

A Gambler Who Looked For a Fight and Got It.

When he wasn't lookin' for it, he tried it too often. "I hadn't much more'n thought of it when it happened. Brett had opened up for me for a while, same as usual. When they set in, raised it fifty, collatin' to drive the others out, I reckon. Anyway, they stayed out 'cept Calkins. "He studied awhile an' looked at Bradley out 'o' the corner of his eye an' then shows his hundred in without sayin' nothin'." Brett he made up his mind to give it a try. Bradley stood pat, an' Calkins took one. "It were a tough proposition for Brett, for he had three deuces an' just naturally had no confidence in 'em. He figured, o' course, that if he put in a dollar he was bound to be raised an' he wasn't strong enough to stand no bluff. He was no use, though, an' finally they had to give up. "Not long after the wire had been vacated there was another ring, an' the opener found himself again in conversation with the same old man. This time it was a request that he come to Boston at once, hiring a special train if necessary. "I can't come," he answered. "There's too much to do here in office hours. I'll take the regular train Sunday." Argument was of no avail and the Boston bankers had to wait. The combination was lost on Wednesday, and for the next four days they had to borrow all the cash they needed from their companies. The inconveniences they entered by reason of inaccessible papers may be imagined. This did not worry the expert, however, for he knew that nobody else could do his place as well as he, so there was no danger of his being discharged. He had been with the safe concern for a great many years, and his imperturbability was not to be upset by a trust company's temporary troubles. He left the office at the usual time every day, had his dinner at home and slept just as easily during those four days as he had during the rest of his life. "Why didn't I go? The idea! Do you know there are six or eight banks that lose their figures every day? It were better to leave one of them in a lurch for four days than to have them all in trouble for one day."

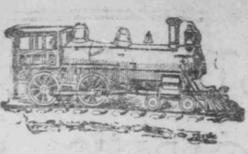

dent's gone home, and the cashier's sick. I'm Mr. — Give me the figures, please. "The opener satisfies himself that the right man is on the other end. Then he looks up his records, if he does not happen to remember the figures wanted. It is only a matter of a few minutes before he is back at the phone and in as many more minutes the vault in Philadelphia is opened. It happened the other day that a Boston trust company was in trouble about its combination. The safe concern was called up, and the lock expert was summoned to the receiver. The usual request followed, but by some chance the opener's good memory had forsaken him, and he had no record of the particular lock in question. The Boston officials swore loudly over the wire. It was no use, though, and finally they had to give up. "Not long after the wire had been vacated there was another ring, and the opener found himself again in conversation with the same old man. This time it was a request that he come to Boston at once, hiring a special train if necessary. "I can't come," he answered. "There's too much to do here in office hours. I'll take the regular train Sunday." Argument was of no avail and the Boston bankers had to wait. The combination was lost on Wednesday, and for the next four days they had to borrow all the cash they needed from their companies. The inconveniences they entered by reason of inaccessible papers may be imagined. This did not worry the expert, however, for he knew that nobody else could do his place as well as he, so there was no danger of his being discharged. He had been with the safe concern for a great many years, and his imperturbability was not to be upset by a trust company's temporary troubles. He left the office at the usual time every day, had his dinner at home and slept just as easily during those four days as he had during the rest of his life. "Why didn't I go? The idea! Do you know there are six or eight banks that lose their figures every day? It were better to leave one of them in a lurch for four days than to have them all in trouble for one day."

Announcement. We desire to inform the public that we have purchased the business and equipment of the printing and binding department of the Utah Lithographic company and have moved our plant and office to 113 South West Temple street. With increased facilities we are better equipped to handle all orders carefully and promptly, and your patronage is respectfully solicited. The F. Gardiner company, printers and book binders, 113 South West Temple street, Phone 249.

Between Whiffs. (J. R. Crawford in March Smart Set.) A philosopher is a man without feeling and without regard for the feelings of others. It is noticed that a large, round biscuit is generally an acceptable substitute. A maker of epigrams is one who seeks to clothe the wit of others in his own language. The result is sometimes called original. Beware of the man who prides himself on his fact of the woman who says she is logical. The former is dishonest and the latter never employs logic for any good end. A cynic is a man without ambition, since he sneers at things as they are, without helping to make them as they should be. A cynic is usually a man whose wife is a pessimist and whose best friend is an optimist. Genuses are absent-minded, whereas common people are absent-minded. Only a millionaire can risk giving his friend a poor cigar.

