

SERVIS TROUBLE FOR THE SULTAN

Great Britain Likely to Send an Ultimatum to Ruler of Turkey.

MAY BE A DEMONSTRATION DISPUTE IS OVER OCCUPATION OF TABAH, EGYPT.

London, April 28.—The patience of Great Britain with Turkey over the Tabah affair is about exhausted, and it was understood at the foreign office today that if the sultan does not accede to the British demands there will be another demonstration before a Turkish fleet within a short time. Some months ago, since the Egyptian government discovered that Turkish troops had occupied Tabah, here-tofore considered to be an important port at the head of the Gulf of Akabah, Turkey, so Great Britain believed, occupied Tabah because she feared that Egypt, which proposed to extend a short line of railroad to that port, would obtain control of the Gulf of Akabah. Britain claims that this is far from being the intention of Egypt. As soon as occupation of Tabah was discovered, Egypt asked Turkey for an explanation, and the sultan in reply contended that Tabah was within his empire.

Sultan Declined.

This was disputed, but Great Britain offered to submit the question of the boundary to a commission, Turkey in the meantime to withdraw her troops. The sultan declined this offer, but offered to negotiate with Lord Cromer, the British agent at Cairo.

The British government acceded to this, but was astounded to learn when the negotiations opened that the Turkish commissioner at Cairo, in behalf of the sultan, claimed half of the Sinai peninsula and stubbornly adhered to his demand that the half of the Sinai peninsula which is considered to be a buffer state of Egypt is Turkish territory and that it be given to the sultan. Egypt tried to do so, the negotiations were broken off and the foreign office here will take up the case with the sultan. Thus far no communication has been sent to Constantinople on the subject. Great Britain being first anxious to ascertain whether a dispute authorized the Turkish commissioners at Cairo to claim half of the Sinai peninsula.

Abdul Feisal Illness.

This has been found to be most difficult, as the British ambassador has been unable to see the sultan, who is either ill or feigning illness.

Turkey's attitude is the cause of much irritation here and the government is prepared to take the most severe measures to protect Egyptian territory. There are many theories as to what is influencing Turkey. The British foreign office holds that the Turkish commissioner at Cairo is largely responsible for the present situation and that he probably has been led by German scientists and merchants at Cairo to believe that Germany will support Turkey's aggression. There appears, however, to be no ground for some of the press statements that Germany is actually so doing.

King Edward and Sir Charles Hardinge, the permanent under secretary of the foreign office will return to London early next week, when a meeting of the council will be held and possibly final steps in the matter may be taken to impress the sultan with the necessity for the withdrawal of his demands.

The British cruiser Minerva left Port Said for El Arish today, in order to ascertain whether it is true that the Turks have moved the boundary posts at certain points.

FIND THEIR SON VERY ILL

Dr. and Mrs. D. Moore Lindsay of This City Make a Trip to England.

(Special to The Herald.) London, April 28.—Dr. and Mrs. D. Moore Lindsay of Salt Lake City recently arrived at Windsor, having been hastily summoned on the journey of many thousands of miles by the illness of their son, a scholar at Eton. The boy's vitality had been reduced by fagging and he had a sharp attack of pneumonia, but he is progressing favorably.

Many of the cases of influenza and pneumonia at Eton are undoubtedly caused by boys doing their fagging before taking off the wet clothes in which they came in from playing in the rain. The younger boys, the fags, have to clean the boots and carry coal to their rooms, and a little boy has a very hard time of it.

Even Prince Arthur of Connaught was compelled to fit at Eton. It is generally agreed the system should be abolished.

BOMB THROWN AT WARSAW.

Warsaw, April 28.—At Czenstochowa, in Russian Poland, today, a bomb was thrown at the carriage of the chief of police when he was returning from a funeral. The missile exploded, killing a policeman.

NOT IN EARTHQUAKE BELT

Los Angeles Sends Out a Statement Regarding the Recent Reports.

Los Angeles, April 28.—The following statement is sent out by request: "Los Angeles is approximately 500 miles distant from San Francisco, about as far as Vienna is from Vienna or Washington from Charleston. The outer rim of the recent earthquake damage is over 400 miles from Los Angeles. Only slight tremors were felt here, doing no damage. In a century and a half there has not been a disastrous earthquake in the southern California region. While Los Angeles and its environments have experienced some slight vibrations such as are common to almost every country, they never have had, within the memory of man, an earthquake shock severe enough to dislodge a brick unless the brick were already ready to topple off. The different bulletins sent over the wires on the 18th and 19th inst. stating that this city had been destroyed or that people were fleeing for their lives from rocking buildings, or that Los Angeles and vicinity were severely shaken, were all canards, pure and simple, sent forth by unscrupulous fakers who are a disgrace to Journalism. The operator's flash that the Western Union Telegraph building was shaking referred to the building in San Francisco, and was attributed to this city in the excitement, Los Angeles is straining every nerve to help the stricken city by the Golden Gate, and objects to misrepresentation injurious to her. Provo having been their home for many years until recently. The grave was dedicated by President David Jones.

