A Semicolon. One of the freaks of misplaced punctuation has been passed upon and disposed of by the supreme court of Massachusetts.

achusetts. The question came into the court upon the construction of what is known as the "semicolon" liquor law of that state.

of 12 at night and 5 in the morning, except in hotels, the same reading: "That no sale of spirituous or intoxicating liquor shall be made between the hours of 12 at night and 5 in the morning; nor during the Lord's day, except that, if the licensee is also licensed as an innholder, he may supply such liquor to guests who have resorted to his house for food or lodging."

regarded it may be resorted to as an aid in construction when it tends to throw light on the meaning. We are of opinion that the exception does not apply to sales made between the hours of 12 at night and 5 in the morning.

of the law was defeated by the misplaced semicolon, and the hotels were vitally affected by the construction of the law. A comma in the place of the semicolon, would have made all the difference in the world to the hotel keepers.