An Engineer's Fast Run. An engineer on one of the roads entering here, in speaking last night of fast runs said: "Although my machine is not the best, it is the best of its kind. The start of me and my machinery is no match for it. I have for years kept a bottle of Kemp's Balsam on my shelf, and when I get a cold or cough or get a start of this standard remedy it is indeed a 'cold day.' Price, 25c and 50c. For sale by Goodie-Pitts Drug company."

FOR THE EAST. DO NOT FAIL to be fully informed of the Quick Time and Fine Train Service of the Union Pacific to all principal Eastern Points. Palace Sleeping Cars, Dining Cars, Meals a la Carte, Free Reclining Chair Cars, Buffet Smoking and Library Cars, with Barber Shop and Pile-up Reading Rooms. For time tables, folders, illustrated booklets, pamphlets descriptive of the service, call on Ticket Office, 221 Main Street, Salt Lake City, or write to the General Agent, St. Louis, Mo. If you are going to Kansas City, St. Louis, Chicago, St. Paul, Denver, East or South, see that your ticket reads via Missouri Pacific Railway. The new Super-Truck makes this line the People's Favorite Route. The only line reaching Hot Springs, Arkansas, the Carlsbad of America. For maps, information, etc., call on or address: C. A. TRIPP, C. F. & P. A. 16 W. 2d Street, Salt Lake City, Utah. G. F. A. St. Louis, Mo.

THE DENVER & RIO GRANDE AND THE RIO GRANDE WESTERN

Table with columns: Current Time Table, In Effect JAN. 1, 1902, LEAVE SALT LAKE CITY. Lists train numbers and destinations like Provo, Ogden, and Park City.

Time Card. In Effect Nov. 3, 1901.

Table with columns: ARRIVE, DEPART, and various train routes and times.

THREE TRAINS DAILY FROM Utah and Wyoming

Advertisement for Burlington Route, featuring a logo and text about service to the East.

Advertisement for CACCO Great Rock Island Route, highlighting dining car service and equipment.

Advertisement for THE PRICE, a high-class and pure literature, with contact information for the publisher.

Advertisement for Every Woman, featuring a portrait of a woman and text about health and beauty products.

Advertisement for PENNYROYAL PILLS, describing its benefits for various ailments.

Table titled 'Delinquent Notice' listing names, shares, and amounts due for various companies.

Table titled 'Delinquent Notice' listing names, shares, and amounts due for various companies.

Advertisement for THE STOCKHOLDERS' MEETING of the Burlington Route, detailing the agenda and location.

Advertisement for St. Paul Fire & Marine Insurance Company, listing services and contact information.

Advertisement for THE PRICE, a high-class and pure literature, with contact information for the publisher.

Advertisement for State of Utah, Office of the Secretary, regarding the delinquent assessment of the State of Utah.

Advertisement for Frankfort Marine, Accident and Plate Glass Insurance Company.

Table titled 'Delinquent Notice' listing names, shares, and amounts due for various companies.

Table titled 'Delinquent Notice' listing names, shares, and amounts due for various companies.

Advertisement for THE STOCKHOLDERS' MEETING of the Burlington Route, detailing the agenda and location.

Advertisement for St. Paul Fire & Marine Insurance Company, listing services and contact information.

Advertisement for THE PRICE, a high-class and pure literature, with contact information for the publisher.

Advertisement for Stockholders' Special Meeting, regarding the annual meeting of the White Star Oil Company.

Advertisement for Frankfort Marine, Accident and Plate Glass Insurance Company.

Table titled 'Delinquent Notice' listing names, shares, and amounts due for various companies.

Table titled 'Delinquent Notice' listing names, shares, and amounts due for various companies.

Advertisement for THE STOCKHOLDERS' MEETING of the Burlington Route, detailing the agenda and location.

Advertisement for St. Paul Fire & Marine Insurance Company, listing services and contact information.

Advertisement for THE PRICE, a high-class and pure literature, with contact information for the publisher.