plause from the Tammany crowd, you will find consists chiefly of saying in fair weather that the sky is blue, the grass is green; that it is good to be good and bad to be bad, and that virtue is better than vice. In the midst of startling additions to human knowledge is an attack on the chairman of the national republicans committee, who is a republican by challenge, repeatedly, by a single item of truth, speaking from an abundant knowledge of the facts and of the chairman of the republican national committee and the president I have no hesitation in saying that no baser or more slanderous charge was ever made and in the exigencies of a desperate and losing campaign.
