THE METALS. Silver, 69 1/2c per ounce. Copper (castings), 23 1/2c per pound.

PROVO'S CITY OFFICIALS.

Because they have enforced the health ordinances of the city which they are sworn to obey, the mayor and marshal of Provo have been made the subject of anonymous abuse.

There is another point to the controversy: Provo could get no worse advertising than agitation against health ordinances.

The ordinances which have been the subject of protest by anonymous objectors are doubtless needed or they would not have been passed.

Commenting on the copper market, the New York Commercial notes the unusual fact that on the day after Christmas, when all markets are supposed to be at the lowest ebb of the year, the price of the red metal advanced to 24 cents for lake.

A year ago in the same market the price was 19 cents and the conservative buyers predicted the limit would be reached at 20.

In the nature of things the rapid and heavy advance in price is bound to restrict the use of the metal and a slight reaction would occasion no surprise.

Our subterranean contemporary, which fought vigorously and more or less viciously for the election of Thompson, now describes the mayor as "a mayor who, however honest, has his own private business to look after, and who can at best devote only a little of his time to public business."

The unprecedented demand for copper is due in large part to the use of electricity on transportation lines, the extension of telephone and telegraph systems, the extensive utilization of electric power in machinery installation and the growing tendency to replace steam power with current wherever possible.

Street Supervisor Raleigh is probably glad it stormed; he has another excuse now for doing nothing.

minish because the advantages of electric operation in every direction are only beginning to be appreciated.

THE ONLY PRESIDENT.

Apparently if some people could have their way, Theodore Roosevelt would be president of the United States throughout the balance of his natural life.

Seems to us that is rather laying it with a trowel for Roosevelt and taking it off with a steam shovel for the country.

To say that the elimination of Roosevelt from national affairs—in the turn of the wheel of politics, of course—would be an invitation to "national disorder" is to state an absolute absurdity.

Finally, Mr. Roosevelt will not be true to his solemnly spoken pledge if he accepts another presidential nomination.

POSTOFFICE SALARIES.

Business men familiar with the public service will not be surprised to read that the postoffice department is having trouble in securing and retaining competent employes because the pay is too small.

It is no exaggeration to say that postoffice employes, railway mail clerks and others in responsible positions get much less money than they could earn with the same exertion elsewhere.

Obviously there can be only one of two alternatives: the government will have to pay what its work is worth or depend upon a poorer class of men than it can well afford to employ.

Our subterranean contemporary, which fought vigorously and more or less viciously for the election of Thompson, now describes the mayor as "a mayor who, however honest, has his own private business to look after, and who can at best devote only a little of his time to public business."

Did your good resolutions last year all through the first two days of the year? Have you learned to write it 1907 yet?
