

EVERYBODY HAS STORY TO TELL

Pathetic Scenes Among Refugees That Pass Through Ogden.

HARD TO RESTRAIN TEARS
MANY ARE NURSING INJURIES AND BURNS.

The depot yards at the Union depot in Ogden have the appearance nowadays of picnic grounds, but they are not. The throngs of dusty and tired people who perch upon their rolls of bedding or bundles of possessions in every nook and corner are the daily crowds of refugees from San Francisco.

More than 700 destitute persons were in Ogden yesterday. Each train brought more refugees. They filled the baggage and waiting rooms, they camped upon the lawns and climbed upon the express trucks about the platform.

Members of the relief committee, representatives of fraternal and secret societies and citizens were at the depot to pilot the newcomers to spots where they could rest and be found when needed. A large tent was provided for the women and children at one end of the platform. Benches were scattered around the depot park.

All Had Sad Stories.

Each group, each refugee, had a pitiable story, and each story contained the pathetic admission: "I have lost everything I own."
The story of Earl C. Tague was not exactly such a story. Earl Tague had not lost all. With him was his 4-months-old boy.

"I resided at 631 A Harrison street," said Mr. Tague. "I was working as brakeman for the Southern Pacific Railroad company. My wife was in a delicate condition and the earthquake killed her. I escaped unharm and managed to save the baby. He has been laughing and talking his silly nonsense during the entire trip. He is all I have left now. When he became hungry on the train he let out an angry little yelp. This never failed to bring a dozen kind-hearted women to my aid. A bottle of milk would disappear and he would again lie back in the berth and resume his gurgling."

Most Pathetic Scene.

Probably the most pathetic scene of all was the sight of two policemen leading an elderly woman back to the car after she had managed to get away from her guardian and wander uptown. Her father, an old German, who was unable to speak a word of English, almost burst into tears as he gazed into his daughter's face and saw no signs of recognition. He walked away with tears in his eyes. Everywhere were huddled destitute persons whose humble attitude and care worn faces told plainly the suffering undergone. In one corner of the waiting room a black-eyed little miss sat singing softly to a dirty, ragged doll hugged close to her breast.

A bystander came to speak to the girl was told to "Hush! Ruf is asleep and she ain't got no home nor nothin'." When Ruf had been put asleep, the 4-year-old "mother" said she had Ruf with her when the earthquake came, and carried her through the streets to a big hill where they stopped and watched the town burn down. "Ap' Ruf didn't cry now," added the girl, glancing proudly at the ragged little dollie, whose face had lost its paint in spots and been smeared with dirt from sticky fingers in all its spots.

Physician Loses All.

Dr. B. M. Jackson of Council Bluffs, Ia., had gone to San Francisco three weeks before the disaster to open offices. He escaped from the Golden West hotel with nothing but his diplomas. His instruments, books and personal effects were burned. Many of the refugees were injured and burned. These unfortunates were taken to emergency hospitals arranged in the rear of drug stores scattered about Ogden. Physicians and doctors dressed their wounds and burns. One man came from San Francisco with his leg cut above the elbow. The injury had not received any attention. Women who needed medical attention were placed under the care of volunteer nurses while in Ogden. Every one who needed attention is open to the visitors. No necessity has been overlooked by the committee in its supplies for the refugees. From hairpins to food, from handkerchiefs to clothing, all collections contain anything and everything needed or asked for.

The refugees are asking for little and are deeply appreciative of the kindnesses shown. In this spirit of thankfulness is best illustrated by the declaration made by a son of Italy to a woman who asked him to join the refugees eating dinner at the long tables.

"Madame," he said removing his hat and bowing, "I am an Italian. I bin dis countree for six years and I only common workin' man. I lose all I got in de fire. The bin treated just same as American. Now when I see American flag off goes my hat."

Grateful for Help Given.

"What do I want?" One woman repeated this question after it had been put to her. "What I want most is some chance to thank the people of this country for the kindness they have shown us," she continued. "Everywhere we have stopped, on the train, in San Francisco—everywhere—it's been kindness, kindness, kindness! One never knows when a chance to thank them until something like this happens. I was born in a well-to-do family in Kansas. My father had big farm-houses, hundreds of head of livestock, wide farms, and in his district was considered a prominent man. When a girl I imagined I was a little better than my chums whose fathers had not the big farmhouses, livestock and fields that my father owned. This is the first time I ever had a chance to know how foolish my ideas were. I am going home a broader-minded woman."

With the exception of fifty refugees the travelers left for the east from Ogden. A half-hundred continued their journey to Denver by way of Salt Lake, where they ate supper at 6 o'clock. The evening train carried 150

Franklin Anniversary Celebrated in Paris and Magnificent Statue Unveiled.

SPEECH OF PRESENTATION
OFFICIAL ACCEPTANCE BY THE FRENCH OFFICIAL.

