

THE SALT LAKE HERALD

Published Every Day in the Year.

THE HERALD COMPANY.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION: DAILY AND SUNDAY. One month $1.00, Three months $2.50, One year $10.00.

Business Office Telephone, 257-2. Manager's Office Telephone, 257-3. Editorial Rooms Telephone, 271.

ASSAYING A GOLD BRICK.

SALT LAKE'S BICYCLE RIDERS now have a chance to assay the gold brick which was handed to them by the wily Mr. Lippman last fall a few days before the election.

In this instance the committee on municipal laws entertains a sudden and profound respect for the views of its constitutional adviser.

The city attorney advised the council that its proposition to raise the salary of Chief Devine and some of his men was unconstitutional.

SCHOOL BOOK CONTROVERSY.

THE HERALD is in receipt of a communication from Professor J. H. Paul, questioning the good faith of the committee which investigated the charge that publishers are charging this state extortionate prices for the books adopted as standard by the public schools.

It does not seem profitable to continue the discussion of the matter on either side. The books have been chosen by people who are regarded as honest, capable educators and officials familiar with the situation.

A WONDERFUL OPERATION.

SURGERY, the most delicate of all the sciences, because it deals with humanity's most valuable possession, has achieved another triumph.

THE PACIFIC CABLE.

IN DISCUSSING the Pacific cable question it is not necessary to point out the advantages of such a line. They are so well understood and so generally recognized that it may be taken for granted that the sentiment on this point is unanimous.

The chief argument which has been advanced against national ownership and control is that the United States has no right to interfere with private enterprise.

Society

One of the largest and most elaborate receptions given since the winter season was that of yesterday afternoon.

The Misses Laura and Eloise Sherman gave a delightful informal ping pong party last evening at which about thirty of their friends were entertained.

Miss Lena Preston entertained at an informal tea yesterday afternoon in honor of Miss Sadie McChrystal.

The Misses Laura and Eloise Sherman gave a delightful informal ping pong party last evening at which about thirty of their friends were entertained.

Miss Mary M. Jenkins and Everett E. Watrous, son of the well known attorney, H. R. Watrous, were married yesterday afternoon by Justice Kroeger.

Miss Mary C. May, who is making a trip through the states of the north in the interests of the kindergarten department of the University of Utah, has been warmly received in all of the cities she has visited.

Mrs. T. B. Beatty and daughter Virginia, who have been visiting in Utah for the past three months, will return Saturday.

Mrs. W. F. Neslen gave a party Wednesday afternoon in honor of Mrs. J. H. Keeley, who leaves on the 15th of the month for a trip to Europe.

Mrs. J. B. Cosgriff entertained at her home Wednesday afternoon for the benefit of the Altar society of St. Mary's church.

Miss Martha G. Walters, who has spent the past six weeks in New York, has returned to the city.

Miss Elizabeth Bain will spend her vacation at her home in Iowa.

Miss Louise Morris has gone to her home in California.

Mrs. Robert Gemmel will return from Mexico early in the week.

Miss Kathleen Anderson will be home from Ann Arbor today.

Mrs. Adolph Richter and Mrs. N. T. Johnson left on Wednesday for St. Paul.

Miss Jessie Colburn is visiting in the city.

Mrs. Peabody and Mrs. Nice, who have been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Peabody, left Wednesday for their home in Laramie.

Mr. Vic Wells entertained at a most delightful party Wednesday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jennings.

Mrs. William Jennings will entertain this evening.

Mrs. Helen given an informal party next Friday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wilkes are at home with Major and Mrs. Wilkes on Fifth East street.

Mr. John Van Brunt will be home shortly from Ouray, Colo.

Mr. Roscoe Reed will leave next week for a business trip to Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley W. Turner, who are visiting Judge and Mrs. Henderson, will leave Saturday for Chicago.

Mrs. Florence Reynolds will accompany them. Miss Reynolds will be missed by the many warm friends she has made during a year's stay in the city.

Miss Mary H. Wanless of 625 East First South has gone for a couple of months' trip in California.

Mrs. Jack Featherstone and daughter Lillian left yesterday for the coast for an outing during the summer months.

Mrs. Fred Coombs and Miss Helen Coombs of Aspen, Colo., are the guests of Mrs. Egbert Roberts.

The "Afternoon Social" was organized Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Jim Morgan with the following officers: Mrs. A. J. Swenson, president; Mrs. Samuel Dole, vice president; and Mrs. H. L. Nelson, secretary.

Society

Western yesterday afternoon for Chicago, where they will spend the summer vacation at the University of Chicago.

The Misses Cosgriff have returned to the city after a visit in the east and are at the Kenyon.

The Misses Edna and Sylvia Cohn are home from New York, where they have spent the winter studying.

