Bill Squires is Next Says Mike

Small Twin Wires Big Twin to Post $1,000 for Match With Australian.

"Good boy Jack, post $1,000 immediately for first fight with Bill Squires. You can beat him as easily as you did Palmer. If you get your money up he will have to meet you first."

The above dispatch sent to Los Angeles yesterday morning by Mike Twin Sullivan to his brother Jack who tried to get Jack Palmer, the English heavyweight in short order on Tuesday night. Mike thinks his brother is the victor and thinks his victor will force some of the men in the middleweight and light heavyweight class to leave him from now on. Squires is to be in America soon and Mike believes that if Jack has his first fight with Squires he will be the first to get a cross at the Australian. Mike then figures with the English and Australian heavyweight title attached to his name. Brother Jack will be forced to force all the claimants for the heavyweight title in America to do business with him.

Girls are Whole Thing

Take the Lead in Basketball at Marysville—Have Well Organized League.

Marysville, Utah, has a bad case of the basketball fever. In this case, however, it is the girls and not the boys who are the experts at shooting goals into the steel rimmed basket from the playing field. A well known local basketball enthusiast, without thought of a well organized basketball league, composed of three uniformed girls' teams, are now engaged playing off a series of games for the championship. Miss Lucy Wilson is the league president. The girls have been fortunate in securing Miss Cora Wilcox as a coach, who has had experience in coaching girls' basketball teams in the middle west. Miss Wilcox says the Utah girls have a big margin over any team she has ever seen playing the game.

London Failures.

London, March 27.—Two failures were announced yesterday in connection with the banks there accounts to be of any importance from the market point of view. The two in all that have failed are decidedly more cheerfully Americans fully responded to yesterday's sharp advance in New York. No serious trouble is anticipated. The action of the secretary of the Treasury Cortelyou in relieving the money situation in New York by opposing in London three customs revenue bonds to the extent of $15,000, has proved of international value. Business is still restricted. Attention is mostly taken up with the conclusion of the settlement. Americans opened a good deal above parity and advanced from the start. There was a slight reaction at the start, but it was only fractional. Consols were firm at 85 1/2, with an improving tendency.

SITUATION GROWS WORSE Hundreds of People Killed in Wallachia in Battles Between Peasants and People. Berlin, March 27.—According to the Czernowitz correspondent of the Lokal Anzeiger, the situation in Wallachia grew worse yesterday. The number of persons killed daily is growing enormously. Three hundred persons have been killed in an encounter between peasants and the military at Stareskie, and there have been two bloody battles at Nastanesti, in one of which Lieutenant Jonisou was killed. The peasants tore the body of the lieutenant to pieces and danced around the bloody remnants to wild music. Similar atrocities are reported from the districts of Dimbrovitz and Dolji, where numerous villages and farms have been burned down. The longshoremen are fraternizing with the peasants. The number of Galatz has ordered all the shops closed for three days and the people are in a wild panic.

REWARD FOR THE TRAIN WRECKERS

Several Attempts to Precipitate Horrible Disasters on the Pennsylvania Road.

LARGE SUM IS OFFERED LATEST OUTRAGE OCCURRED NEAR WILMERDING, PA.

Philadelphia, March 27.—The Pennsylvania railroad announces that it will pay a reward of $2,500 for the names of the persons who plotted the wreck of the train on the Pennsylvania road near Wilmerding, Pa., on March 25. The company also offers a reward of $2,500 for the arrest and conviction of the persons responsible for the derailment of the Chicago limited at Stewart last week.

Pittsburg, March 27.—Train No. 20 on the Pennsylvania railroad, known as the Keystone express, eastbound, was derailed near Wilmerding, Penn., fourteen miles east of here, today. The engine, two mail cars and a combination baggage and smoker left the track, but no one was hurt.

