At this opening Madame Charlton, who has just returned from a visit to Paris, New York and eastern points, will show all the latest modes and styles.

OPENING CHASE STUDIO.
I have decided not to have an opening, but instead will give each lady visiting the gallery before Oct. 10, an order for one dozen cabinets at half price. Chase, Photographer, 249 Main.

The Diamond Cure.
The latest news from Paris is that they have discovered a diamond cure for consumption, if you fear consumption or pneumonia, it will, however, be best for you to take that great remedy mentioned by W. T. McGee of Yander, Tenn. "I had a cough for fourteen years. Nothing helped me until I took Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, which gave instant relief, and effected a permanent cure." Unequalled quick cure for Throat and Lung Troubles. At Z. C. M. I. drug department; price 50c and $1.00, guaranteed. Trial bottle free.

A certain young man, who is somewhat inclined to plumpness, had just returned from his vacation, when he met a friend, an elderly matron, who greeted him with a comment on his acquiring flesh. "I should have thought," she said, "that you would have counted yourself with the world and the devil, and let the flesh alone." "Oh, no," was the reply. "When one goes to San Francisco one meets all three."

The King's Daughters of the First Presbyterian church have issued an invitation for a Lilliputian wedding to be witnessed at the church on the evening of Oct. 13. No superstitious attach to the youthful bride and groom for the date set is Friday, the 13th. The bride, "Joy," is in real life little Miss Katherine Sweeney, and the groom, "Mr. Please Cheerup," is the diminutive Joel Priest, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Priest. The groomsmen and ushers and the fair young bridesmaids will be a number of other Lilliputians well known in the city.

She knew, of course, that little pitchers have big ears, but she forgot that walters have eyes—this Salt Lake girl who "took" a creamer from a popular local cafe while lurching a few days ago. She had dropped in with an escort in the evening and had become fascinated with the "cute" little creamers, which were set down before her. To make a long story short she carried away in her pocket a creamer when she and her companion left. Next afternoon she again entered the cafe, this time with another gentleman. And this time the waiter brought but one creamer. Now she was busy explaining to her friends that she doesn't care for afternoon lunches anyhow.

The announcement in the Army and Navy Journal of the coming marriages of two of the young bachelor officers recently returned from a tour of duty in the post was received with some surprise. Lieutenant George R. Green, who was considered the confirmed bachelor of the post, has succumbed to the charms of a girl in another post, and Lieutenant Moody, the infant of the garrison, has plainly disregarded all cautions in regard to youthful officers, taking into themselves wives.

A youth stepped into a floral establishment the other day and, without interrupting the order of an elderly man, who was arranging for some flowers, without waiting to see to whom he was speaking or who was to hear, he gave orders to have boxes of flowers sent to a certain train, naming in the rudest kind of fashion the young girls for whom they were intended. If the parents of the girls knew of the action of this son of a house, famous for its ill-breeding, they would consider his attention a doubtful compliment.

The Willard Young family will form an addition to local society, which will be appreciated. Besides a father and mother, who were among the most popular of the young people of the town in their day, there are now three daughters, who are said to shine by both beauty and accomplishments. The Youngs are at home at 314 First street.

Mrs. C. S. Williamson of Denver, who has been visiting Salt Lake friends for the past few days, has been made guest of honor at numerous small and informal affairs given by her friends.
