BRYAN BOOM GROWS.

The Bryan boom continues to grow. If it keeps on growing there will be just one name mentioned in connection with the Democratic presidential nomination at the convention of 1908, the name of William Jennings Bryan of Nebraska.
Wisconsin fell into the line Wednesday, when the Democrats in their state convention passed strong resolutions indorsing the Nebraska. The Democrats of Pennsylvania did not indorse him but commended him. And this may require a little explanation.

The sentiment among the Democrats of Pennsylvania is undoubtedly as strong for Bryan as elsewhere in the country but the state convention there faced an unusual situation. There will be no straight Democratic ticket in Pennsylvania this year. Members of all parties are joining in a fight against the corrupt gang that has for years controlled Pennsylvania politics. The nominee of the Democrats for governor is not a Democrat, but a Lincoln Republican. It would have been hardly proper, under the circumstances, to pass a resolution of indorsement for Bryan as a presidential nominee.

It may be set down as a safe enough general proposition that practically all of the Democratic state conventions held this year, and perhaps next year, will pass resolutions favoring Bryan. A state convention called to nominate state officers, cannot, of course, pledge in any binding way a convention to be held later to nominate delegates to a national convention. The resolutions being passed now are only valuable, therefore, because they show the drift of sentiment. And they do show a heavy and an unerring drift toward Bryan.
Something that cannot be foreseen may come up between now and the time the convention meets, for much may happen in two years, but if we bar the unexpected Mr. Bryan is sure to be the choice of the Democrats in 1908.

And we do not think he will be the choice because, as some people have said, there is a great fear for Hearst.
Mr. Hearst is a man who must be reckoned with in national politics. No sane man will dispute that point. But it is not fear of Hearst that has worked up the Bryan wave. Rather is it a desire on the part of the American people to right the great wrong committed in 1896 and again in 1900 when the presidency was purchased for Mr. Bryan's opponent. Events have demonstrated that Mr. Bryan was the greatest and is the greatest political prophet of his time.

The important things he predicted have come to pass and in him lies the hope of the American people for the work of remedying the trust and other evils now so generally recognized.

THE MAN WHO WHITTLED.

A newspaper published in the little town of Leesburg, Mo., published the other day this item:

"Bid Dubbs sat on a rail fence for three hours Tuesday, whittling."

Bid doesn't appear to have whittled out anything useful or ornamental. According to the faithful chronicler he just whittled. He just sat up there on the rail fence and reduced a piece of pine or cedar to fine shavings. Seems a most trivial occupation, does it not?
Even when we remember that it is no trifling feat to balance for three hours in succession on a rail fence, when we remember that in that length of time a fence rail gets to be a mighty hard proposition, it doesn't seem worth while.

But before we condemn Bid Dubbs let us give him the benefit of the doubt.
Perhaps he was turning over and over in his mind some weighty problem of state, or some question of vital personal interest. Perhaps he whittled as some men draw fantastic lines on a blotter or carefully tear pieces of paper to bits or walk up and down, up and down a small room, all the time figuring out something that is of the greatest importance to them or to somebody who is dear to them.

So it is unfair to condemn Bid Dubbs without knowing something about his history and his manner of living. The bold, flat statement that he sat for three hours on a rail fence whittling may be prima facie evidence that he is a trifling, no account sort of a "dub," or Dubbs, but it cannot be regarded as absolutely conclusive. You might not care to whittle that long, perched on a rail fence, but you might do something equally as foolish, to all outward seeming, capable, successful, energetic business man though you are.

Opportunities may have passed by Bid Dubbs while he sat there whittling.
He may have missed the greatest chance of his life. And then again he may have worked out to a successful conclusion a problem that had been keeping him awake for many nights.
You, perhaps, would have spent those three hours playing golf, or seeing a baseball game, a series of bicycle races, an automobile dash into the country.
Those or other forms of recreation may be your passion. Whittling was Bid Dubbs' fancy, mayhap his passion. Who are we that we should deny him the pleasure?

If you want to call Bid Dubbs a fool for whittling you not concede him the privilege of calling you a fool for bating an innocent golf ball about the land or engaging in any other form of sport that suits you?

WEALTH WITHOUT TOIL.

In his commencement address to the students of Cornell university the other day President Jacob Gould Schurman said:

"The vice of the age—is that men want wealth without undergoing that toil by which alone wealth is created.
The love of money and the reckless pursuit of it is undermining the national character. But the nation, thank God, is beginning to perceive the fatal danger. The reaction caused by recent revelations testifies to a moral awakening. At heart the nation is still sound, though its moral sense has been too long hypnotized by material prosperity. We must restrain the brutal and predatory pursuit of wealth by laws for the protection of the weak and for the equalizing of opportunity."