It is believed that the train was intentionally derailed and that the deed was done by the same parties who wrecked the Chicago limited at Stewart last Friday. The same plan was carried out and only the slow moving freight train was wrecked (an hour), saved it from turning turtle, diving over a steep bank and crushing out a number of lives. The work of the perpetrators was thorough, and in this their evil intent is shown, for both the east-bound and westbound tracks were derailed with, one rail joint on each track being displaced within a few rods of each other. Had the train been loaded with passengers, the most terrible tragedy would have been a frightful collision.

Following the derailment of the coaches the passengers rushed out in their night clothes. When they discovered there was no immediate danger they returned to the train and waited until the wreck was made under the circumstances.

The officials at Pittsburg were notified and a special train was quickly made up and rushed out to the scene of the accident. The passengers upon the derailed cars were transferred to this train and sent east.

Revenge or Robbery. Railroad detectives promptly started an investigation and the announcement was made that the derailed train was undoubtedly the work of train wreckers, whether for revenge or robbery was not known.

As in the case of the Chicago limited, the same methods were used. The spikes, bolts and fish plates from an entire rail had been removed and the rail turned inward on tracks Nos. 1 and 2, and the main tracks east and west. Nearly was a track wrench and a pair of gloves, while in the creek below a chair, nuts, bolts and the like were found.

It is supposed the tools were obtained by breaking open a company chest. A man named Bruce was engaged in the insurance and brokerage business. He was about 70 years of age. He is survived by a widow and four daughters, Mrs. R. H. Rickard, Charlotte Parks and Mary Parks, and one son, Walter S. Parks. He had amassed a comfortable fortune during his lifetime.

Wreck on a Curve. The scene of the wreck is at a sharp curve on the outside rail. The outside rail held against the grinding of the heavy train and prevented the whole train from plunging over a forty foot embankment. The two rail joints were not more than twenty-five feet apart and it is stated that had a train of the engine and track come along it would certainly have crashed over the embankment. This would have probably happened had the engine and cars not been derailed.

In trying to locate the missing fish-plates, the railroad men were frustrated by the fact that the rails had been fixed tightly between the two rails that had been dis-jointed. The purpose of this was to prevent the interruption of the electric current caused by the breaking of the binding wires, which would have set the signals to danger before the engine could reach the wrecking point.

The westbound rails had been similarly fixed. The alleged wreckers had adopted the same method of connecting the rails by black signal and the discovery caused the officials much concern, as it meant that the wreckers are men experienced in signal matters.

STRIKE IN SWITZERLAND. Lausanne, Switzerland, March 27.—The general strike of the strikers in a chocolate factory at Vevey is extending. All trades are joining in the movement and numerous exciting scenes have occurred. The strikers at Montreux attempted to cut the electric wires and marched in procession through the streets with red flags. They were dispersed by troops.

HERO OF HUNDRED HOLD-UPS IS DEAD IN SAN FRANCISCO. Charlie Parks, Intrepid Pony Express of Pioneer Days, Succumb--Remembered in Salt Lake.

Special to The Herald. San Francisco, March 27.—One of the picturesque characters of the pioneer days of the West was Charlie E. Parks. He died at his home, No. 1138 O'Farrell street, in this city, in the early '60s. Parks was a pony express rider in Utah, Nevada and California. For a time he rode into and out of Salt Lake City. Afterwards he was a member of Wells-Fargo's corps of armed messengers. As such he engaged in numerous battles with road agents and was often grievously wounded. It is said that he bore more bullet scars on his body than any man in California. He had made San Francisco his home for half a century and was engaged in the insurance and brokerage business. He was about 70 years of age. He is survived by a widow and four daughters, Mrs. R. H. Rickard, Charlotte Parks and Mary Parks, and one son, Walter S. Parks. He had amassed a comfortable fortune during his lifetime.

Charlie Parks was one of the eighty pony express riders who served Salt Lake City during the early '60s. Many of the old-time residents of this city recall the name well, but as Parks was not so well remembered as some of the other riders, it is not so well remembered as some of the other riders. Captain Thomas Dobson, of Centerville, says he recalls the fact that Parks was regarded as one of the most capable and faithful men of the western division. Parks' work was chiefly performed in Nevada and California, where he became famous for his daring courage and loyalty.

