

SAYS SENATOR FORCED MATTERS

Page Claims Sutherland Threw Him Out of Office to Satisfy Obligation.

WAS ASSURED PROTECTION

ASSERTS SPRY DID NOT ACT OF HIS OWN ACCORD.

From the stories which are being told about the city by friends of Howard S. Page, ex-deputy United States marshal, and from the assertions of Mr. Page himself, his dismissal from the office of Marshal Spry was due wholly to Senator Sutherland, and was made in order to satisfy a personal obligation of the senator.

At the time Page was appointed, or rather, reappointed, according to his statements, the trouble began. This was on Feb. 15, of this year, and at that time the junior senator asked Spry to appoint Riley. This, as claimed by Page, was in order to satisfy an obligation under which Senator Sutherland rested because of the fact that Riley had taken care of the senator's father at a time, the elder Sutherland living at the Riley home.

The marshal refused to make the appointment, however, and gave Page the place instead. The events, as they are narrated by Page and his supporters, followed in quick succession, and dated from the return from Washington of Senator Sutherland, about the middle of July. He at once, so it is claimed, took up the agitation of Riley's appointment, and made strenuous efforts to have Page thrown out. Page, in a conversation with Marshal Spry on July 5, was assured by the marshal that his position was safe, the marshal saying at that time that, inasmuch as he had permitted the senators to appoint his chief deputy, he felt that he should have the position of Senator Sutherland.

Riley Gets Appointment. Riley was appointed by the marshal to take Page's place, and the appointment was on July 20, sent to the attorney general's office for approval. At this time a protest signed by several prominent Republicans was also sent the attorney general's office, asking that Page be retained because of several prominent Republicans who were thoroughly qualified for the duties of the office. This, according to the friends of the deposed deputy, caused the appointment of Riley. Attorney General Charles W. Russell, it was next taken up by Acting Attorney General C. H. Robb, who directed the marshal to take no action until the return of the attorney general. Then, upon the return of Moody, the matter was taken up by the attorney general, early in October, told friends of Riley that he was going to Washington and that he would "fix" the matter all right.

Finish of Mr. Page. On Oct. 11, Charles S. Easterling, examiner in the department of justice, arrived in Salt Lake, and immediately went into consultation with Marshal Spry. After this consultation, the inspector went against him it would be better to resign and keep his record clear. This Page refused to do. On Oct. 12, the examiner in affidavit from Page and others, and on the evening of Oct. 14 he left the city. On Oct. 15, the telegram came approving Riley's appointment. When this was received, Marshal Spry went to Page and asked the deputy if he would resign. This Page again refused to do, saying that he preferred to be dismissed. He was accordingly dismissed, and Marshal Spry replied to this, so it is claimed, "Well, I don't blame you."

Mr. Page asserts that the whole matter was forced by Senator Sutherland, and that the marshal was in a measure coerced into acting against his own wishes in the matter. Mr. Riley takes up active duties this morning, and, so far as indications go now, will be continued in office.

WORTH A MILLION DOLLARS

Mohawk Lessees Will Signalize Expatriation of Their Lease by Rich Shipment.

Goldfield, Nev., Oct. 18.—The closing hours of the Hayes & Monette lease on the Mohawk will be signalized by the shipment of the richest carload of ore ever shipped from a mine. It will contain in the neighborhood of thirty tons, valued at $1,000,000. For the past month the lessees have been sacking rich sylvanite ore at the rate of from 300 to 1,000 pounds a day. The ore is stored in a bank vault for safe keeping and enough has been accumulated to insure the shipment. Seven leases on the Mohawk have the same class of auriferous rock, and the capacity of the bank vaults were built for this purpose is being severely taxed. Another rich strike was made last night in the Frances Mohawk lease, and the leasing company will declare the second dividend in a few days. It will probably be for 25 cents a share.

