THE FEDERAL IDEA.

Those who had the pleasure of meeting and hearing Secretary Garfield during his brief stay here were interested most in what he had to say about "the federal idea" as evolved by this administration.

If his listeners understood him fully the secretary has little regard for state lines in executive affairs.

The trouble with the president and such spokesmen for him as Mr. Garfield is that they would achieve by executive construction of the constitution what no previous administration has ever dared to do under the constructions set forth by the supreme court of the United States.

It is to be expected that a Republican administration will construe its powers as broadly as possible.

It is to be expected that a Republican administration will construe its powers as broadly as possible. That is a legacy from the days of Hamilton.

The critics of the "federal idea" object to the president's notion that a thing is right because he wishes it, or that it is wrong because he opposes it.

Washington did not find it necessary to criticize a federal court as Roosevelt did in his comment on the decision of Judge Humphrey, because Washington accepted the federal courts as coordinate factors in the administration of government. Washington would have sooner resigned than have suspended a law by executive order.

THE STATE OF LINCOLN.

The Herald has received from the Spokane Chamber of Commerce a pamphlet containing arguments in favor of the creation of the new state of Lincoln.

The carrying out of the plan would certainly bring about the creation of a fine, large, new state. But the question is one in which the outside public is not very deeply interested.

When Idaho was still a territory congress passed a bill slicing off the "panhandle" and giving it to Washington.

The "panhandle" contains a number of rich mines, thousands of acres of splendid agricultural land and such thriving towns as Lewistown, Coeur d'Alene, Sandpoint, Harrison, Wallace, Wardner and others.

And it is quite probable that there might be a protest from Washington. The plan emanates from Spokane, the metropolis of western Washington.

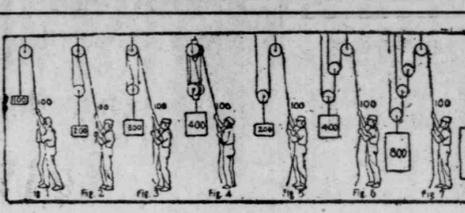

At Wilmington, Del., a statue was unveiled yesterday to the memory of Thomas F. Bayard, who died at the home of his daughter in Dedham, Mass., Sept. 28, 1898.

POWER OF PULLEYS.

FIVE BLOCKS WILL ENABLE A MAN TO LIFT SIXTEEN HUNDRED POUNDS.

(Philadelphia North American.) If you were commanded to lift 1,600 pounds when your normal strength would equal to only 100 pounds, how would you go about it?

How would you increase your strength sixteen times? It can be done easily.

As early as the sixteenth century methods of augmenting power through pulleys was demonstrated.

By the use of four single pulleys you could lift 800 pounds, and with five pulleys 1,600 pounds.

Even the friction of the rope as it passes over the pulleys must be taken into account.

THE LIMERICK CONTEST IN DETROIT.

(Detroit Free Press.) A young woman who lived on Presque Isle Sent and got a new automobile; She ran over a hog And a dog in the fog, You auto hear all of them squeal.

(London Tit-Bits.) "Hello, George! What's everybody crowding in the drawing room for? Have refreshments been announced?"

THE JEWS IN JERUSALEM.

William E. Curtis Tells of Growth of Race in Ottoman Empire.

Although the laws of the Ottoman empire forbid persons of Jewish birth to own property or do business or even live in Palestine, there are between 50,000 and 60,000 of that race resident in Jerusalem, and their number is gradually increasing.

It is very difficult for a Jew to do business in Palestine for this reason. The making money is not liberty to help themselves to anything he has.

During the last fifteen years Jewish families have not been allowed to buy land. They are not allowed to hold property.

THE HUMAN HANDICAP.

(Louisville Courier-Journal.) "The Human Handicap"—A race for all ages. Dates, forces and aye. Start fair for all. Starter—Adam. Jockeys Starter—Eve.

There they go. Ah what a sight, Infant is leading, got the rail, And mother is hugging tight.

Man now forges to the front, Ambition is burning the track; Man is anxious, wants to go, but Fairsex holds him back.

Man is going a terrible clip, with Disappointment at his side; Man is game—he won't give up, Although he's beat, he still has pride.