SUTHERLAND'S SPEECH

Congressman George Sutherland, in his speech on the silver dollar bill, said that the silver dollar is the backbone of the monetary system.

I am compelled to differ with the distinguished gentleman from Connecticut (Mr. Hill), who is in charge of the pending bill, and for whose great ability and learning upon financial questions I have the utmost respect.

I am not opposed to that provision of the bill which contemplates an increase in the quantity of the subsidiary coinage.

The bill under consideration provides that silver bullion notes of the subsidiary coinage shall be used for the purpose of this subsidiary coinage, and provides, further, that when this bullion shall be exhausted, and that as public necessities may demand, there shall be authorized to coin the existing silver dollars into subsidiary coins.

What is the necessity for this proposed action? The advocates of the bill say that the existing gold coinage is overvalued.

Now, Mr. Chairman, the truth about it is that the silver dollars circulate precisely the same as the gold dollars.

When the gentleman from Iowa (Mr. Smith), who strongly advocates this bill, is asked why it is objectionable to circulate our silver in the form of silver certificates and not objectionable to circulate our gold in the form of gold certificates, he answers that there was no objection to circulating silver in the form of silver certificates.

In one breath it is urged that the silver dollar ought to be converted into something else because it does not circulate, and in another breath it is admitted that the silver dollar does circulate in the form of silver certificates, and there is no objection to this method of circulation.

Now, Mr. Chairman, it is conceded that if the present stock of silver bullion now in the treasury is utilized for subsidiary coinage purposes only, it will not be exhausted for at least six and possibly ten years.

Let us cross that bridge when we get to it. I am opposed to a declaration of this kind so long in advance of any practical necessity for it, because it is an unnecessary blow at one of the great and thriving industries of this country.

The value of silver has already declined to such an extent that many of the mines in the Rocky mountain region have been forced to close.

Let us not further discourage it by this declaration, which must be conceded by everybody to be entirely unnecessary now, whatever may be the fact as to the necessity of some time in the future.

The danger arising from the existence of too much poor money is not avoided by a provision which will re-

Society

Western yesterday afternoon for Chicago, where they will spend the summer vacation at the University of Chicago.

The Misses Cosgriff have returned to the city after a visit in the east and are at the Kenyon.

The Misses Edna and Sylvia Cohn are home from New York, where they have spent the winter studying.

SUTHERLAND'S SPEECH

Congressman George Sutherland, in his speech on the silver dollar bill, said that the silver dollar is the backbone of the monetary system.

I am compelled to differ with the distinguished gentleman from Connecticut (Mr. Hill), who is in charge of the pending bill, and for whose great ability and learning upon financial questions I have the utmost respect.

I am not opposed to that provision of the bill which contemplates an increase in the quantity of the subsidiary coinage.

The bill under consideration provides that silver bullion notes of the subsidiary coinage shall be used for the purpose of this subsidiary coinage, and provides, further, that when this bullion shall be exhausted, and that as public necessities may demand, there shall be authorized to coin the existing silver dollars into subsidiary coins.

What is the necessity for this proposed action? The advocates of the bill say that the existing gold coinage is overvalued.

Now, Mr. Chairman, the truth about it is that the silver dollars circulate precisely the same as the gold dollars.

When the gentleman from Iowa (Mr. Smith), who strongly advocates this bill, is asked why it is objectionable to circulate our silver in the form of silver certificates and not objectionable to circulate our gold in the form of gold certificates, he answers that there was no objection to circulating silver in the form of silver certificates.

In one breath it is urged that the silver dollar ought to be converted into something else because it does not circulate, and in another breath it is admitted that the silver dollar does circulate in the form of silver certificates, and there is no objection to this method of circulation.

Now, Mr. Chairman, it is conceded that if the present stock of silver bullion now in the treasury is utilized for subsidiary coinage purposes only, it will not be exhausted for at least six and possibly ten years.

Let us cross that bridge when we get to it. I am opposed to a declaration of this kind so long in advance of any practical necessity for it, because it is an unnecessary blow at one of the great and thriving industries of this country.

The value of silver has already declined to such an extent that many of the mines in the Rocky mountain region have been forced to close.

Let us not further discourage it by this declaration, which must be conceded by everybody to be entirely unnecessary now, whatever may be the fact as to the necessity of some time in the future.

The danger arising from the existence of too much poor money is not avoided by a provision which will re-

Society

Western yesterday afternoon for Chicago, where they will spend the summer vacation at the University of Chicago.

The Misses Cosgriff have returned to the city after a visit in the east and are at the Kenyon.

The Misses Edna and Sylvia Cohn are home from New York, where they have spent the winter studying.