SELLING DONATED FOOD.

Licensed Peddlers Turning a Dishonest Penny in San Francisco.

San Francisco, April 28.—Supplies for the homeless and hungry sent in by philanthropic and charitable communities throughout the country are being sold on the city streets by licensed peddlers in the grossest sense that they hold permits to sell which were issued by the municipality license department before the great fire. This startling condition of affairs was reported to Chief of Police Dinan this morning by the department commanders from the various police districts. To meet the emergency Chief Dinan directed that patrolmen be detailed, mounted if necessary, with instructions to arrest every man found to be engaged in such traffic. The offenders will be turned over to the military authorities until the civil courts are prepared to take up their cases; their ill-gotten supplies will be confiscated and turned into the nearest commissary department, and their teams will be placed at the disposal of the general relief committee.

GIVING BONI A CHANCE.

Paris, April 28.—The first tribunal of the Seine was to have heard the arguments today and determine the question of a reconciliation between Countess Boni de Castellane and her husband, but the hearing was postponed owing to the desire of the count, who is a candidate for reelection to the chamber of deputies, not to proceed with the case, pending the conclusion of the electoral campaign.

SAFE BURGLARIZED.

Spokane, Wash., April 28.—A Kettle Falls special to the Spokesman Review says: The safe of the local bank was opened by burglars last night and $1,100 in cash taken. The outside compartment was worked by touch or ear, and the inside vault was opened with a chisel. There is no clue to the robbers.

PARIS PEOPLE APPREHENSIVE

Police Precautions to Keep the Peace on May Day Fail to Satisfy the Public.

BOMB EXPLODED IN STREET INCIDENT ADDS TO GENERAL ALARM.

Paris, April 28.—The government has completed preparations for dealing with the May Day situation and is confident that the day will pass without serious disorder, but at the same time the public, which is not in the least reassured by the elaborate military concentration, is showing great uneasiness. This has been accentuated by the explosion of a bomb Friday night under the important railroad bridge at Argenteuil in the suburb of Paris, which links the capital with Havre, and by an attempt this evening of a band of a hundred striking jewelers to penetrate the populous center of the Place de l'Opera for the purpose of making a demonstration before the great jewelry establishments in the Rue de la Paix. The activity of the police in making more searches and seizures, although designed to insure the safety, also has had the effect of increasing public apprehension, many persons believing that extraordinary efforts indicate the seriousness of the situation.

Give Positive Assurance.

Government, military and police officials give the most positive assurances that order will be maintained and the calmer heads accept these statements, but the nervous element of the city is hastily preparing for eventualities, some persons leaving town and taking their valuables with them and others laying in stores for an emergency. The fact that the great supply stores are unprecedented, hundreds of persons invading them and clamoring for urgency supplies.

The sensational press increases the uneasiness by publishing alarming reports of anarchist designs, while the serious press gives prominence to the military concentration and police plans, all of which leads the public to apprehend that something is about to happen. The explosion of the bomb under the Argenteuil bridge is the first overt act in what the revolutionaries term "direct action." The bridge is a massive structure crossing the Seine between the St. Lazare station, and hundreds of trains cross it daily. The military reinforcements that have been brought to Paris crossed the river on this bridge. The bomb used was cylindrical in shape, with a slow fuse. The deafening explosion was heard for five miles. It shattered windows in Argenteuil and awakened the sleeping town. The railroad was torn up and the signal on the bridge was smashed, but the solidity of the structure resisted the force of the explosion. Although there is no doubt as to the perpetrator of the explosion, the police have pronounced it to have been an anarchist attack and connect it with warnings that have been received of other similar attempts, and according to the orders were immediately issued for detachments of military engineers to guard all the bridges and tunnels of the Western railway system contiguous to Paris.

Caused Great Excitement.

The appearance of the striking jewelers in the fashionable shopping center this evening caused considerable excitement. The strikers proceeded in a body from the Labor exchange to the Rue de la Paix, the richest street in the world, the windows of the stores being literally lined with diamonds. They reached the Place de l'Opera, where a force of Republican guards and police barred their advance, and a lively scuffle ensued, in which the strikers were repulsed and turned back and dispersed, though a number of them were arrested.

In the meantime the police had made arrests of the domiciles of six persons suspected of having anarchist connections and of the offices of the inflammatory newspapers.

The wholesale searches continue to arouse excited discussion. Some royalist suspects disavow connection with any plot, while others assert that the wealthy Count Durand de Beauregard is the tool of visionary plotters.

Military Active.

