

WADE DECLARED TO BE "NOT GUILTY"

Jury Frees Him From Charge of Murder.

CHINESE ARE DISAPPOINTED

ANXIOUS TO AVENGE SLAYING OF COUNTRYMAN.

"Not guilty," was the verdict of the jury which tried James H. Wade for murder in the first degree for shooting and killing Lee Yoo, the Chinese cook at the Alta-Quincy mine, near Alta, Dec. 19, 1902. The first thing Wade did after being released from custody was to borrow enough money from a friend to telegraph his mother, who lives in Montana, that he had been acquitted of the charge of murder.

CHINAMAN ARRESTED

Most of the spectators in the courtroom at the time the verdict was read were Chinese. They had remained around the building all afternoon, impatiently awaiting for the jury to agree. When they were told that the twelve men had decided that Wade was not guilty of murder, that he was justified in killing one of their countrymen, their faces fell, and many vicious glances were directed towards the defendant, who was then receiving congratulations from those who chose to do so.

The Chinese were visibly disappointed, for they had raised considerable money to employ special counsel in hope of convicting Wade. They even went so far as to interest their consuls at San Francisco. Through him Attorney E. B. Critchlow was employed to assist District Attorney Benner N. Smith in the prosecution. The deceased was a Chinese Mason, and that order took an interest in the prosecution.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE DAY

The first part of the morning session of the court was devoted to the closing arguments for the prosecution, made by the district attorney. When he had concluded, Judge Charles W. Morse, who tried the case, charged the jury and the men retired.

Few of the Chinamen and Chinese women who were present when the jury retired, left the building until after the verdict had been announced. Two or three went out about noon, and brought down the building for those who did not want to leave the building for fear of not being present when the jury came out.

While waiting for the jury Chinamen made a minute inspection of the third and fourth floors of the building, not daring to venture any further away from Judge Morse's court room. Their lunch was eaten sitting on the steps leading from the third to the fourth floors. When they had gotten through, every crumb was cleaned up as neatly as possible, not a sign remaining that men and women had eaten a meal there.

SCRIBES ARRIVE TODAY

Idaho Editors to be Entertained—On Way to World's Fair.

Members of the Idaho State Press association, who are on their way to the World's fair, will arrive in Salt Lake City at 8:30 o'clock this morning in a special car. At the depot they will be received by local newspaper men, who have arranged for their entertainment while in the city. The party will consist of about thirty members.

Through the courtesy of Manager Jeremiah E. Langford of the Salt Lake & Los Angeles, a special car will be attached to the 10 o'clock train and taken to Saltair pavilion. The party will return at noon. Here they will board the "Newspaper City" car, which will be placed at their disposal, and will make a tour of the city.

The editors will be entertained at a luncheon at 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon at the Commercial Club rooms, where they will be the guests of the Commercial club, the Press club and the Utah State Press association. They will leave for the east this evening.

MAHON IS COMING

Head of Street Car Union Due Saturday.

W. D. Mahon of Detroit, president of the Amalgamated Street and Electric Railway Employees of America, is expected in the city Saturday. Arrangements have been made for a meeting of all the street car men at 1 o'clock Sunday morning at Federation of Labor hall. President Mahon will address the meeting. He is on his way east from San Francisco.

A reception committee will be appointed by the street car men to receive the union president at the depot. A committee secured a suite of rooms at the Wilson hotel yesterday and everything has been placed in readiness for President Mahon's arrival.

RECEIVES SHOCK, MORE WARRANTS IN SEWER CASES

William A. Fording, Lineman, Has Double Escape.

HELP SLOW TO ARRIVE

INJURED MAN WAITS LONG FOR THE LEISURELY.

William A. Fording, aged 23 years, a lineman in the employ of the Bell Telephone company, had a double narrow escape from death yesterday afternoon, while assisting in the stringing of wires south along Second East street, between Fourth and Fifth South streets. While working on the top of a pole he received an electric shock which rendered him unconscious, and he fell to the ground, a distance of about forty feet.

For more than an hour ineffectual attempts were made to secure a physician for the injured man, but without avail. Had the members of the crew with whom Fording was working not known how to treat a man who had received an electric shock, he would have died.

A state employee in the joint building saw the accident. He surmised that Fording had received a shock through short circuit of the wire, and he called the police station, stating the facts, and asking for a physician and a stretcher. It was twenty-eight minutes later that the police patrol responded, minus a physician or stretcher, but containing two policemen.

Hard to Get Help.

At one time nearly every telephone in the city and county building was in service, ringing up doctor's offices and residences besides other telephones in the immediate vicinity, but no help came for more than two hours. In the meantime the man had been removed to a drug store, in hope of getting him some relief there and saving his life.