President Schurman had prefaced these statements by speaking of the idle rich as "an excrescence in any properly organized community" and had predicted that "the rights which convention grants to property would be swept away if the propertied class becomes idle, luxurious, selfish, hard-hearted and indifferent to the struggles and toils of less fortunate fellow citizens." Now, "Divine Right" Baer, Chancellor Day and some other distinguished citizens may hold up their hands in holy horror at the remarks of Dr. Schurman, but thoughtful people will agree that they are full of truth.

There is too strong a desire in this country to accumulate wealth without earning it in a legitimate manner. People have been dazed by the rapid accumulation of wealth by a few fortunate, or, if you will, foresighted ones, and many hope to find a short cut to wealth. The great trouble is that they are so anxious to find the short cut that they do not care very much what sort of ground it leads over. They are even willing to run risks of a penitentiary sentence if there is as good as an even chance that they can escape the punishment they know in their hearts they deserve.

There is no immediate danger of the nation going to the dogs, as some writers and speakers would have us believe. The great American public has a conscience, and that conscience is slowly but surely being aroused.
Five years ago it would have been impossible to stir up a great amount of sentiment against the meat trust, for example. William Jennings Bryan in 1896 and in 1900 tried to stir the public conscience in this and other great evils that existed then as they exist now.

The time was not ripe then, but who will dare say the seed sowed by Bryan fell on barren ground? Bryan's seed apparently died, but we are told that no seed is quickened except it die and the saying has been exemplified in this instance, for the seed of 1896 and 1900 is bearing abundant fruit now.

Gaylord, Kan., went through all of last year without a death, birth or marriage. And according to the census enumerator Gaylord had a population of 202 in 1900. Except for the last two counts in the indictment it looks like a good place to move into.

That father of John Alexander Dowle's is quite a knocker himself. He has just come forward with proof that John Alexander is not a left-handed descendant of royalty.

Richard Canfield, gambler, says that he always ran a fairer game than the one that is conducted in Wall street.
He might have given himself a better boost than that while he had the floor.

Yes, Best Beloved, the fellow who asks if it is cool enough for you is just as deserving of death as the one who wants to know if it is hot enough for you.

Congress really ought to make an allowance of some thousands of dollars a year for the traveling expenses of the princess and her consort, also.

Unless the senate and the house get together very soon on the important matters before them, congress will run right along to the dog days.

Have you noticed any reduction in your meat bills as a result of the agitation of the last few weeks?

AN ICEMAN'S RETORT.

(Post Dispatch.)
In her daily altercation with the iceman over the short measure he delivered Mrs. Jones one morning called him, in half-angry good nature, "I don't see what makes you so stingy with your ice. You know you can't take any of it with you to the next world."
The man paused with his hand on the doorknob. "Yes, Mrs. Jones," he said, "but you must remember that if you was to see me coming with a block of ice to you in the next world you'd be so glad to get it that you wouldn't have a word to say about short weight."

SOCIETY

The marriage of Miss Phil A. Pointer, daughter of Mrs. Sallis Robert Pointer, to Joseph Lippman took place last evening at 7 o'clock at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Clinton B. Leigh, of Canby, Ill. The ceremony, read by Rev. C. E.
Perkins of St. Paul's church, was witnessed by only the immediate relatives, the bride being unattended except by her mother, who gave her away. The marriage was followed by a wedding supper and later Mr. and Mrs. Lippman left for Los Angeles for an indefinite stay.

The bride wore a gown of white with trimmings of real lace and carried a shower of white and pink sweet peas tied with tulle and narrow ribbon. Her only ornament was a diamond brooch, the gift of the bridegroom. The house was fragrant with sweet peas, the pink and white being used throughout the rooms.
The bridal party stood beneath garlands of smilax twined with the pink and white sweet peas, and roses of the same shades.
Banks of the same were used through all the rooms and the dining room showed a lavish decoration of the same flowers.

A quiet home wedding of Wednesday evening was that of Miss Lydia E. Ladd, daughter of the late Prof. A. L. Ladd, of Bismarck, N. D., to Frank Thompson, of Frank Thompson, also of Nevada. The marriage of the couple took place at the residence of Rev. G. C. Hunting in the presence of only a few close friends and relatives at the home of Mrs. M. Thompson, 902 East Second South street. The marriage was unattended. The young people left for Tompah and later for a visit in Los Angeles, but they will make their home in Bismarck.