The temporary military camps show great activity. Six military kitchens have been installed in the Champs de Mars, and extensive lighting and catering plants have been perfected. The cavalry on duty includes the First, Fifth, Eleventh and Twentieth chassars; the First, Sixth, Eighth, Twelfth, Eighteenth and Twenty-fifth dragoons, and the Seventh, Fourteenth and Twelfth hussars, with detachments of infantry regiments.

The military governor of Paris this morning began the requisitioning of quarters in the neighborhood of the military school, and tomorrow the requisitions will extend to the neighborhood of the Labor exchange, as the regular barracks are inadequate.

The actual state of the labor movement is unchanged. An appeal issued by the labor federation yesterday closes with a suggestion that the soldiers' conscience should forbid them from firing upon workmen.

Stores Will Remain Open.

The commercial classes are seeking to have the city preserve its normal aspect on Tuesday. The stores will remain open, except possibly the gunshops, but the delivery of goods will be suspended. The bourse will remain open. The calmer elements of the people assert that the severity of the military and the police measures bordering on the restricting of the demonstration to isolated disturbances.

Dispatches from the provinces show that most active preparations are being made for the May Day disorders. At Lyons 20,000 men have quit work. At Loriet there were fresh disturbances today and the cavalry charged and dispersed an attempted demonstration. Reinforcements of troops have been sent to all the big cities.

WILL VISIT RELATIVES.

Miss Magdalen Dauenhauer, a prominent nurse, has taken leave of absence for two months. She will go east to visit relatives and friends.

LOOTERS REAP RICH HARVEST

Everything of Value Being Carried Away From San Francisco Burned District.

HUNDREDS DIG IN RUINS VISITORS MAY BE KEPT OUT OF THE CITY.

San Francisco, April 28.—Greater in number than the military forces guarding the lives and property in this city is the army of looters that has taken possession of San Francisco. From early in the morning until late at night every boat from across the bay brings hundreds of people whose sole purpose in visiting the city is to dig among the ruins and carry off such articles of value as they are able to find with a small amount of effort. Laden with suit cases, baskets, bags and satchels, they come eager to grab from the streets and houses anything that may have possible historical or pecuniary value. Toward nightfall they wend their way across the city, carrying the heavy profits of their day's labor.

Army of Looters.

Although strict orders were given at the beginning of the military rule that all persons detected in the act of looting should be shot the rigor of this regulation has been relaxed and now the army of looters is in full possession of the blackened ruins. The streets of Chinatown and along Kearney street, where bazaars filled with Oriental wares once stood, the harvest of loot has been particularly rich. Men, women and children, for the sake of the presence of the military nor the danger of tumbling walls, swarm about the ruins with great profit to themselves. In many of the Chinese and Japanese tenements when the fire swept through the proprietors buried a large part of their stock in the basements, intending to return after the fire had passed and recover what they could. They never came back.

The terrors of the rocking earth and the sweep of the flames was too much for their Oriental minds; but the looters came, and everything that was of any use or value has been carried away. The merchants who hoped to save something out of which they could re-establish themselves will never find any of the stock which they left except by searching through the homes where looters dwell.

Some of the looters has not been confined alone to the ruins of stores and houses. Many residence sites have been "worked over," and articles of gold, silver and china carried away. The banks have established their headquarters at their premises, but very few of the owners of homes have taken this precaution.

Gall Enough to Complain.

At the ruins of the Hopkins Art Institute and the Stanford residence a guard is maintained, and yesterday men and women who had been gathering relics in the ruins of other homes along Pine and California streets, complained vigorously against the refusal of the guards to permit them to enter upon the ruins where the Stanford and Crocker houses once stood. Their previous knowledge of the character of the house furnishings convinced them that the profits of looting would be great.

Among the ruins of many of the family hotels the looters have been very fortunate. And in the ashes of pawn-broking establishments they have gathered trinkets which money will ever redeem. There is no limit to the endurance of the looters nor to the efforts they will make to acquire something of value.

All Kinds of Plunder.

A man was observed on lower Pine street yesterday carrying a cash register which he had dug from the ashes. Tolling and sweating with his work he was making his way toward the ferry until advised by a friendly sentry that he had better leave it. Another man hoarded the best carrying a meal sack filled with expensive plates and dishes harvested among the ruins of Chinatown. Women scrambled for a place to rest, being wearied by the day's quest for loot. One man carried a full dozen plates of expensive Chinese ware, hand-made and decorated, which were priced by a former Chinese merchant as being worth $3 apiece. Cups and saucers, vases and dishes, bronze and brass ornaments have found their way into many humble homes on the other side of the bay at no other expense than the cost of a ferry ticket and three or four hours' digging among the ashes.

Efforts have been made by the military authorities to stop the looting, but it would require a large force to patrol the district in which the work is being carried on. It is probable that if the looting continues, the authorities will be forced to revert to the system of allowing no one to enter the city except those who have a pass explaining their business and right to be here.