Even the officials of the telephone office failed to respond with the request for medical help, although several messages were sent to the head office, including the general manager. At the time of the accident, Fording, who is a married man and had been in the employ of the company but a short time, was on top of a pole directly opposite the east entrance to the city and county building. He was assisting in stringing of a wire along East street. It had a slack almost a block long, extending across Fourth South street, along which the electric cars run.

While working the wire the slack fell and came into contact with the short circuit poles. Instantly a short circuit was formed with Fording's body as the connecting link. A tiny blue flame was seen to surround the two hands of the man, and his body became perfectly rigid. The workmen saw what had happened, and frantic efforts were made to pull up the slack and break the circuit. Before that could be done Fording released his hold upon the slack wire and in an unconscious condition fell backward from the top of the pole. Twice his body turned a somersault as it descended, the man striking the ground at the foot of the pole on his chest and stomach.

Work Over Injured Man.

When picked up Fording was apparently dead. He was carried to the grass plot on the side of the street and efforts to revive him were begun. While one man held Fording's body up from the ground by standing over him and grasping him around the stomach, a second held his head. Four other men worked his arms and legs as is done in resuscitating a drowning man.

Dr. C. M. Benedict was finally summoned, after the city physician, M. M. Ford, had been called. He was not to be found, and he took charge of the case. Dr. Benedict found no serious injuries, except from possible complications from a badly sprained back, which he said could have resulted from the fall or during his struggles while being held on the table before medical assistance could be secured. About three hours after the accident occurred Fording was removed to Holy Cross hospital.

Fording lives at 504 East Seventh South street, with his mother, Mrs. M. M. Ford. Prior to going to work for the telephone company he was employed by the bill posting company.

Dr. Benedict says it will be several weeks before he will be able to leave the hospital.

OLD RESIDENT DIES.

Mrs. Esther M. Bunnell Passes Away at Home of Her Daughter.

Mrs. Esther Mendenhall Bunnell, a pioneer resident of Salt Lake City, died at the home of her daughter, Dr. Romaine H. Pratt, 236 Constitution building, Tuesday evening. Mrs. Bunnell had died a short illness and was due to general disability caused by old age. She was well known in the Mormon church, of which she had been a member for more than sixty years.

The deceased was born in Guilford county, North Carolina, Dec. 11, 1814. She was among the first to arrive in Salt Lake City, crossing the plains with an ox team in 1845. Arrangements have been made for the funeral at the Fourteenth ward meeting house at 10:30 o'clock today.

A PRETTY GOOD WORLD.

(Ogden Journal.) This is not a heartless world, after all. Down in Salt Lake a sweet little girl lost her pet dog. She was heart-broken, refusing all comfort and actually mourning herself in a fit of illness. The Herald learned of her woe and told it willingly to the public, and thereupon the letter carriers on the Ogden and the northern on their beats entered upon a systematic search for the missing pet. In fact the finding of the little Lotta Bug became one of the animating purposes of community life at the capital. Nothing more tenderly chivalrous is told on the storied page than this that hundreds of busy men make pause in their labor to dry the tears in the eyes of a little girl.

WHAT YOUR MONEY WILL EARN An Investment Which Guarantees An Income.

Would you rather realize 6 per cent on a safe investment or 4 per cent on an account in a savings bank? The difference in your steady income would amount to only 2 per cent, but did you ever stop to realize what that difference would mean in a few years? For instance, $ per cent on $1,000 would mean twelve years, and 4 per cent money every eighteen years. If $1,000 were invested in thirty years it would amount to $3,000; but if $1,000 were placed in a savings bank at 4 per cent it would amount to $2,000 in thirty-six years, merely a difference of $1,000.

Are you placing your surplus earnings in interest-bearing accounts or speculative investments? If you have been in the habit of doing that, has your income averaged 6 per cent on the money invested? McGuffin & Co., investment bankers, will invest your money on dollars to the best possible advantage. You hold the security and they guarantee the interest. No matter how large or too small to handle, and your own lawyer or business adviser may examine the papers. In making such investments, you have a double assurance, the guarantee of this old, established reliable firm, and the security you hold yourself.

Growing Aches and Pains. Mrs. Josie Sumner, Bremont, Tex., writes, April 15, 1902: "I have used Ballard's Snow Liniment in my family for three years. I would not be without it in the house. I have used it on my little girl for growing pains, on aches in her knees. It cured her right away. I have also used it for frosted-bitten feet with good success. It is the best liniment I ever used." 25c, 50c, $1.00.
