not have been a waste of time. It is no doubt that the good derived from the vacation time is a real good, manifesting itself in a better tone and deeper life for the school as well as for the individual.

The committee having charge of the work of decorating the two schools selected last spring by the Ladies' Library club has been hard at work for a few weeks getting the preliminary work done. The walls have been tinted, the floors polished and a number of the pictures and casters placed, owing to the delay in beginning the work, the pedestals, but the larger casts are not yet in place, but the whole will soon be completed. The corner of the Jackson school was chosen and the library of the Webster Library has returned from the relief of Homer, Staging Boys, Victory, as well as the following pictures: Head of Homer, Medicine Men, Colored Captain, St. Cecilia, photograph of Giotto's tower and a bust of Holmes. Pottery and other decorations have been ordered.

State Superintendent Nelson has written the leading school publishing firms an enclosure who by themselves on the fair in the near future a committee will be appointed, consisting of the state superintendent, the state board of education and other educators who understand the needs of the public schools, to make a selection of books for school libraries. The superintendent is desirous that the schools of the state shall be supplied with some literature, adapted to the capacity of the various pupils, instead of having the school filled with practically worthless charts and other apparatus of but little value.

Miss Colburn, the principal of Rowland Hall, returned yesterday morning from England, where she spent the summer company with Miss Humphreys, studying the English method of teaching Latin. While in the east Miss Colburn engaged three new teachers and a house mother for the ensuing year at the hall. The new teachers are Miss Zorn, for the grammar grades; Miss English from France, for the French and German, and Miss Dunham, who is a Yale graduate, and has taken a post-graduate course of two years at Yale to teach Latin and Greek.

Miss Sissa comes from the Anio Wright seminary at Tacoma, where she has been house mother for the past seven years.

The committee which was appointed at the annual convention of superintendents held last June to prepare an outline of requirements for the eighth grade pupils of the county schools, met in the office of the state superintendent of public instruction Thursday, Sept. 12, and prepared the work. Miss Sissa was assigned to the convention. This means that there will be uniformity throughout the county schools of the state in the examination of eighth grade pupils. Uniformity in teachers' examinations has already been established. Such will have a tendency to raise the standard of education among teachers of the state. It is clear that the work of the state will be made more efficient by the uniformity of the eighth grade pupils will be stimulating effect upon both pupils and teachers throughout the state.

Mrs. Elliott announces the following teachers' meetings for the coming week: Beginners grade, Monday, Sept. 15, at 2:30.

First grade, Tuesday at 3:15.

Second grade, Wednesday at 3:30.

Third grade, Thursday at 3:30.

Fourth grade, Friday at 3:30.

All Mrs. Elliott's meetings will be held in the city and county building, in the teachers' room there.

Miss Pollock will hold meetings during the week as follows: Tuesday, the teachers of the second grade, at 2:30; Wednesday, those of the first grade, at the same hour, and Thursday, those of the first grade, at 2:15.

Mr. Elgren, who was secretary to the late Dr. Park during his term of office as state superintendent of public instruction, is one of the new teachers at the Summit school. The others are Miss Storeton, formerly of the city, and Miss Folsom, who was with the Bonneville corps last year.
