THREE WOMEN BEATEN UP. Charles A. White Arrested for Raising a Rough House.

Charles A. White, aged 29, who gave his occupation at the police station as "formerly assistant property man at the Orpheum theatre," was arrested last night at the complaint of most of the inmates of the Fields rooming house on South street for raising a rough house, which may have more serious consequences. The charge on which he is held is assault, but at a late hour one of his victims, Mrs. Maggie Brown, had not recovered consciousness. The injured woman were able to go to the police station and were Mrs. Maggie Davey and Maggie Brown.

White at the station formally accused Theuson of beating him up in return, and showed a torn neck to prove it. This, Theuson, who was busy looking at his individual admits, but says that it was only to preserve the peace on his premises and to protect the women.

For one hour after the occurrence it was impossible to get a doctor for Mrs. Brown, and the rooming house called up failed to respond.
