A WORTHY ORGANIZATION.

The annual meeting of the Salt Lake Charity association, held on Monday, discloses the fact that that organization has been doing a vast deal of good in a quiet way in this city.

And a large share of the credit for the splendid work must go to M. M. Woods, the superintendent. Captain Woods has been unremitting in his attention to his duties.

Without the slightest desire to defend that criminal monopoly, we venture to suggest that if the Devlin estate owed the Standard Oil company 90 cents the company had a perfect right to present the claim.

After months of hovering between life and death Jerry Simpson, the most famous Populist that party produced, has fallen into his last, long sleep.

Our morning contemporary, we wish we could call it our esteemed contemporary, assumes that "the blacklegs are working like beavers for the mayor."

As far as attending to the duties of the office are concerned, Mr. Thompson has worked just as hard for the city since he has been out of office as he did when he was in.

A New York minister wants the verse, "In my Father's house are many mansions," changed to "In my Father's house there are many apartments."

Mr. Thompson is so busy with his race horses that it would really be a shame to pile any city business on his shoulders.

Do you really think any photograph in the world would reproduce a speech like that from George Sheets?

great interest. In the month of September alone, 30,095 cabin passengers arrived in the port of New York from abroad, and 56,580 steerage passengers arrived in the same period.

Assuming that none of the steerage passengers would travel for pleasure alone, it is equally fair to assume that a very large percentage of the cabin arrivals were American tourists, returning from abroad.

Supposing that only half of these people could be diverted from travel abroad to travel westward, could any effort be too great for the benefits that would follow?

There can be no doubt of the value of the Commercial club's movement, and the responses from every direction to its invitations for co-operation show that it has struck a popular chord.

Society.

The marriage of Miss Sara Alexander and Ashby Dr. Bois Cleveland took place last evening at the home of the bride's parents.

At the reception which followed the wedding service was read by Rev. William M. Paden in the presence of only a few close friends.

WHEN SHE PLAYED GOLF.

She first appeared at the golf links in the park one day early in June, sat awhile watching the players and then went away.

With identical regularity she came every afternoon for two days and studied that book for an hour or two, comparing the players with the illustrations in the volume.

But one Saturday she ceased being the open book upon the sand, and instead a public nuisance.

The crowd grinned, giggled, laughed, and in their actions the red-haired one seemed utterly oblivious.

The crowd shrieked with amusement. The red-haired divinity was as indifferent as a deaf mute.

For three weeks she appeared daily on the links, oblivious alike to heat of wind or criticism.

That she stopped coming and has never been seen since. Had she become discouraged? It hardly seems possible.

That wasn't no sentiment in Bill, when he said he didn't care for her.
