The Next Convention. As to where the convention will go next year there is no definite opinion. A number of eastern cities are represented by delegates that will make strong bids for the meeting.

Among the men who will play an important part in the present convention are a number who are not only prominent in the I. B. E. W., but who are of national reputation as labor advocates and leaders.

Deserted Her Child. Infants Abandoned by Its Mother Finds Its Way to the Police Station.

A baby boy about 6 months old was brought to police headquarters by an unknown woman yesterday afternoon, who declared that the mother of the child had deserted her infant and disappeared. According to the story told the police, a woman giving the name of Mrs. Edward Joseph, who claimed to be the mother of the child, had left the babe to be taken care of for a few weeks. It was agreed that the mother should call last Saturday and pay for the child's board, but this far she has failed to put in an appearance.

Yesterday the woman who was left in charge of the child called on the police station with the baby and asked the chief to take charge of it. Captain Burbridge very willingly volunteered to find a home for the little one in case his mother should not return, and for several hours yesterday afternoon Captain Burbridge did a floor walking story that could not fail to satisfy even the most exacting infant.

Mrs. Stickey, president of the Children's Home Finding association, finally took charge of the child, much to the relief of Captain Burbridge, and will keep the little one until its mother shall return or will find the child a home with some family.

TYPHOID FEVER DECREASING Only Six Additional Cases Reported For Sunday and Monday.

There was a decided falling off in the number of new typhoid cases on Sunday and Monday, the total for the two days being six, the same number as was reported for Saturday. Two of the new cases should not be attributed to Salt Lake City, as the patients, who are now at St. Mark's hospital, are men who reside in Idaho and have only been in the city but a few days, not sufficiently long to have contracted the disease here. They make four cases of typhoid which have developed in this city and were contracted in that northern state.

The six cases reported yesterday were: D. McMonigal, aged 22, 577 South Main street; Peter Hanson, 19, 263 West First North; Ella Lundgreen, resident of South Third East; Miss Clara Gydiner, 25, 128 South Eleventh East street; A. M. Peterson, at St. Mark's hospital, resides at Pocatello, Ida.; B. C. Kelley, 25, at St. Mark's hospital, resides at Pocatello, Ida.

Grand Officers International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

J. L. COOK OF SAN FRANCISCO

J. L. Cook, representative of the San Francisco local union, is an old resident of Utah. He formerly lived in Ogden, and was a lawyer who was well known in the state. He studied for the bar and was admitted to practice in the supreme court of the state. After remaining in his chosen profession for some time he went to Alaska when the great gold strike caused every one who could to rush to the ice covered country of the north. While in that country he wrote numerous interesting letters on conditions there. These were published in The Salt Lake Herald. Mr. Cook lost his health while in the cold country and was forced to leave there in a bad condition physically. He then went to California where he has made his home since. He was forced to give up his law practice on account of his health and then took up the electrical business. This trade he has followed since that time.

In his state and is looked upon as one of the most prominent labor advocates in the brotherhood.

Oldest Living Member. First Vice President F. E. Lockman is the oldest living member of the original Electric Workmen and Locomotive Union which was absorbed by the I. B. E. W. when the latter was organized. He has been prominent in labor circles for years.

Second Vice President H. J. Hurd was born in Canada and has been active in the labor work of that country. He was for some time connected with the electrical workers of the United States, but moved back to Canada and has followed the electrical trade in that country since.

Third Vice President J. J. Reynolds has been in the electrical business for twenty-two years past. He has been an active worker in electrical circles and is a popular man among his associates.

Fourth Vice President Charles Eaton is of Seattle, where he holds a responsible position with a big electrical corporation. He has been in this business for years and is considered a most competent man.

Fifth Vice President J. F. Buckley is of Salt Lake City. He has for some time past been in charge of the transformer station of the Utah Light & Power company at Murray. He has been very prominent here in electrical circles and has been at the head of all movements looking toward the improvement of the organization of which he is a high official. Got Convention Here. To Mr. Buckley is attributed the success of securing the I. B. E. W. convention for this city. He and his associates of the local unions have worked hard to make the convention a success and their efforts have been most pleasing in results.

Sixth Vice President E. J. McNulty entered the electrical business in New York. He was a charter member of the Newark local, and was first vice president of the New Jersey Federation of Labor, also president of the Building Trades Council of Newark.

Among other prominent labor men present is J. H. Maloney, president of the National Building Trades Council and president of the Chicago Board of Business Agents. Born at Green Castle in 1861, he became a telegraph lineman in 1878.

E. P. Steen is an electrical worker of years' experience. He has devoted much time to the study of economics and is a strong advocate of industrial democracy.

shoulders. The change in the constitution is, of course, the matter of prime importance, and to form a new charter that will please everyone concerned will be no mean task.

Visitors Are Welcomed. The Emporium hall presented a striking sight yesterday morning when the convention was called to order by Grand President W. A. Jackson. The hall was elaborately decorated with electric lights and it was filled to its utmost capacity with electrical workers.

The programme was opened with an address of welcome on behalf of the city by Councilman J. S. Daveler. Mr. Daveler in a brief address extended a most hearty welcome to the visitors and assured them the hospitality and support of the union men of Zion. He spoke briefly of the purposes and aims of unionism and referred particularly to the growth and attainments of the Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

President Jackson of the convention replied in a neat speech of acceptance, in which he thanked Salt Lake City and the members of the local lodges for the reception they had been tendered and the efforts that are being made to make them enjoy their stay in this city. He spoke of what the electrical workers hoped to accomplish in their meeting and what such an organization means to the laboring man who follows the electrical trade.

Cook's Speech Made a Hit. At the close of this address J. L. Cook, a worker of the Pacific coast and representative of local union No. 5 of San Francisco, stepped to the stand and delivered a welcome to the convention on behalf of the locals of the Pacific coast. His address was brief and to the point and made the hit of the morning. He was cheered repeatedly. After extending a welcome and paying a high tribute to Salt Lake City and the members of the local unions here he proceeded in part as follows:

"To those of you who are single, we feel that you have met your Waterloo. You will want at least one wife here. You married men, beware; I see the look in your eyes. We allow only one wife here now. We welcome you here and some time we will ask you to come further west. We will welcome you there as we welcome you here, with the firm conviction that your labors will be for the unification of ideas and strength of purpose in the electrical trade."

Committees to look after the various lines of work of the convention will commence. A committee to revise the constitution, another to take nominations of the grand lodge, and another to recommend the next place of meeting will be appointed. The work of these bodies will not be completed for several days.

In the election of officers there promises to be a lively fight. There are a
