

HOW SALT LAKE WOMAN CONVENTION

Shrewd Work to Secure the Elks' Reunion.

EASTERERS WERE FOOLED

SHIPPING TAGS WERE USED TO ADVERTISE ZION.

THERE is an old saying to the effect that the ways of the heathen Chinese are strange, but they do not compare with the ways and means used by the Salt Lake boys who went to Milwaukee last year and captured the 1902 Elks' grand lodge and reunion.

Murder will out, they say, and truth, crushed to earth, will bob up again. And so it was with the ways of the delegation which went to the beer city. They are too good to remain untraced, and were leaked out by degrees. The main facts may be a little disguised, but they are a little enlarged upon, but that does not detract one bit from the story.

Only Five Elks Start.

The day set for the departure to Milwaukee arrived. Instead of there being 100 Elks at the depot when the train got ready to pull out, there were but five. That did not bother the convention getters half so much as did the fact that in the baggage car there was no elk in a big crate.

When Provo was reached a telegram was sent to the Elks in Ottumwa, Ia., that the elk was aboard, and so far was standing the trip well. A big reunion had been planned for the Salt Lake boys and their four-footed companion, in honor of A. E. Lyon of this city, who formerly lived in that town.

A few miles further on a message was sent to Iowa that the elk was showing signs of illness; that the pace set was too swift for him—not the pace of the five hipeds, but the train. An hour or two later the elk grew worse; so bad, in fact, that the Iowa boys were informed that a veterinary surgeon had been telegraphed ahead to meet the train at another station.

The next telegram sent said the surgeon had pronounced the condition of the elk very serious, but would stay on the train, watch him and combat each new symptom in hopes of fixing him up so that he could stand the rest of the journey. In the meantime the Iowa boys took all the hopes out of the Iowa boys, for the elk grew worse and worse, and when Grand Junction was reached was taken from the baggage car and sent back to a room in the convention train, accompanied by the surgeon and a number of the boys who had anticipated going to Milwaukee, but felt more apprehensive for the elk's welfare than they did for a room in the convention train. The sending back of a number of the boys accounted for a few of the alleged 100.

News of Sick Elk.

As the Salt Lake bound train sped toward the setting sun, telegrams were sent from each depot to the one running in the other direction, telling the five Elks as to the condition of the poor animal. When Salt Lake was reached a message sent from the Rio Grande Western depot said the elk arrived in Salt Lake, but was above all, his safe arrival at the park and signs of improvement was the last one received relative to the animal which was never received so much attention in Milwaukee.

As the Zion boys passed through Colorado they were met at the different depots by delegations who wondered at the small size of the Zion contingent. That was easily explained by the statement that the rest of the boys went around the other way. But when Iowa was reached there was no excuse forthcoming, and the boys had to tell the truth about the small size of the party. But when it came to accounting for the missing elk, the telegrams sent on before and those telling of the elk's back to Salt Lake did the business; they worked like a charm.

While it is possible to fool all the people some of the time, they can't be fooled all the time. The Salt Lake boys appreciated the fact, and they said that "they went around the other way" story would not wash in Milwaukee, so they decided to make up their delirium with Iowa Elks. Twenty-eight were secured who were willing to wear Utah uniforms and fall in behind the faithful five in the Elks' day parade. Their services were secured by being furnished a uniform free gratis for nothing. And so when the Salt Lake boys reached Milwaukee they numbered thirty-three instead of five, which was "not so worse," as they whispered to themselves.

Stampede For Salt Lake.

And the beer drinkers on the shores of Lake Michigan are none the wiser today as to how they were fooled by the Salt Lake delegation.

How to stampede the city for Salt Lake for the 1902 convention was easily learned in the room of Secretary Raynes at the hotel. Headquarters were established in the room of Secretary Raynes at the hotel. A delegation of the five Salt Lake boys visited a printing establishment where tens of thousands of ordinary shipping tags were bought and instructions given to print certain words on both sides. Then fifty boys were secured.

The Boss Worm Medicine.

H. P. Kumpa, druggist, Leighton, Ark., writes: "One of my customers had a child, who was sick, and threw up all food, could retain nothing on its stomach. He bought one bottle of White's Cream Vermifuge, and it brought the worms from the child. It's the boss worm medicine in the world." White's Cream Vermifuge is also the children's tonic. It improves the digestion and assimilation of food, strengthens their nervous system and restores them to the health, vigor and elasticity of spirits natural to childhood. 25c, at Z. C. M. I.

KOKO, SALT LAKE'S QUEEREST BABY

REMAINS FOUND OF MAN EVIDENTLY KILLED BY INDIANS YEARS AGO EAST OF VERNAL.

HEREWITH is presented a picture of the queerest baby ever brought to Salt Lake. Indeed, nothing like it has ever been brought to this country before. This remarkable Simian, Koko, by name, is 18 months old, and just about as helpless as a child of that age. It was born in the interior of Borneo, where the justly celebrated wild man came from. Koko's mother was nearly seven feet tall, and weighed 450 pounds. She was shot when Koko was captured.

It must be understood that Koko is no ordinary monkey. It is a red-haired gorilla, the only one of its kind that ever reached these shores alive. A Chinese sailor made this possible by allowing Koko to share his berth on the voyage from Hongkong to Seattle, and so keeping the infant warm at night. He got $30 for his trouble.

Koko is the property of J. K. Wilson, who has a large collection of pets. Mr. Wilson paid $1,400 for his latest acquisition. It is needless to say that Koko gets more care than many children. Its appetite is satisfied constantly, and it is tempted by every delicacy imaginable. Mr. Wilson hopes to raise Koko to adult gorillahood.

