LADRONES ON WARPATH

Contract Surgeon O'Neill Killed at the Town of San Francisco De Malabon.

Manila, Jan. 25.—Additional details regarding the attack by Ladrones of the town of San Francisco de Malabon last night, in which Contract Surgeon J. A. O'Neill was killed, show that the Ladrones numbered 200. They were led by the famous outlaws, Montalvo and Felizardo, who were aided by two American negroes. The Ladrones were armed with over 130 rifles.

Besides Surgeon O'Neill, one private of the constabulary was killed and three were seriously wounded. The home of former Governor Trias was attacked and his wife and two children abducted.

The municipal treasury was looted of $2,000 and twenty-five Remington rifles were taken by the Ladrones. The rebels were dressed in constabulary uniforms and this fact created considerable confusion.

The scouts and the constabulary now have the band surrounded at the Pueblo of Perez Damarias. There was four hours of fierce fighting, the complete result of which has not yet been reported.

TWO TRAINS; ONE TRACK

Several People Injured in a Wreck on the Santa Fe in California.

Stockton, Cal., Jan. 25.—A number of persons hurt and a car thrown off the track as the result of a train accident on the Santa Fe this morning at Blum, forty-five miles west of Stockton.

J. C. Hurie of Stockton, superintendent of the Pacific glass works, scalp wound. Johannes Reimers of Stockton, landscape gardener for the Santa Fe, cut about the face.

A few others suffered minor bruises. F. Dohken, Jr. and wife and F. Dohken, Jr. and wife of Antioch, conducting the Arlington hotel, were badly shaken and conductor Eugene Dohken, head of Kansas City, on a visit to San Francisco, had his back badly hurt.

The injured people were brought to Stockton and cared for. All were able to proceed to their homes. Mr. Hurie is probably the most painfully hurt. Information from his home is to the effect that it cannot be known whether his injuries are to be regarded as serious.

The dense fog prevailing is partly responsible for the accident. No. 41, carrying passengers for San Francisco, left here at 9:20 this morning, No. 6 leaving San Francisco at 7:30. While No. 41 was going on the siding at Blum Engineer Deardorf of No. 6 continued on, striking the rear coach of No. 41.

The original holding was located, and he was decelerated by the fog, with the result stated.

FISHERMEN ON WITNESS STAND

North Sea Commission Now Taking Evidence.

BRITISH SIDE PRESENTED

Paris, Jan. 25.—The international commission to inquire into the North Sea incident began hearing witnesses today. The meeting of the commission was attended by a score of seamen and fishermen from Hull, giving the session a somewhat nautical aspect. The first witness was Captain Wood of the steamer Zero, plying between Hull and Copenhagen. He said that on the afternoon preceding the occurrence of Oct. 22 he saw two Russian squadrons proceeding westward. The locality was unusual for warships. The locality was Question—Were the warships following the course habitually taken? Answer—No. They were to the west and not in the normal course, proceeded in a westerly direction. He did not see any other warships during the voyage.

Vice Admiral Doubasoff (Russian) cross-examined the witness and asked what distance the squadrons were outside the usual course. Captain Wood answered that the ships were ten or twelve miles from the ordinary course.

Saw Strange Steamer. Captain Wood further testified that he saw a strange steamer during the afternoon. She appeared to belong to a trans-Atlantic line and had two masts and one funnel. It was a type of ship not frequently seen in those waters. Rear Admiral Beaumont (Great Britain) appeared to be specially interested in this statement, requesting the witness to repeat it.

George Berehng, manager of the lawlers company, presented a miniature model of the steamer. The court examined it minutely, and also the signal lamps and flags used by trawlers. Mr. Berehng lengthily explained the fishing process. Admiral Fourrier of France mildly remonstrated against extraneous evidence.

Counsel for Great Britain asked: "On the night in question had any of your boats embarked torpedoes or other engines of warfare?" "Not at all."

"Were any Japanese on board?" "I never heard them spoken of, and never heard a reference to any Japanese warships being in the neighborhood."

Not Like a Torpedo Boat. "Is it possible to confound a torpedo boat with a trawler without sails?" "Not at all."

The witness added that the company at Hull received constant reports from the fleet. No reports showed that any trawler had joined the company.

William Shears, steward, and Thomas Carr, vice admiral of the trawling fleet, gave testimony practically the same as that before the board of trade investigation.

The Russian counsel sought to show that there were discrepancies between the present and former evidence of these witnesses. Shears was positive that there was no Japanese aboard any of the trawlers and gave a vivid description of the approach of the Russian warships, the play of their searchlights and the canning, which lasted twenty-five minutes. When he heard Admiral Fourrier of France complimented him on wearing a medal in recognition of his services in saving lives.

The hearing adjourned until tomorrow.