SUTHERLAND'S SPEECH

Congressman George Sutherland, in his speech on the silver dollar bill, said that the silver dollar is the backbone of the monetary system.

I am compelled to differ with the distinguished gentleman from Connecticut (Mr. Hill), who is in charge of the pending bill, and for whose great ability and learning upon financial questions I have the utmost respect.

I am not opposed to that provision of the bill which contemplates an increase in the quantity of the subsidiary coinage.

The bill under consideration provides that silver bullion notes of the subsidiary coinage shall be used for the purpose of this subsidiary coinage, and provides, further, that when this bullion shall be exhausted, and that as public necessities may demand, there shall be authorized to coin the existing silver dollars into subsidiary coins.

What is the necessity for this proposed action? The advocates of the bill say that the existing gold coinage is overvalued.

Now, Mr. Chairman, the truth about it is that the silver dollars circulate precisely the same as the gold dollars.

When the gentleman from Iowa (Mr. Smith), who strongly advocates this bill, is asked why it is objectionable to circulate our silver in the form of silver certificates and not objectionable to circulate our gold in the form of gold certificates, he answers that there was no objection to circulating silver in the form of silver certificates.

In one breath it is urged that the silver dollar ought to be converted into something else because it does not circulate, and in another breath it is admitted that the silver dollar does circulate in the form of silver certificates, and there is no objection to this method of circulation.

Now, Mr. Chairman, it is conceded that if the present stock of silver bullion now in the treasury is utilized for subsidiary coinage purposes only, it will not be exhausted for at least six and possibly ten years.

Let us cross that bridge when we get to it. I am opposed to a declaration of this kind so long in advance of any practical necessity for it, because it is an unnecessary blow at one of the great and thriving industries of this country.

The value of silver has already declined to such an extent that many of the mines in the Rocky mountain region have been forced to close.

Let us not further discourage it by this declaration, which must be conceded by everybody to be entirely unnecessary now, whatever may be the fact as to the necessity of some time in the future.

The danger arising from the existence of too much poor money is not avoided by a provision which will re-

Society

Western yesterday afternoon for Chicago, where they will spend the summer vacation at the University of Chicago.

The Misses Cosgriff have returned to the city after a visit in the east and are at the Kenyon.

The Misses Edna and Sylvia Cohn are home from New York, where they have spent the winter studying.

SUTHERLAND'S SPEECH

Congressman George Sutherland, in his speech on the silver dollar bill, said that the silver dollar is the backbone of the monetary system.

I am compelled to differ with the distinguished gentleman from Connecticut (Mr. Hill), who is in charge of the pending bill, and for whose great ability and learning upon financial questions I have the utmost respect.

I am not opposed to that provision of the bill which contemplates an increase in the quantity of the subsidiary coinage.

The bill under consideration provides that silver bullion notes of the subsidiary coinage shall be used for the purpose of this subsidiary coinage, and provides, further, that when this bullion shall be exhausted, and that as public necessities may demand, there shall be authorized to coin the existing silver dollars into subsidiary coins.

What is the necessity for this proposed action? The advocates of the bill say that the existing gold coinage is overvalued.

Now, Mr. Chairman, the truth about it is that the silver dollars circulate precisely the same as the gold dollars.

When the gentleman from Iowa (Mr. Smith), who strongly advocates this bill, is asked why it is objectionable to circulate our silver in the form of silver certificates and not objectionable to circulate our gold in the form of gold certificates, he answers that there was no objection to circulating silver in the form of silver certificates.

In one breath it is urged that the silver dollar ought to be converted into something else because it does not circulate, and in another breath it is admitted that the silver dollar does circulate in the form of silver certificates, and there is no objection to this method of circulation.

Now, Mr. Chairman, it is conceded that if the present stock of silver bullion now in the treasury is utilized for subsidiary coinage purposes only, it will not be exhausted for at least six and possibly ten years.

Let us cross that bridge when we get to it. I am opposed to a declaration of this kind so long in advance of any practical necessity for it, because it is an unnecessary blow at one of the great and thriving industries of this country.

The value of silver has already declined to such an extent that many of the mines in the Rocky mountain region have been forced to close.

Let us not further discourage it by this declaration, which must be conceded by everybody to be entirely unnecessary now, whatever may be the fact as to the necessity of some time in the future.

The danger arising from the existence of too much poor money is not avoided by a provision which will re-

Society

Western yesterday afternoon for Chicago, where they will spend the summer vacation at the University of Chicago.

The Misses Cosgriff have returned to the city after a visit in the east and are at the Kenyon.

The Misses Edna and Sylvia Cohn are home from New York, where they have spent the winter studying.

SUTHERLAND'S SPEECH

Congressman George Sutherland, in his speech on the silver dollar bill, said that the silver dollar is the backbone of the monetary system.