Paris, April 27.—The Franklin celebration at the Trocadero this afternoon was the occasion for a notable Franco-American demonstration. The distinguished officials present included former Presidents Loubet and Casimir-Perier, the cabinet ministers, the diplomatic corps, the presidents of the senate and chamber of deputies and prominent generals and admirals. Trocadero square was occupied by the republican guards in brilliant uniforms, and the grand stand facing the statue was richly decorated with the French and American colors. A battery of artillery fired a salute of twenty-one guns as the statue was unveiled. Minister of Instruction Barthou, in behalf of the government, pronounced an eulogy of Franklin, during which he recalled his intimacy with Voltaire and other notable personages, and said:

"France not only renders homage to Franklin, but gives this official testimony of its unwavering friendship and fidelity to the great American republic."

Ambassador McCormick gave an elaborate dinner tonight at the American embassy to the French and American officials participating in the celebration.

Paris, April 27, 2:30 p. m.—The Franklin celebration preceding the unveiling today of the statue of Benjamin Franklin, presented to the city of Paris by John H. Harjes, the American banker of this city, was held in the palace of the Trocadero this afternoon. Today's ceremony began in the palace of the Trocadero and was continued later before the vast crowd massed on the Trocadero square, where the statue of Franklin overlooks the splendid esplanade and the avenue leading to the triumphal arch and the Seine. The great auditorium of the Trocadero had been handsomely decorated for the occasion with the flags and emblems of France and the United States intertwined. The formal exercises were as follows:

Address by Ambassador McCormick. Gratulation on Franklin by the delegate appointed by the United States government, Professor Albert Henry Smith of the Boys' High school, Philadelphia. Reply by the representative of the French government, Minister of Public Works Barthou. The ceremony was then transferred to the Trocadero square, where the exercises continued as follows:

Presentation of the statue of Franklin to the city of Paris by Mr. Harjes. Acceptance of the statue by M. Chautaud, president of the municipal council of Paris.

In presenting the statue to the municipality Mr. Harjes made a brief speech.

FEDERATION OF SOCIETIES
Several Bodies Will Affiliate With a Number of Definite Objects in View.

Washington, April 27.—At a recent meeting of representatives of patriotic societies held in this city a plan of cooperation was agreed upon and the federation of the societies perfected. This action was participated in by representatives of the Junior Order American Mechanics, the Daughters of America, the Daughters of Liberty, the Patriotic Sons of America, the Order of United American Mechanics and the Order of Malta, representing a total membership throughout the United States of more than 500,000 persons.

The objects of the federation are stated to be: To cement the bonds of fraternal union among the patriotic, fraternal and benevolent societies; the fostering and protection of the interests and works of patriotism, fraternity, benevolence, education and charity; the study of social conditions; the dissemination of the truth; the encouragement of the spread of wholesome literature; enactment of laws for the suppression of vice and crime, and for the protection of the American home and the American laborer.

The federation pledges itself to avoid affiliation with any political party as such, and to maintain an attitude of neutrality upon questions of public policy not directly and immediately concerned with its objects.

The federation, while cherishing the hope that in union there is strength, does not restrain each society from working along its individual lines.

ULTIMATUM OF THE OPERATORS

Coal Magnates Definitely Decline Latest Proposal of the Miners.

New York, April 27.—The anthracite mine operators, through their sub-committee of seven, at a meeting here today drew up a reply to the latest proposition of the mine workers for an adjustment of the existing difference in the anthracite fields, in which they refuse to modify their position hitherto announced. The operators call upon the miners to renew for a period of three years the award of the anthracite strike commission or else to accept the operators' proposition that the strike commission arbitrate the question as to what changes, if any, shall be made in the scale of wages fixed by the commission in its original awards. The miners have hitherto declined this offer.

Mitchell Surprised.

Scranton, Pa., April 27.—President John Mitchell read over the Associated Press dispatch on the operators' answer in the Tribune office tonight, but would make no comment other than to say that he was surprised. He returned to Wilkesbarre tonight, after making arrangements to have next Thursday's convention of the miners held in the court house.

PLAN TO REBUILD SCHOOLS
California Asks That the Children Aid the Good Work.

San Francisco, April 27.—H. C. Chamberlain, state director of the Educational association of California and dean of Throp Polytechnic institute, has sent the following telegram to Hon. Nathan C. Schafer, president of the National Educational association:

"Galveston suggests that the school children of America rebuild the San Francisco schools destroyed by fire. After the 1906 flood at Galveston the schools of that city were so reconstructed and for a time maintained. Nearly forty of the school buildings of San Francisco were destroyed and some 25,000 children are affected. Suggest you direct appeal to all school interests of the United States asking school children for assistance in reconstruction. The world sympathizes with our sister city, and she is appreciative. Superintendent A. Roncovier is hard at work. Send funds to Hon. James D. Phelan, chairman citizens' finance committee, specifying for schools."

Nervous?
There are many causes of nervousness, but poor blood heads the list. The doctors call it anemia. The blood lacks red corpuscles. At your first opportunity, consult your doctor about taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Ask him if he has anything better for weakness, debility, nervousness. If he has, take it. If not, take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Get well, that's what you are after.