Goldfield, Nev., Oct. 18.—Hayes and Monette, leasing on the Mohawk mine, are preparing to make a shipment that will lead to the world's record. For several days the mine has been sacking from 300 to 1,000 pounds of ore a day that will run $1,000 per ton. When this shipment is made it is designed to grade it so that it will surpass by nearly 100 per cent the best single shipment of ore ever heard of in mining history. The Hayes-Monette lease expires on the 1st of January and this week the management augmented its equipment of air drills. Twelve drills of the best pattern are now digging out ore at a tremendous rate. Hayes and Monette broke a record in a shipment of this machinery. They hired a special train in Denver consisting of an engine, caboose and freight car and paid the railroads $200 per ton. This machinery is being shipped to the mine. The Southern Pacific made it the second section of their overland limited and it came through immediately behind the flyer and reached Goldfield three days after its start from Denver. Freight from Denver usually takes about three weeks to reach Goldfield and by this saving in time Hayes and Monette calculate they made not less than a half million dollars.

NEWS BURGLARIES AT KAYSVILLE

Three Buildings Entered but Little of Value Taken—Probably Work of One Man.

Kaysville, Oct. 17.—Burglars were at work in Kaysville last night, and between midnight and this morning effected entrance into three buildings and made good their escape. The Oregon Short Line depot, the Kaysville Milling office and Stewart-Burton Co.'s store were visited, but at none of these places was any great amount of plunder taken, as far as could be ascertained today. The lock was broken from the freight room of the Short Line depot and some cracker boxes and hoops of cheese were taken. The money drawer and ticket cases were untouched and some articles of value in the office were un molested. At the Milling company's office the vault was not opened, only the desk having been tampered with, and no money was found there. Stewart-Burton Co.'s store was some shoes, tan colored, size No. 9, and saunter gloves, half hosiery, pocket knives and possibly some articles of value. Entrance here was forced by the aid of a jimmy. The safe had been opened and rifled, but nothing of great value was taken from it.

In connection with the burglary it developed this evening that County Treasurer George H. Blood had an experience last evening with the fellow who did the work. Mr. Blood was collecting taxes at Bountiful yesterday and after completing his day's collections took the Salt Lake & Ogden train for Farmington. A man boarded the train with him at Bountiful and bought a ticket for Layton, the terminus of the dummy line. When Mr. Blood alighted at Farmington to go to the court house, carrying his briefcases and tax rolls, the fellow left the train also. One hour later Mr. Blood took the Short Line train at Farmington to come to his home in Kaysville. He was surprised to see the same man step on the train after him and take a seat opposite to him in the car. At Kaysville the man followed Mr. Blood off the train and kept close to him as both walked up town. The county treasurer prepared to defend himself if necessary, expecting every moment to be held up by the stranger, but fortunately a number of people were on the street and no opportunity for an attempted hold-up occurred. What connects this man with the last night's burglaries is the fact that foot marks which he walked toward the train at Farmington correspond exactly with those found near the scenes of the burglaries. Mr. Blood has placed a good description of the man with Sheriff Ware, who is working on the case.

FIRE WORKS DESTRUCTION

Sparks From Thresher Destroy Grain Stacks, Corral, Etc.—Loss Upwards of $700.

Mr. Pleasant, Oct. 18.—Hans J. Brown, a well-known farmer of this city, has suffered losses of grain, etc., by fire twice during the past week. A spark from a threshing machine engine, which was at work in Mr. Brown's field, fell on one of the stacks and set it on fire. It burned until the stack, which was valued at about $300, was destroyed by fire or smoke. It was supposed the fire was extinguished, but a couple of days later it was fanned into life again by a heavy windstorm and before it had been controlled had destroyed grain, corral, etc., to the value of between $300 and $400, or over $700 in all. This amount represents the big end of Mr. Brown's income from his farm this year.

The first public move in the campaign proper for this part of the state will be made next week by Congressman Joseph Howell, who is to speak in all the larger towns. He will leave on the 22nd of Tuesday and will go to neighboring places the following nights. Mr. Howell will be accompanied by a speaker who will assist him in entertaining the people who come out to his meetings, but the name of the latter has not yet been given out. In yesterday's Herald appears a statement to the effect that the Australian thistle, a weed which is very harmful to farms, where it makes its appearance, has made its appearance in Washington county and that it was not known to exist in any other locality in the state. The weed has been gradually making its appearance in this county for nearly five years and now lines the railroad tracks and many places and is also to be seen along sand ridges and in other localities where conditions are favorable to its growth. It was brought here in cars which had come direct from fields where the weed grows and into which the seed had grown and was scattered along the tracks so far it has been kept generally close to the tracks, but a little spread is noticeable.
