

SWIM AND SHAVES FOR REFUGEES

Local Relief Committee Has Idea That Proves Wonderfully Popular in Frisco.

TAKEN TO THE SANITARIUM

THREE TRAIN LOADS TAKEN THROUGH YESTERDAY.

"For an aggravated case of refugitis I can recommend an application of aqua pura and soap as one of the most efficacious remedies," said a member of the party of 225 refugees from San Francisco yesterday as he emerged from the Sanitarium.

Chairman Tom D. Pitt of the California relief committee has declared the best man alive when he announced that arrangements had been made to permit all refugees who so desired to bathe while they waited for the evening train to arrive here today.

Delights of a Bath.

"This is heaven," gurgled one young girl as she tossed the dripping hair from her forehead and rolled back the sleeves of her bathing costume.

"We—mother, father, Bub and I—left our home just after the quake. We went to the camp at Golden Gate park, where we spent three days and nights. We slept beneath the starry sky. In our haste to leave the dangerous part of the city we carried only our necessities.

Knows How Squaw Feels.

"Each day's camping out made us feel more miserable and dirtier. When I rolled myself in my blankets at night I wondered how a squaw must feel. I felt so uncomfortable that I could not sleep.

"Bub" Enjoyed the Dirt.

"When the chairman of your kind and thoughtful committee told us we were home here if we wanted to I could have hugged him with delight. I believe Bub and I were the first ones here. Bub came not because he was uncomfortable but because he wanted to swim. I had never before enjoyed bathing after living like an Indian for a week.

There were others who did not bathe. These were in the minority and all had explanations for their failure to take advantage of the committee's kindness.

"I'd like to bathe," said another refugee, as a woman before me took a turn. It will take me all afternoon to scrub my two kids. Then besides I have to find some clothes for them. They have on their own clothes now but they're nothing but holes. Oh! I will wash and make myself comfortable when we get to Denver, but the two children are nervous and half sick now. When I get them in a proper shape I am going to take a day all to myself and spend the time fixing up. This disaster was fearful, wasn't it? I haven't combed my hair for two days—that is carefully living like a cave dweller is worse than losing everything on earth. I wouldn't have minded it if I had thought of a cake of soap and comb.

Men in the party of refugees were taken to barber shops by members of the committee who paid for their shaves, hair cuts and repairs to appearance. Men who went into shaving parlors looking like tramps came forth clean and happy. "Say, for the first time in my life I've worn a week's growth of beard on my face," said one fellow yesterday. "The week's growth of beard left on my face another day or so would have driven me to self-destruction in my attempts to shave with the top of a sardine can. I don't care whether my home in San Francisco is still standing or not. I don't care whether my store there was destroyed or not—I'm now ready to start life anew. While I carried that growth of hair on my face I felt that death would be a welcome relief to me. Now I will shovel dirt to make another start."

Three Train Loads.

Members of the relief committee with Mrs. Fred Pierce, Tom D. Pitt, G. R. Cleveland and other members of the ladies' auxiliary to the relief committee escorted 250 strangers to the various restaurants around town at 10 o'clock. After supper the visitors gathered at the armory, collected their possessions and returned to their cars at the depot. The second trainload of refugees arrived at 10:30 o'clock and the third section after midnight. A train was made here with over 400 refugees on board, pulled out for Denver early this morning. A large number of refugees will arrive here today.

Tents will be provided for the refugees at the Rio Grande depot tomorrow. There will be baggage rooms, where the visitors may check their parcels during their stay in Salt Lake.

WILL BUILD A BANDSTAND

Council Orders Plans Drawn for One at Liberty Park to Cost $2,000.

The city council held an adjourned meeting last night, and about the most important thing it did was to order plans to be drawn for a new band stand at Liberty park to cost not to exceed $2,000.

The city council held an adjourned meeting last night, and about the most important thing it did was to order plans to be drawn for a new band stand at Liberty park to cost not to exceed $2,000. Personal injury claims were compromised as follows: M. L. Cummings, $350; Eline Esterholm, $100. Councilman Mulvey opposed both compromises, but Assistant City Attorney H. J. Dinniny advised both of them and they were approved.

READ STORY IN SCHOOLS

Mr. Priest's Recital in The Herald of Conditions in San Francisco Much Admired.

Upon the suggestion of Superintendent H. Christensen, there was read yesterday in the fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grades of nearly every school in the city the story of San Francisco written by J. L. Priest and published in The Herald yesterday. In some of the grades the teachers read the story; in others the pupils read the story aloud. It was an admirable story, said Mr. Christensen last evening. "It was written by a man who had been on the ground, and was genuinely true. It presented the best picture of ruined San Francisco that I have seen. The article was excellent, indeed, and very charming."

