

HORSE WASHES INTO HEARSE
George F. Kempf Thrown Out and Injured During Runaway.

MOURNERS IN DISORDER
MEN TAKE RIDE IN BUGGY AND ARE ARRESTED.

As the result of a runaway horse dashing into the funeral procession, which was bearing the remains of Mrs. Eliza McFarlane to the grave yesterday afternoon, George F. Kempf, employed by the Utah Light and Railway company, sustained a broken leg and injuries about the head, while the mourners were thrown into disorder by the accident.

The funeral procession had left the Fifteenth ward meeting house and was proceeding in an easterly direction on West Second street, when Kempf had left his home, 570 West Fourth South street, in a light rig. His horse became unmanageable near Fifth and First South streets. The animal kept clear of the carriages until it reached the van of the cortege, when it plunged toward the hearse. The buggy veered and struck the hearse, throwing Mr. Kempf to the ground. The horse continued on its course and was caught at First South and West Temple streets.

After the horse had been caught and tied to a hitching post at West Temple and First South streets, W. M. Rawley and Jack Campbell took possession of the rig and proceeded to take a ride along the main street. Scorer observed them on West Second South street and arrested them. They were charged with cruelty to animals as the horse had sustained a fracture of the leg during its dash. The men, both of whom have been under arrest before, will be arraigned in police court today.

Mr. Kempf is employed in the gas department of the Utah Light and Railway company.