Her husband, Mr. Nuttall, died Dec. 25, 1886, and has been a devoted wife and mother and was prominent in the church work of the city. She leaves five sons, and numerous grandchildren and other relatives are left to mourn her death.

Supreme Court Hands Down Opinion in Water Suit.

The supreme court, by opinions handed down by each of the three justices, in the case of the Herriman Irrigation company, appellant, versus the Butterfield Mining company, its receiver, George W. Keel, et al., respondents, yesterday rendered its decision and directed the lower court to modify its decree.

The suit was one brought by the Herriman Irrigation company to restrain the defendants from diverting water from the Butterfield creek, which the plaintiff claimed by a prior right, and the lower court awarded defendant $3 per cent on the water, allowing 17 per cent for seepage and waste.

This judgment the supreme court directed to be modified, that the defendant receive 30 per cent of the water, less 8 per cent for seepage and waste. Chief Justice Miner and Justice Barch, in separate opinions, concur in the modification, but Justice Baskin, in a lengthy opinion, affirms the verdict of the lower court, on the ground that there were no reversible errors committed at the trial.

Will Hold No Court.

Judge Stewart of the district court, who will leave tomorrow morning to spend a three weeks' vacation in the home and a drug store of the deceased, announces that he will hold no further court until about Aug. 31. District Judge Morse is shortly expected to return from Kansas, where he is visiting. He will again hold court Aug. 4.

Will Admitted to Probate.

The will of Daniel Tungren, recently deceased, was yesterday admitted to probate in the district court and letters of administration granted to the sister of the deceased, Marianna Hagren. The estate, which is valued at $3,500, is composed of personal property in the sum of $5,000 and real estate valued at $4,500. According to the will, the administratrix is granted the home and a drug store of the deceased. The rest of the property is divided equally among the two sisters and two brothers of the deceased.

MANY AERIAL ARTISTS

This Feature of Ringling Brothers' Shows Better Than Ever This Year.

The modern aerial tendency has been to present as large a portion of an exhibition as possible in mid-air, and when the great size of the hippodrome used by such a circus as Ringling Brothers' World's Greatest Shows is brought to mind, the wisdom of this innovation is apparent. The popularity of the high-class aerial act is due not alone to the fact that it represents the very highest order of fearless skill and agility. The fact that it can be plainly seen from all parts of the vast amphitheatre adds greatly to the favor in which it is held.

In the line of high-air performances there have been many notable advances in recent years. In this particular branch of aerial endeavor Europe has been somewhat in advance of the United States. With this fact in mind, Ringling brothers, whose big combined circus, menagerie and hippodrome exhibit in Salt Lake City Wednesday, Aug. 6, have secured an unusual number of foreign aerialists for the present tour, and something very unusual in the way of mid-air acts may be looked for.

The company of aerialists embraces sixty clever artists. Many of them are new to this country, but they have made a pronounced hit in the eastern cities during the present tour. The Dunbar trio, who head the roster, present the very highest form of aerial gymnastics. The Danvards introduce startling novelties in mid-air acrobatics during the present tour. These are but a few of the modern trapeze act. The Ty Dell sisters, drawn to the dome of the great amphitheatre, spin like human tops, high, suspended by the ends of the aerial cable; the imperial Japanese troupe introduces the latest novelties in Oriental high-air entertainments, and the great Holloway, Aug. 6, has secured an unusual number of foreign aerialists for the present tour, and something very unusual in the way of mid-air acts may be looked for.

County Convention Called For Re-organization of County Committee.

Manti, July 19.—A Republican county convention for the purpose of reorganizing the county committee was called for Aug. 8 at 2 o'clock p. m. in the county court house of this city. Seventy-three delegates from all parts of the county are expected to be present. The business of the convention will be to select delegates to the state convention and to name a county chairman for the coming political battle. There has been some discussion as to whether the next chairman should be, but nothing of a definite nature has so far been given.

Several of the delegates have been named. Mr. Alder for the state assembly, Mr. Manti correspondent will state this. Mr. Alder has announced through the Republican organ that he was not a candidate for the position of county chairman, but that he would accept the nomination—which is an assured fact that they will not do.

PEDAGOGUES GO HOME.

The Central Summer School Closes Its Sessions.

Mr. Pleasant, July 19.—The Central Utah Summer school, which has been in session in this city for the past five weeks, closed this morning and the pedagogues left for their various homes.

There was at one meeting held this morning and with a corps of competent instructors, most excellent work has been done. Nothing definite has been decided yet regarding a school for next season, but should one be held, which is quite likely, it will doubtless be located at Nevelly, near the city of Monroe, this county.

Although the grasshoppers are reported to be doing a little damage in the county, the reports from the southern part of Sanpete, the reports from the north, and the reports from the west, are generally very encouraging. The stubborn fight which has been waged so long against the pest, has apparently had the desired result and they have ceased to be even a threatened pest. Of course, there are large numbers of them yet; much damage has already been done, and some more is certain to be done, but the pest is being driven approaching the wholesale invasion of the country which was threatened in the early spring is now out of the question. This means that Sanpete will have as good crops this fall as it has seen in years.

Dr. C. McCougan, dentist, who left here in the spring and went to Washington to attend to his dental education, has returned to his home in the north, and has already organized the employees of fifteen gold and silver smelters in California and Colorado. The work of organizing is still in progress.