Man has still a little left, It's plain, though he can't last, for Poor Health is at his heels, and Death is coming fast.

The pace that kills has settled man, He falters, out of breath, And with a ghostly burst of speed Comes the winner—DEATH.

GREAT IS YE HEATHEN.

(Dallas, Tex. News.) She was only a child when I kissed her, When she was a wee, little curly-haired baby.

It wasn't so costly, considering things, though rather a public proceeding, if I owned a heathen with all that he brings I'd see he got all he was needing.

ENTITLED TO HERO MEDALS.

(Chicago Journal.) Among those entitled to a Carnegie medal for bravery, but not awarded one, are: The Ohio Republicans who are supporting Foraker.

COWBOY'S TOBACCO.

United States Laws Play Havoc With the Weird Mixture.

The United States pure food law has played havoc with tobacco smoking in Texas. The life-long habits of the cowboys have been revolutionized by an innocent looking little pamphlet issued recently by the government.

"This will tell you what kind of stuff you have been smoking," Belford took the pamphlet over to the store and glanced through it while his order for ranch supplies was being filled.

"What's the matter of you, Jim? You know I don't keep any of them things on my shelves," he said.

"Oh, yes, you do sell all of them, and you have got them in stock right now," Belford quietly replied.

"What am I going to do with all the stuff I have on hand?" Jennings inquired.

"Judging from the amount of alfalfa I ought to have a good 'cattle feed,'" Belford suggested.

The first thing that attracted Belford's attention that evening when he rode up to his ranch corral was a bunch of his cowboys sitting upon the board walk with a rolled cigar-ette in his mouth and the strings of a tobacco sack hanging out of his hip pocket.

"It's a wonder every one of you, and me along with you, have not been loomed from using arsenic and opium," he continued.

The cowboys were aroused by this time. They demanded to know what he meant by his insults.

"I mean that that tobacco which we all been smoking is 'posely alfalfa, arsenic and opium." "I've got the document here to prove it."

Mr. Belford then read the analysis of the tobacco from his seat in the saddle. When he had finished the cowboys solemnly threw away their cigar-ettes and emptied their sacks of tobacco upon the ground.

COULDN'T STICK HIM AGAIN.

(Philadelphia Record.) A bishop, accosted in Fifth avenue, New York, by a neat but hungry stranger, took the needy one to a hotel and shared a gorgeous dinner with him, yet, having left his Episcopal wallet in the pocket of a different Episcopal jacket, suddenly faced the embarrassment of not possessing the means to pay for it.

SATIRE OF A LOGGER.

(Judge's Library.) In the pine clad hills of California the country folk had gathered at a neighbor's house to spend the evening in social dance.

The male contingent of the gathering was composed of farmers, mill men, and logging hands; the fairer sex, the wives, sisters, and sweethearts of the men, and the district school teacher, who was the center of attraction of the young men, and who seemed to be aware of her own popularity.

THE HUMAN SHIELD.

(Exchange.) The advent of Decoration day caused Adm. Dewey, a recent dinner to praise the bravery of the American troops during the civil war.

JAPANESE COMMANDMENTS.

(Kansas City Star.) Upon her wedding morning the Japanese bride is given twelve commandments by her mother. These twelve rules have been handed down from mother to daughter in Japan for centuries.

When you are married your husband will be your sole master. He humble and polite. Strict obedience to her husband is the noblest virtue a wife can possess.

Always be amiable toward your mother-in-law. Do not be jealous. Jealousy kills your husband's affection for you.

Do not wear bright colored garments. Always be neatly but modestly dressed. Rise early, retire late, and do not sleep in the afternoon.

THE UNLUCKY BROTHER. (Atlanta Constitution.) As a poor, unlucky feller he wuz mighty hard to beat.

He wuz jest the most well meaningest of mortals here below. But we allus struck warm weather when he prophesied for now.

BEAT HIM TO IT. (Houston Post.) "But if you despise him so thoroughly why do you not ignore him and straighten up?"

AT IT AGAIN. (Yonkers Statesman.) He sat upon the river's bank. About ten hours or more, And cast his line into the stream Some distance from the shore.