I am compelled to differ with the distinguished gentleman from Connecticut (Mr. Hill), who is in charge of the pending bill, and for whose great ability and learning upon financial questions I have the utmost respect.

I am not opposed to that provision of the bill which contemplates an increase in the quantity of the subsidiary coinage.

The bill under consideration provides that silver bullion notes of the subsidiary coinage shall be used for the purpose of this subsidiary coinage, and provides, further, that when this bullion shall be exhausted, and that as public necessities may demand, there shall be authorized to coin the existing silver dollars into subsidiary coins.

What is the necessity for this proposed action? The advocates of the bill say that the existing gold coinage is overvalued.

Now, Mr. Chairman, the truth about it is that the silver dollars circulate precisely the same as the gold dollars.

When the gentleman from Iowa (Mr. Smith), who strongly advocates this bill, is asked why it is objectionable to circulate our silver in the form of silver certificates and not objectionable to circulate our gold in the form of gold certificates, he answers that there was no objection to circulating silver in the form of silver certificates.

In one breath it is urged that the silver dollar ought to be converted into something else because it does not circulate, and in another breath it is admitted that the silver dollar does circulate in the form of silver certificates, and there is no objection to this method of circulation.

Now, Mr. Chairman, it is conceded that if the present stock of silver bullion now in the treasury is utilized for subsidiary coinage purposes only, it will not be exhausted for at least six and possibly ten years.

Let us cross that bridge when we get to it. I am opposed to a declaration of this kind so long in advance of any practical necessity for it, because it is an unnecessary blow at one of the great and thriving industries of this country.

The value of silver has already declined to such an extent that many of the mines in the Rocky mountain region have been forced to close.

Let us not further discourage it by this declaration, which must be conceded by everybody to be entirely unnecessary now, whatever may be the fact as to the necessity of some time in the future.

The danger arising from the existence of too much poor money is not avoided by a provision which will re-

U. S. DEPOSITORY. Deseret National Bank. Salt Lake City, Utah. CAPITAL $500,000 SURPLUS $250,000

Safety Deposit Boxes for Rent. WALKER BROTHERS, BANKERS. Salt Lake City, Utah. ESTABLISHED 1858.

A General Banking Business Transacted. Wells, Fargo & Co's BANK. SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH. (Established 1851).

Transacts a General Banking Business. J. E. DOOLY, Cashier.

The State Bank of Utah. Corner Main and South Temple Streets, Salt Lake City.

General Banking Business. Accounts Solicited. Special attention to country trade. Correspondence invited.

National Bank of The Republic. U. S. DEPOSITORY. Frank Knox, President. George A. Lowe, Vice President.

McGonick & Co. BANKERS. SALT LAKE CITY. (Established 1853). Transact a General Banking Business.

Deseret Savings Bank. DIRECTORS: W. W. Ritter, President. Moses Thatcher, Vice President.

Commercial National Bank. Capital Paid in, $200,000. General Banking in All Its Branches.

E. M. FRIEDMAN & CO., 145 Main St., Progress Bldg. Complete Stock of MEN'S CLOTHING AND HATS, FURNISHING GOODS, BOYS' and CHILDREN'S SUITS

Dr. J. B. KEYSOR, DENTAL PARLORS, 365 S. MAIN ST. Good Set of Teeth for $8.00

Saltair Beach. Leave Salt Lake. Arrive Salt Lake. 10:30 a. m. 1:30 p. m. 2:20 p. m. 4:50 p. m. 6:20 p. m. 9:00 p. m. 7:40 p. m. 11:00 p. m. Last train Sundays.

Set of Teeth $5. Dr. West, Dentist. Dental work at greatly reduced prices. Will until July 1st do all classes of SET OF TEETH $5.00.

Johnson's Photos. Correct in POST LIGHTING and FINISHING. Professional in every respect. The Johnson Co., C. E. Johnson Supt. 654 W. Temple, Salt Lake, Utah.

DENVER & RIO GRANDE AND THE RIO GRANDE WESTERN. Current Time Table. In Effect April 2, 1902. LEAVE SALT LAKE CITY.

Time Table In Effect April 1, 1902. OREGON SHORT LINE RAILROAD. From Ogden, Portland, Butte, Chicago, St. Louis, Omaha, Denver and San Francisco.

THE OVERLAND LIMITED. VIA UNION PACIFIC. THIS IS THE FINEST TRAIN RUNNING and makes MANY HOURS QUICKER TIME between WYOMING and UTAH POINTS and all Principal Eastern Points.

Burlington Route. THEY'RE STAYERS. Persons who go east on the Burlington become permanent patrons.

General Agent. No. 79 W. Second South St. SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH.

STORAGE, MOVING. Tel. 355. Office 15 W. Second South.