BOYS MAKE SACRIFICE.

Give Money for Baseball Suits to the Relief Fund.

One of the real sacrifices of the sufferers in San Francisco is recorded by the Lincoln school, where the boys' baseball team has made the heroic sacrifice of their new ball suits. The money was on hand for the suits and the team, which is considered one of the best in the grade school league, expected to make a fine showing in the next tugger. The idea of spending the money for that, however, when clothes were needed for some one's comfort was repugnant to the youngsters, and they cheerfully made the real sacrifice by giving the money into the fund and resolving to wear their old clothes for the ball games.

Consign direct to Lewis G. Stevenson, Hearst Relief Corps, Oakland. Wire him your action. Governor says Utah is doing nobly and expresses thanks."

RELIEF WORKERS.

Office, 2484 Washington Avenue. Ogden, Friday, April 27.

MANY REFUGEES COME

Seven Hundred Pass Through Ogden on the Way to Points in the East.

Refugees from San Francisco still stream through Ogden, no less than 700 passing here yesterday bound for the east. All were fed here and many were supplied with clothing. There were no injured among the throng, but there were about a score of sick persons, who received attention at the emergency hospital.

Perhaps the most interesting of all the personages passing through here yesterday was G. E. Wilson of Clinton, Ia. It was he who chartered a special train at Ogden to carry him to San Francisco on the day after the disaster and through this action enabled Utah to get the first relief car from the West. Yesterday Mr. Wilson stated that when he arrived at San Francisco the general relief committee was in session in the office of Mayor Schmitz. The mayor left his seat and embraced Mr. Wilson for what he had done in getting the first relief car to the stricken city. Mr. Wilson states that the first car from Salt Lake was also taken on his train from some point west of Ogden, where it had been carried by N. O. so that it arrived at the same time as the relief car from Ogden.

Among the notables passing through Ogden yesterday was Mr. Chow, first secretary of the Chinese association at Washington, who was bound for the coast. He stated that he had been ordered to proceed to San Francisco by the Chinese minister, to take charge of the relief work for his countrymen.

Lieut. Farrell, M. D., U. S. A., formerly at Fort Douglas, in charge of twenty-five surgeons and seventy-five nurses, passed through here yesterday en route from Chicago. They are going to San Francisco as representatives of the relief committee and with the supplies and their own hospital independent of those already there.

Colonel C. G. Sharpe of the thirtieth infantry also went west yesterday. He is going in search of his wife, who was in San Francisco at the time of the earthquake, having gone there to meet her son, Lieutenant Sharpe, who is returning from the Philippines.

Among the pitiable scenes yesterday was a mother with a small infant. She was almost exhausted from the experience through which she had passed. She said her husband was among those burned in the fire. A young couple bound for Chicago had with them a small infant but a few feet from the burning building and they were taking it east. They did not know what the parents of the little one were.

The local relief committee has inaugurated an employment agency in connection with the work of caring for the refugees and any seeking work is readily taken care of. W. H. Wattis, manager of the Utah Construction company, has informed the committee that his company has work for 800 men. These men are secured, will be used on the Western Pacific construction.

An appeal for contributions from the citizens of Ogden has been made by Mayor Conroy and the committee.

Greek Passed Stolen Checks. A Greek laborer recently cashed two checks amounting to over $100 in local stores. These have since been traced and have been stolen. They were drawn by the American Smelting and Refining company, and were presented at the Salt Lake were refused. It is claimed that the checks were regular in every way, but the loss was discovered when they had the payment stopped at the bank. W. H. Wright & Sons and Horace Bros. are the losers by the transaction. The Greek has disappeared.

WILL VISIT THE "U" POLICEMAN IS SHOT. Charles Middleton Wounded by Friend by Accident.

Mounted Police Officer Charles Middleton was accidentally shot through the shoulder shortly after midnight last night when he was passing the Orpheum saloon on State street, when George Lake, the bartender, called him in to have a cigar. Middleton and Lake, who have been friends for a number of years, stood talking for some minutes. Lake was holding a box of cigars on the case and told Middleton to help himself. Middleton jokingly started to take a handful. Lake pulled a Colt's gun from its place on the counter. Leveling it on Middleton he said, with a laugh, "No you don't." Middleton selected one cigar and bid the bartender good night. A second later he was shot in the right shoulder and knew the bullet had struck him. He was able to walk to the station, where he was laid up on a stretcher as possible in a cot in the wardens' room. Dr. Paul was summoned and dressed the wound.