Colonel and Mrs. Edwin F. Holmes entertained a few of their friends at a dinner last evening at the Amelia Palace.
The guests were seated at the large square table and the room was decorated with roses and carnations. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. Walter Fitch, Mrs.
Victor M. Clement, W. S. McCormick, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Walker and Mr. and Mrs.
Benner X. Smith.

The wedding of Miss Florence Armstrong, daughter of Mrs. Francis Armstrong, to Frank Bagley took place at 7:30 o'clock last evening at the Armstrong house on East First South street.
The ceremony was performed by Bishop Robert T. Burton in the presence of only the immediate relatives, and after a reception from 8 till 11 o'clock gave their friends an opportunity to greet the young people. At the reception Mrs. Armstrong, the mother of the bride, was assisted in receiving the guests by Mr. and Mrs.
Charles Bagley. Miss Ethel Armstrong acted as bridesmaid. The bride was assisted by Miss Birdie Arnold, Miss Lizzle Arnold, Miss Zola Bagley, Miss Barbara Barron, Miss Vera Barron, Miss Penrose, Miss Lena Moore and Miss Gertrude Moyle. Miss Irene Armstrong acted as maid of honor. The bride wore a white gown with a high collar and Bessie Dunn stood to receive the guests at the door.

The bride wore a gown of white chiffon over tulle, and carried a shower of bride's roses. The bridal party stood beneath a wedding veil of white flowers hung over a mirror and a large number of white flowers were used entirely in the parlors, and pink roses made the dining room a scene of beauty. The wide hall was decorated with deep crimson rambler and ferns. Mr. and Mrs. Bagley went directly to their new home, 43 Seventh Street, where they will shortly be at home to their friends.

Miss May Kervin entertained at a tea yesterday afternoon at the Country club.
The affair being in honor of Miss Mary Moore, who leaves next week for a year abroad. The guests, numbering about forty, were received on the veranda, and tea was served in doors. Mrs. J. B. Cosgriff, Miss Mary Smedley and Miss Margaret Scallon assisted the hostess and the place was gay with red roses.

Miss Beatrice O'Connor entertained a party of friends at the Orpheum last evening, occupying one of the lower boxes. The play was followed by a supper at Rich's, the guests being Miss Blanche Kimball, Miss Susan Sawyer, Miss Agatha Berkehoel, Miss Pearl Savage, Karl A. Seidel, William M. McCrea, David M. Haigh of Murray, A. B. Sawyer and Earl Siegel.

about thirty of her friends yesterday afternoon at 266. The apartments in the Palmer flats were all decorated with roses and the hostess was assisted by Mrs. B.
W. Raymond and Miss Elsie McMillan.

The marriage of Miss Bertha A. May and Charles Castleton took place Wednesday evening at the Castleton home on Third street. The ceremony was performed by David M. Smith, with only the relatives to witness it, but later a large reception to which about of hundred friends of the young people were bidden.

was given from 8 till 11 o'clock. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Eva May, and George Castleton was the best man. Mr. and Mrs. Castleton will make their home in Loveland, near Denver, Colo.

One of the home weddings of the week was that of Miss Fairy N. Davis and Arthur F. Gearty, which took place last evening at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. E. N. Davis. The ceremony was performed by the bride's cousin, Professor R. S. Hinckley. The rooms were decorated in pink and green, palms, roses and carnations being used throughout.
The bride wore a dainty gown of white silk often cloth with lace trimmings, and carried white carnations. The bride was attended by Miss Minnie Ray as bridesmaid, who wore a dress of shimmering green, and carried pink carnations. Presley I. Gule was best man. The wedding march was played by Miss Ethel Barker.

WHY MANY PEOPLE SUFFER FROM CONSTIPATION

A Sure and Safe Relief.

Constipation is most often caused by a torpid liver or failure of the stomach and bowels to perform their proper functions. The condition is commonly due at first to irregular habits of living and improper food, and if properly treated can be readily relieved. It is, however, too often aggravated and made chronic by the use, as a medicine, of powerful and expensive drugs, which purge and perhaps give temporary relief, but are so dramatic in effect as to damage the tender lining of the stomach and bowels, leaving a condition worse than at first.
This can, however, be avoided, and the bowels gently and thoroughly opened by the use of Nature's own remedy—the famous Mineral Laxative Water—HUNYADI JANOS—which has been relieving suffering mankind all over the world for nearly half a century. One dose, half a tumblerful, drunk on arising in the morning (slightly warmed for best results) will, within an hour, bring a delightful and refreshing relief. A whole bottle costs but a trifle, and it is best to keep one always on hand. Every Druggist keeps it.