The death of Parks brings to mind the stirring times when the pony express was the swiftest of all things in these regions. The first of the riders to reach Salt Lake City arrived here on April 7, 1860; he carried letters four days old from Sacramento. The first mail from the east by pony express came on April 8, and service was inaugurated on April 9 simultaneously at Sacramento and St. Joseph. Between St. Joseph and Sacramento eighty riders were constantly on the road, forty going in one direction and forty in the other. The 1300 miles were covered in eight days, or at the rate of 250 miles a day. The stage coaches covered the distance in from fifteen to sixteen days. The pony express service had 600 of the swiftest horses obtainable continuously at work.

Tribute to the Riders. Samuel L. Clemens (Mark Twain) pays a deserved tribute to the pony express riders in his delightful work on western life, "Roughing It." He writes: "Think of that perishable horse and human flesh and blood to the pony rider who covered eight days, or at the rate of 250 miles a day. The stage coaches covered the distance in from fifteen to sixteen days. The pony express service had 600 of the swiftest horses obtainable continuously at work."

A Shotgun Messenger. Parks, after the abandonment of the pony express entered the employ of the Wells-Fargo Express company in the capacity of "shotgun messenger." He carried the announcement of the intended introduction in the federal senate of a bill removing the seat of government from this city and establishing it at Carson valley; furthermore changing the name of the "Territory of Utah" to that of "Territory of Nevada."

HOLD-UPS MAKE GOOD HAUL. Line Up Proprietor and Four Customers and Relieve Them of $104. (Special to The Herald.) Bingham Junction, March 27.—A daring and successful hold-up was accomplished last night by two clever professional outlaws wearing masks and with eyes blacked, at George Helbert's saloon, on the corner of Main and Center streets at this place. It was shortly after the smeltermen had started home from the 11 o'clock shift that two thieves boldly entered the front door of Mr. Helbert's saloon and compelled him and four of his customers to throw up their hands. Mr. Helbert was compelled to come from behind the bar and get in line with his customers, who were lined up against the wall. One of the robbers kept two glittering revolvers pointed in the faces of their victims while his pal quietly but quickly relieved the bank of $104 in cash. Their pocket knives, beer chips and what other hardware they had in their pockets. One of the men in the line who desired to show that he was a little braver than the rest of his friends, turned his head and attempted to speak, and for his trouble was slapped in the face with one of the revolvers, which happened to be close to his head. The hold-ups seemed to be well pleased with the amount of booty secured that they overlooked the fact, which happened to be open at the time. Thinking the booty was not completa without refreshments the first helped himself to a bottle of gin, while his partner, who evidently had a liking for whisky, took a bottle of that beverage. After politely bidding their frightened victims good night the two backed out of the saloon and are now busy in keeping out of the way of the sheriff. After catching his breath Mr. Helbert succeeded in reaching the telephone and called up Deputy Sheriff Ira Beekstead, and Neil Anderson, Jr., who came to the rescue in time to find that the crooks had departed for parts unknown. The shorter man was of light complexion, but returned empty handed. A fairly good description of the men was obtained. The taller of the two is about 5 feet 10 inches in height, weighing about 180 pounds, wore a dark sweater, dark suit of clothes, black slouch hat and is about 35 years of age. The shorter man was of light complexion, light hair, about 5 feet 5 inches tall and about 30 years of age. Last Friday night two masked men entered a Greek saloon situated two blocks north of George Helbert's place and gave the proprietor and a number of his fellow countrymen a little scare. Orders were given to throw up their hands, but the bartender felt it safest to duck down behind the counter out of reach of the intruders. The hold-ups thinking that lead would soon begin to fly from behind the counter, backed out of the saloon as the bartender hurried with mighty force a demijohn at them.
