A WORD TO OUR GUESTS.

Some of the visiting Californians are arranging to leave for home tonight, and we'd like to tell them what we think of them before they go.

In the first place, they have about completed the object-lessons they began when the Salt Lakers went to the coast not long since; they all work for their own city, and work together whether they love each other or not.

Another thing: The Californians carry their sunshine with them, and it flows as freely and naturally as juice from a ripe watermelon.

Next to the completion of his railroad, Senator Clark's greatest gift to the two terminal cities has been this courtesy which has enabled their citizens to see one another in their homes and places of business.

As for Salt Lake, its citizens already realize the great benefits which come of intercourse with such men as comprise the Los Angeles party.

It is well for an employe, if he can, to make his employer believe that nobody else can do his work quite as well as he.

Under a new Massachusetts law citizens of that state are allowed three drinks a year without punishment.

There are, of course, cases in which men need money for legitimate ventures and they secure assistance from friends.

who have them, however much they may be desired by others. Cohen has found this out. So will you if you believe everything you hear.

A BAS THE WHISKERS.

Now comes Dr. Hamilton Forline of Chicago with advice that, if followed, will soon lead to a nation of smooth-faced men.

Utah seems to run a good deal to whiskers. The average veteran of the west has about a bale of them hanging to his countenance.

No woman wants to go fussing around with a big bottle of disinfectant. And no man with proper instincts wants to go unskissed through life.

There'll be a great silence in the smoking room. Presently the young man yawned and went back to his berth.
